

ILY Monster 147

Somewhere in Blue City...

The disguised Zaki just arrived in front of a building where Zuzuki Hinari lives when a troublesome scene appeared before him the moment he stepped out of the car. Causing him to nonchalantly crossed his arm and leaned on the car as he watched what was happening.

Two men in black who looks like bodyguards were dragging a girl in her pajamas out of the building. The girl's hair was tied in a messy bun, and she was wearing a black pajama printed with guns and knives. She looked like she just woke up even though it's already passed noontime.

"What's this... miss pervert actually looked like a cute country girl when she's not wearing any make-up huh..." Zaki uttered as his gaze was locked unto her.

"I said, let me go damn it! I don't want to go back in that hellish place! Let me go or you will regret this you ugly punks!" She shouted as she kept struggling. But as if they heard nothing, the two body guards didn't even budge.

The girl seemed to realized right away that there's no point for her struggle. Thus, the next second, she calmed down in an instant.

"Okay, I get it, I'll obediently follow... please just let go of my hand, I'm hurting... please..." the loud and unruly girl a moment ago suddenly switched into a pleasing and charming girl. Her seductive aura even in that state and look of her that moment still blazed like fire easily, causing both the body guards to froze as they looked at her.

That moment, Zaki just smirked as he watched the unfolding show in front of him.

"Not bad, miss pervert. You should at least use that talent of yours for your own good." Zaki uttered as he smiled as though he was currently watching a movie with a satisfying lead, not the typical dumb and useless female protagonist.

"O-okay miss, then please follow us obediently." The guard said while his face turned a bit red before he slowly let go of her hand.

"Thank you," she said with her usual seductive voice and charming teary eyes. Causing the other guard to finally let go of her as well.

After she spoke her fake but realistic thanks to the other body guard, the three of them began to walk towards the car. The other one circled the car and sat on the driver's seat while the other one opened the door for her. Both of the firm men just now seemingly turned into her very own pets.

That point of time, Zaki was about to leap and snatch her away from them when Hinari suddenly touched the body guard's arm instead of entering the car.

"Uhm... mister, can you accompany me in the back seat?" she asked seductively causing the big man to blush again as he nodded immediately.

"Yey! Then let's get in." She said as she looked delighted while she just naturally made the man to enter the car first with ease. The man didn't even suspected anything.

As as soon as the man get in, Hinari instantly slammed the car's door and she immediately dashed away.

That moment, what the girl did made Zaki to simply chuckle.

"Pfft! Haha... This pervert is actually quite smart and dangerous." He said, before he finally moved on his spot to snatch the girl before those two punks could catch her again.

The girl was about to enter the building again when Zaki caught her wrist. She was startled but the moment she saw who just held her, her eyes widened a bit.

"Follow me," he said and he dragged her towards the black car parked on the road side.