

ILY Monster 148

"Follow me," Zaki said and he dragged her towards the black car parked on the road side.

That moment, Hinari didn't hesitate anymore. She just obediently followed the normal looking body guard who suddenly dragged her. She knew that even if she goes back to her apartment and lock herself, those people might just stay in her door until she finally gave up. She knew she can't escape because she can't even see a taxi passing by at the moment. She knew she had no choice but follow him.

Until finally, they entered the car before the body guards reached them.

"Let's go." Zaki said and the driver immediately sped up the car.

As soon as Hinari was sure that no one was following them, she finally heaved a deep sigh of relief.

"So you can also use your perverted talent as a weapon huh... not bad." The man beside her suddenly spoke causing her to finally turn her attention towards him.

Wait... perverted talent? This normal looking...

"So what? Are you jealous of my ability? Want me to teach you the secret of that trick?" She replied with a mischievous voice. Causing Zaki to just smirk.Google search freewebnovel.com

J-jealous? This girl really knows how to mess with anyone huh...

"I don't need that. Anyway, what's going on? Don't tell me you seduced someone's husband again and now his wife wants you dead." He nonchalantly said, trying to get back at her. However, her reaction on his words was completely unexpected.

"Hmm? Why are you asking? Don't tell me Mister normal is actually interested in me." She just replied while her forefinger was already on Zaki's chin.

T-this pervert...

"Back off pervert... I already told you, I'm not interested with perverts." He said but the girl just chuckled.

And the next moment, she knelt on her seat and faced towards him. Zaki looked at her to tell her to sit back properly, but before he could speak, the girl suddenly held his face with both of her hands and made him looked at her in such a really close distance.

"Hmm... Mister normal looking guy, I already told you right? I'm interested with guys who won't fall for my traps. And you just happened to be one of those rare things, even though you only look normal." She said seductively without letting go of Zaki's face.

That moment, Zaki almost get swayed by her words if not for the last words she said.

Even though I only look normal, huh... this girl... and you actually called me a thing?

Zaki's veins in his forehead popped again. But the girl's warm hands in his face were strangely distracting him.

"So you mean... if I fall for your moves, you will back off? Fine, I get it..." Zaki replied and the next second, he held both of her shoulders and he pinned her down on the seat. His super-fast action caught Hinari red-handed that before she knew it, he's already pinning her down while he was on top of her.

Hinari's eyes, widened for the man's unexpected move. Her hands were on his chest and she reflexively tried pushing him away but the man was just rock hard, as though he was an immovable iron wall on top her. That moment, Hinari felt that this man wasn't just a simple body guard at all, he just felt as though he was much greater than that.

This man... he's basically doing this for me to back off and stop teasing him? Interesting... I won't lose to you just like this you know...

"Hmm? So you actually does know how to pin girl's down huh... not bad, not bad... even though you only look normal." She just said will her usual seductive composure, causing Zaki to popped a couple of his veins once again.

T-this girl really is...

"Well, I don't usually treat girls like this... but you're the one who initiated this first..." he said as he moved his face closer to her.

However, while he kept moving, the girl's expression didn't change. She even looked like she's provoking her, as though the words 'can you really do it' was flashing across her eyes. Causing Zaki to popped another vein once again.

And just as he was about to reach her lips, Zaki back off and sat back properly as of nothing happened.

"Pfft! As expected, you really can't do it... are you actually an innocent virgin?" she said as she chuckled while helping herself to sit again when the man retaliated.

"Don't get too ahead of yourself pervert... it's just that..." He paused and glanced at her blankly before he continued. "It's just that... you obviously just woke up and haven't brushed your teeth yet. Just so you know, there're hardened saliva in your cheek."