

ILY Monster 162

That single day, chaos enveloped the entire city of Gyoza. Networks were suddenly disabled and the sole airport was told to be already controlled by rebels. Causing extreme panic for both rich and poor individuals.

Fei and her son along with their three body guards then tried to leave the city by car along with thousands of people trying to flee. However, it was already too late. Within a single day, the city was already captured by the rebels.

After days of trying to find ways to escape, the mother and son were eventually captured.

One of the fighter that captured them recognized princess Fei. So they immediately brought the two of them in their newly established headquarter.

After days of captivity, the mother and son were kept in a certain room as prisoners. They weren't treated badly but because of Fei's fear due to the continuous war unfolding in the borders of the city, her health started crumbling down. Noticing his mother's situation, the seven-year-old Sei started thinking how to help his mother.

Until days went by and the rebels started to notice Sei's exceptional intelligence. One of the leader's subordinate took him and taught him how to hack computers. And in just a matter of few days, the little genius Sei, mastered the science of hacking.

Overwhelming the rebels including their leaders to their deepest core.

Since then, they treated him like a real prince even though he's indeed a real one. They also started treating his mother well, as per his request, giving her everything she needed as well as a personal doctor to check on her health.

Little Sei doesn't want them to touch his mother, and because the rebels knew she's his weakness, they used her to make the boy agree in everything they wanted him to do.

Months went by and Sei learned almost everything about the so called red rebels. They were groups of different people, former soldiers, exiled individuals, rogue scientists, former activists, criminals and people who have extreme hate to the government. And the worse was that, the group were actually backed by various dark organizations and some powerful countries to create chaos and overthrow a certain government of their target. They were never some simple rebels. They were strong and many of them were people with superb skills, both of combat and intelligence. As though they were group of people carefully chosen to form an elite army that was capable enough to take over a big city.

Until eventually, the little prince was forced to join them. The young boy spent his days in front of computers as the group's new ace hacker. Google search freewebnovel.com

He was truly a hacking genius that left the rebels mouth hanged opened many times. Until another year went by and little Sei slowly became one of the world's most dangerous hacker. The boy eventually became one of the group's most important individual. He started hacking the enemy's bases, stealing files and creating chaos within themselves, as ordered by the group's leader. The organizations and the countries backing the Red rebels heard about him and they also started having great interest in him. Ordering everyone in the group to protect him at all cost and never to displease him.

They nurtured him, turning him into a powerful human weapon. They gave everything he asked. The only wish they never granted was his wish to let his mother go back home. Well, the leader was aware what kind of mind the young boy has. They knew that the moment they sent his mother home, they can never control him anymore.

The young boy Sei also started joining the combat training of some of the few skilled young teens the group recruited in the city. He was physically exceptional but the training was gruesome. They trained them how to fight and kill. The leader urged him not to join the training for fear that he might just injure himself but the boy was determined and he doesn't listen to anybody else.

Until eventually, the civil war in country H has spread widely and various countries joined the war to drive away the red rebels. Due to that, as per order from the mastermind behind the red rebels, Sei and his mother were secretly transported to a certain secret base in the northern mountainous district of the neighboring country X.
