

ILY Monster 218

By the time Davi pushed the door, her eyes immediately zoomed in towards the man standing like a frozen statue. He was oozing with dark aura filled with extremely negative emotions. He looked terrible that anyone could feel terrorized just by looking at him.

However, that moment, Davi didn't feel any fear at all. Looking at him like that made her heart sunk with worry and she just ran towards him.

Sei on the other hand finally noticed the approaching footsteps so he raised his head. His eyes were dreadful. He looked exactly like a chained godly looking yet terrifying demon.

His aura turned extremely murderous as his eyes glimmered in the dim lit room. But the moment his eyes recognized the person walking closer to him, time seemed to stand still. The bloodlust, rage and severe worry inside him were like dark fogs that were forced to freeze in air.

That moment, Davi just jumped into his embrace. She didn't know why but she suddenly felt exhausted. She felt like all she wanted to do is hug him like that and feel his comfortable warmth.

After a long while, like a drained battery that was finally fully recharged, Davi pulled away and stared at the man.

"I'm home." She said with a wide smile and Sei finally snapped. He blinked and the negative emotions around him a while ago disappeared into existence. It was as if the horrifying dragon immediately sunk into a newborn little adorable mythical being.

Sei's gaze just locked into her face for a while before he finally moved. He stepped forward to embrace her but the handcuff stopped him.

Sei's aura started going berserk the moment he realized that he was still cuffed when Davi gasped.

"Ahh! I almost forgot. I have the key." She said and she immediately uncuffed him. And as soon as the handcuff was removed, Sei embraced her as tight as he could before he held her shoulders and made her look at him.

"Are you alright? Are you hurt? Did they hurt you?" He asked worriedly while his emotion was mixed with rage as though he was ready to kill an entire race the moment she said that they hurt her.

Looking at him, Davi couldn't help but feel the chilling emotion in his eyes. Thus, the next moment, her hand landed on his cheek and she pinched him.

She pulled his skin but the man just remained speechless. Due to his lack of reaction, Davi raised his other hand and pinched his other cheek. Davi was trying to calm him, she wanted to dissolve the killing intent in his eyes before she will utter a word.

However, still, Sei seemed unaffected. His eyes were still looking intent as ever and it surprised Davi. Well, he used to be easily swayed every time Davi does this kind of thing to him so Sei being unaffected like that was definitely a shock to her.

Due to that, Davi suddenly pulled his face towards him. Their faces were now just an inch apart. They both stared at each other's eyes and their lips were about to collide when Davi suddenly turned her face aside before she sneezed.

Sei on the other hand was stunned to a moment before he could speak.

"Are you alright?" he asked and Davi who was still holding his face looked at him.

"I wanted to kiss you, but, I think I caught a cold. I'm afraid it will be transmitted to you." She said as she playfully chuckles while her hand landed on his hair.

However, what Sei said the next second left her extremely dumbfounded and her hand ruffling his hair froze in place.

"I don't mind. I want to catch your cold." He said and Davi choked.
