

ILY Monster 219

I want to catch your cold...

I want to catch your cold...

I want to catch your cold...

Sei's voice rang over and over again within Davi's brain. She was literally dumbstruck that she struggled to find a word to say. All she could do that moment was cough while her face just turned red like ripe tomato. Well, shameless Sei is attacking again and Davi wasn't used to him being like that at all. Please visit

However, the moment Davi raised her face and looked at him, the reddened color of her face began to fade. It was because as she looks at him, she realized that Sei's shameless words didn't match his expressions at all. There was no trace of anything like lust reflecting in his eyes. His breathtakingly gorgeous eyes were filled with nothing but worry and pure concern. It was as if he wasn't actually saying those so he could kiss her, instead, he was just saying it because he wanted her cold to be transmitted to him so she doesn't need to suffer anymore.

Realizing that his words were somewhat misleading, Davi decided to bravely confirm if what she observed was indeed right.

"Are you saying that it's totally fine for you to catch my cold as long as you could kiss me?" she asked, straight as ever. Well, part of her quite high leveled bravery might because she's starting to feel hot due to her cold. However, what Sei replied to her made her even more dumbfounded.

"Mm. I wanted to kiss you and I don't want you to get sick." He said and Davi felt like her lips were zipped forcefully.

What?! So you mean you're actually being truly shameless and innocently worried at the same time? God, when did he leaped to this level? How could he attack me shamelessly and innocently all at once? Ahh... If he continues being like this and he turn even more shameless...

Davi reflexively covered her mouth because of the things that were running in her head. She can't help but imagine scenes where Sei was being more shameless towards her and it made her felt completely at the losing end. She also thought that if Sei will learn to use his cuteness while being shameless, Davi could only imagine the possibility of her dear self fainting and even having series of nose bleeds. And her wild imagination didn't stop there, the adorable chibi Sei shamelessly asking for a deep and passionate kiss appeared in her head and she immediately gave in. That moment, realizing that she has zero tolerance when it comes to Sei using his adorableness as his ultimate weapon, she could only think that the only way to handle him when he's like that was to raise her white flag and nothing more.

Meanwhile, Sei who's been waiting for her reply was again feeling troubled the moment his dear wife covered her mouth. Well, he remembered what happened in the park when she covered her face after he kissed her and he couldn't help but wonder if she actually disliked the idea of him doing bold moves on her.

Moreover, for some reason, the words Zaki told him echoed in his brain.

'Listen Sei, sometimes, girls actually like it when their man is being shameless. Your wife was just embarrassed... if you don't believe me just do some shameless move on her again and see her reaction for yourself...'

That moment, Sei stared at his wife intently. Sei never wanted to displease her, he never wanted to do anything that could sadden her that's why he's always doing his best to learn about the things she likes as well as the things she hates. However, when it comes to these things, Sei was having a hard time figuring out the real meaning of her actions. And just as Zaki said, he thought that the only way for him to know was do the deed and then, ask sincerely. Besides, he thought that what the famous saying said wasn't senseless, you will never know unless you try.

Thus, the next moment, Sei started moving. He held her hand making the girl to snap. She stared back at him and the two gazed deeply at each other's eyes. But after a short while, Davi was the first to avert her gaze.

"Ahh... I forgot to return this coat." She suddenly said as soon as her gaze fell on the coat that was still draped on her. That moment, Sei's eyes also fell on the coat she was talking about and his face immediately turned unbelievably sour that he unknowingly let go of her hand. Well, he recognized that it was Zaki's coat and he felt amazingly jealous even though he knew he was supposed to be thankful towards Zaki.

"I'll go return this first okay?" She then continued as she started walking away. She started opening the door when suddenly, Sei grabbed the coat on her before he slammed his palm on the door to close it again.

That moment, Davi's eyes turned wide with surprise. She stared at his hand on the door before she slowly turned. However, the moment she faced him, she gasped.
