

ILY Monster 226

Last night...

Sei who just came back from his study room, quietly entered their room. He leaned towards the door for a while and stared at the ring in his hand before he returned it inside a small white colored box. He walked towards the coat rack and slipped the box on his coat.

Afterwards, Sei walked closer towards his sleeping wife and sat at the edge of the bed. He reached out his hand and gently landed his palm on her forehead and the moment he felt that her temperature finally returned to normal, Sei heaved a deep sigh of relief. He then gently caressed her cheeks gently and stared at her for a long while before he finally laid beside her.

Couple of hours went by and the sleeping Sei awakened. It was because, for some reason, he felt like he was being somewhat suffocated. Sei opened his eyes when he felt that his wife's arms were wrapped around his head tightly, as though she was grasping a certain valuable ball of treasure that she will never let go even if she's fast asleep. Well, Sei has gotten used to her wild sleeping habit so he wouldn't wonder anymore on how she ended up above his head this time.

However, the moment Sei realized that his face was brushing against something soft, his heart started fluttering uncontrollably like never before. Well, he finally realized that the reason why he's feeling like he was being suffocated was because his face was actually buried in...

Her chest.

That moment, Sei reflexively moved his head away when suddenly, the girl pulled his head back and pressed his face towards her bosom. Causing Sei's mind to immediately went numb as though his system just experienced as lethal breakdown.

Sei remained motionless as his brain still couldn't function while his heart continued beating like drum. His body's temperature dramatically risen and the longer he felt the soft, warm and squeeze parts of her chest pressing against his face, the indescribable sensation he's feeling started driving him mad. Sei could hardly breathe, but his feelings and desire started clouding his already immobilized rationality while a certain unruly part of his body kept getting harder than ever before.

The next moment, Sei's hand started moving. He slowly landed it on her waist and then into her hand that was clasping firmly around his head. However, before Sei could start holding her hand, without any warning, the girl suddenly let go of him and she rolled away before the back of her hand suddenly landed hard on his face. The impact of her hand basically slapping his face startled the frozen Sei and he finally snapped.

He then raised his hand and lifted his mask as he sat. Afterwards, he reached out his hand and took his other mask and by the time he wore it, he turned on the light.

Sei turned towards her and the girl was soundly sleeping without any care in the world. She was lying on her back, her left arm stretched up above her head and her right arm -the one that landed on his face- was stretched wide.

That point of time, Sei still couldn't calm down. And the moment his gaze fell into her lips, Sei suddenly stood and he walked towards the door and hastily stepped out. He leaned on the wall and chanted the words 'calm down' multiple times as he breathed deep. However, when he felt like nothing was working, he walked towards his study room and went straight towards the bathroom.

...

Moments later, the man came out and walked towards the sleeping Zaki. Well, Sei felt like his body was betraying himself and realizing that his feelings and desire are getting crazily out of control, he decided not to return in their room.

However, when the words 'you're going to leave your wife alone?' came out of Zaki's mouth, Sei felt somewhat guilty and sad. Thus, he could only return to their room.

Sei opened the door slowly and by the time he reached the bed, he was amazed by her position again. The girl's head was about to bump on the headboard and her pillow was already arranged vertically as she slept like a starfish monopolizing the bed. Please visit freeweavenovel.com

Watching her, Sei moved and lifted her. He arranged the pillow before he laid her in a comfortable position. But the moment he was about to remove his hand that was wrapped around her back, the girl suddenly called out his name.

"Sei..." she uttered while her eyes were closed. That moment, Sei halted in place and even though he knew that she was sleep talking or maybe she's in the middle of a dream, he still replied.

"Mm. I'm here." He replied softly as he lifted his hand and brushed the hair strands on her face. Sei's eyes started glimmering with gorgeous lights as he looked at her. He couldn't describe the heartwarming sensation that he's feeling knowing the fact that she was calling his name even when she's asleep.

That moment, Sei smiled, not expecting that the next moment, he will experience another wave of pink thunderbolts hitting him mercilessly.

"I love you, Sei. Sso... much..." she uttered and Sei's eyes turned wide while time seemed to stop. And before he knew it, his lips were already crashing into hers, as though the kiss was his reflexive reply to her words.

Sei closed his eyes and continued kissing her, gently and passionately. Until suddenly, the girl kissed him back with sloppy kisses. Sei knew that she seemed to be dreaming that's why she's kissing him back and yet he couldn't stop himself anymore. His hand slowly landed below her ears as he continued kissing her deeper and deeper. His desire slowly overtaken him but the moment his lips was about to land on her nape, a soft and solemn voice reached his ears and he halted in place.

"Sei... let me see... your face..." she said and like a fire extinguished with icy waves, Sei felt like he's body drastically weakened.