

ILY Monster 227

Sei who was in the middle of thinking about what happened last night suddenly snapped back to the present the moment Davi gently touched his cheek.

"Are you alright? Aren't you're skin a bit too reddish?" she asked as she looked at him with curious eyes when Sei immediately spoke somewhat defensively.

"I'm fine. I'm fine. I'm alright." He replied and Davi could only tilt her head as she kept staring at him. Well, that moment, Davi felt something a bit different from him since she woke up. It was because Sei suddenly kept averting his gaze away from her like a little shy teenage boy.

Of course, Davi found his shy expression cute, however, she somehow felt strange that Sei who always kept gazing at her eyes was now seemed to be avoiding eye contact. Davi couldn't help but felt that there might be something that was bothering him, however, she could only shook her head. Well, she doesn't want to think too much about it because of the thought that she might have been misunderstanding him again. Making her to decide to ignore his strange action for now and just smile at him.

"Okay, time to eat." She then said and the first thing she did was stabbed a sliced apple using her fork and lifted it near his mouth.

"Say ahh..." she uttered and Sei fell speechless. Well, Davi was trying to return the favor. She wanted to pamper him too even for a little that she even thought that if she could, she also wanted him to feel the things she felt when he was the one who was feeding her.

Thus, the next moment, Davi started trying to think about what she could do to look as adorable as him and make him felt like he's being attacked lethally by her.

However, ideas seemed to left her head and she couldn't think about anything. She also realized that she can't actually compete with him. Simply because Sei wasn't even aware that every single thing he does were naturally adorable without him even trying.

Thus, that moment, Davi gave up the idea of acting cute before him. However, she's still determined to at least feed him. Hence, she proceeded anyway and moved the fork closer to his mouth.

Sei on the other hand was actually avoiding her gaze for real. Well, his reason was because, he was feeling kind of guilty. The thought that he actually stole kisses from her and almost lost control even though she's asleep and without her consent made him felt like he did something really bad to her. Furthermore, the fact that he actually lied to her for the first time made him felt like he just committed a crime. That point of time, Sei realized that the act of lying towards his wife no matter how simple or severe it is was never a good idea. It was because to him, lying is the same as betraying her trust. And to an ever so honest man like him, he considered his own actions as impolite and it was a big deal.

Due to that, Sei started thinking about what he should do when Davi suddenly talked.

"Sei, look at me." She said with a gentle yet somewhat authoritative voice. Causing Sei to immediately return his gaze towards her. And the moment their eyes met, like a certain perverted little playboy picking up girls on the street, the girl suddenly winked at him seductively sexy as she continued speaking.

"Sei my love, say ahh..." she continued and in that instant, Sei's spirit almost left him.

That moment, Sei froze really hard and his brain suffered another intense breakdown, causing him unable to react at all.

Moments went by and Davi slowly took back her hand. Well, the absence of reaction or movement from him for a long while made her thought that her move was an utter failure. Thus, the girl averted her gaze away and quietly nibbled the apple like a disappointed to herself little white bunny.

Meanwhile, Zaki who just entered the dining room because of a call Sei needed to receive halted in place the moment he realized something that seemed a little bit off. He stared at the couple sitting across each others and his brows knitted. His eyes fell towards a certain lifeless statue and then towards a certain gloomy little bunny and his eyes widened in disbelief. Well, Zaki who was used seeing the couple always surrounded with flowers, sugar and loving gazes no matter what the situation they're into couldn't believe the quiet and a little bit gloomy atmosphere around them.

Oho... what's this? What's this? Isn't this quite rare? These two actually aren't exuding pink flowers all over? Wait... Are these two finally having their first fight ever?! Seriously?!
