

ILY Monster 230

By the time Zaki and the butler-in-disguise returned, the couple were already waiting for them outside the house.

Upon seeing the old man, Davi's eyes widened.

"Ahh! Grandpa!" she yelled and she immediately ran towards him. Leaving both Zaki and Sei speechless and astonished, looking at each other as though they were both repeating the word, 'grandpa?' in their heads.

"Oh, it's been a long time Young Miss. How have you been?" the old man asked with a pleasant smile, as though in an instant, he just became a completely different person from his usual domineering self.

Looking at the old man's expression and his amazingly kind way of talking to her, the two men just looked at each other again. But of course, the one who was surprised the most was Sei. It was because he didn't expect that his old man was already this close with his wife that she's now calling him grandpa.

"Grandpa, are you going to be the substitute butler again?" Davi asked and the old man nodded politely. Please visit freewebnovel.com

"Yes. From today, I will stay here and help you water the plants again." He replied and the two continued talking as if they have the most genuine grandfather and granddaughter relationship.

While Zaki and Sei's gazes were focused on them, Zaki's cellphone vibrated and as soon as he saw the message, his brows knitted. He then walked away and made a brief call before he walked back closer to Sei.

"It's no good Sei. She can't go with us. The only way for her not to appear suspicious is she will travel alone and take a passenger plane." Zaki said softly and as expected, Sei's expression darkened.

That moment, Zaki started weighing things out and he realized that going to country H with her was after all, a bad idea. Thus, the next moment, Zaki immediately made a decision.

"Sei, I'll go alone, you both will stay here." Zaki said and Sei just looked at him with a not so good expression.

"Don't worry, I think telling her that I can deliver her present is enough to make her happy. Besides, I believe, she'll be happier if she spends the day with you here." Zaki continued and Sei's face instantly brightened. Causing Zaki to just look at him with disbelief.

Ahh... I can't believe I just discovered the easiest way to coax this man. So sweet talking him about his wife is this powerful, huh.

"Mm, we will stay here then." Sei instantly agreed and after some moments, the three of them were now heading towards a certain gift shop.

"Sei, do you have an idea on what we should buy for Mr. Chen's fiancée?" Davi asked and Sei just stared at her with a look that was telling her he had no idea at all.

"Okay, hmm, let's put it this way. If you're going to buy a present for a girl, what will you buy?" She curiously asked again and Sei stared at her as he talked.

"A girl? Not you?" he asked and Davi nodded.

"I won't give any present to any other girl so I don't know what to buy. But if it's you, it's a different story." He continued and Davi instantly went red. Sei was just answering her honestly, looking as though all the words that were coming out of his mouth were normal and that there's nothing out of ordinary with them. He looked completely unaware just how impactful and cheesy his words were, no knowing that his words were causing Davi's rhythm to be thrown off rendering her speechless.

...

Minutes later, Davi was the only one who entered the gift shop while Sei and Zaki were talking seriously as they waited for her inside the car.

"Even if Kir is here, you are not allowed to step outside the mansion until I return. Do you understand?" Zaki firmly said and Sei just nodded obediently.

"You too, old man. Listen to my words. If you let Sei leave the house, I'll kill you." He continued as he looked at the manly man in the driver's seat with a gaze filled with deadly warnings.

"I'm just four years older than you, don't call me old man." The man replied and Zaki smirked as he talked.

"Oho... when did old man Kir have the guts to talk back to me like this?" He said with an evil smile and the man immediately replied.

"It's because you can't send me away no matter what I say. You need me right now." Kir replied and Zaki could only fall silent.

"Rest assured, I will protect him with my life. You finally have your own love life so go and enjoy your time with your fiancée." he continued and Zaki almost choke because of his last sentence.

"I agree. You might find it difficult in the beginning but you'll be fine. If you need help, just call me." Sei also interjected in their conversation and Zaki snapped.

"Oi, what are you trying to say?" he asked while forcing a smile filled with disbelief when Sei just looked at him blankly.

"They said, she dislikes you and this is your first time being in relationship so don't hesitate to ask for help." Sei innocently said looking like a concerned big brother.

"I agree, boss Sei is already an experienced husband, so don't be shy and ask advice from your older brother." Kir also said and Zaki's veins just popped out simultaneously and violently as he forced an unpleasant laugh.

"Stop it you two. I don't need advices coming from virgins." Zaki retorted and the two men looked at him with different expression. Kir was completely surprised and his mouth hanged open while Sei just blinked calmly.

"Who said I'm virgin?!" Kir blurted and Zaki just smirked as he speaks.

"Who knows?" he uttered when Sei also spoke.

"Zaki, virginity have nothing to do with it." Sei said with an ever so serious expression but Zaki didn't buy his words.

"Go and make a baby first Sei. I will only listen to deflowered me...n..."

Zaki slowly clamped his mouth and something seemed to just broke inside him the moment he realized that the car's door was already opened and that the girl was already looking at them as she blinked.