

ILY Monster 256

By the time the couple finally stepped out of the toilet, Davi was still blushing. However, the moment she saw the signal she's been waiting for from the maids, she breathed deep and looked at Sei.

She then suddenly pulled his hand and lead him towards the courtyard without saying a word.

Upon reaching the garden, Sei's eyes widen. It was because the entire garden was already surrounded with romantic yellow lights. The gazebo located in the heart of the place was decorated with white curtains and candles was shining on top of the table inside it.

In one glance, Sei understood that this was a romantic dinner. He gazed at his wife and the girl just smiled brightly at him.

"I can't take you out for a date but we can still have a memorable date here." She said and for some reason Sei felt like his heart was being tugged by both pain and happiness.

"Mm." He just uttered as he let his dear wife lead him towards the gazebo.

The place and atmosphere was perfect. Everything was romantic and dreamy like a fairy tale. As they both slowly walks on the pathway towards the gazebo while their hands cuffed and their palms embracing each other, their hearts couldn't help but flutter wildly, and they don't know why.

That moment, they felt like they were the only people in the world. They were oozing with uncontrollable affection and love to the point that they look unreal that if anyone could see them right now, they would probably think they were watching a romantic movie.

As soon as they reached the table, they sat. They rested their cuffed hands on top of the table, still holding each other's tightly.

No word came out of their mouth. They just gazed deeply at each other's eyes as though they were communicating silently. It was as though they were letting their feelings and emotions to take over.

The two then quietly feed each other.

Until time passed and they were now drinking their wine. Davi sipped a little before she moved. She stretched out her hand under the table and after a moment, a flower was already in her hand.

She reached out her hand to give the flower to her husband and Sei's eyes once again marveled as he accepted it. It was a Viscaria, the flower that means 'will you dance with me?'

Sei immediately took her hand and Davi leads him on a space circled with small lights. The couple both stood in the middle of the circle when finally, Sei broke the silence.

"But... I don't know how to dance." He said as disappointment to himself was flashing across his eyes. He looked like he was suddenly in a dilemma and Davi found his reaction adorable as ever, she couldn't help but chuckle.

"You never danced before?" she asked and the man nodded.

"Mm. I never did this before." He answered and Davi's eyes lit as it sparkled like stars.

"So this mean, I will be your first dance?!" She exclaimed and the moment he uttered an "Mm" Davi jumped onto him and squeezed him hard.

"Ahh! You don't know how happy I am to be your first dance." She added happily before she let go of him. "Don't worry, I will teach you."

Davi then held his right hand and put it around her waist before she laced her fingers into his. She then asked him to look at their feet and showed him an example.

Afterwards, Davi lead her husband into a slow dance. She was smiling brightly because Sei was really such a fast learner he didn't even need a practice.

In no time their bodies were already in sync as they both swayed gracefully. Their eyes were locked onto each other as their world began to spark as though endless silent fireworks were exploding above them.

For a long while, they just stared at each other until Davi moved closer to him as she buried her face on his chest.

"Can you hear my heart beat?" Sei asked and Davi smiled.

"Mm. It's loud and fast. Like mine." She answered as she held his hand and put it on her chest for him to feel her heart.

Sei felt her heartbeat and his lips curved with a beautiful smile. Of course, Davi's eyes marveled as soon as she saw his rare gorgeous smile.

"You're right. Our hearts, they seemed strange... beating abnormally like this." He said and Davi chuckled.

Looking at her sweet and heart stopping smile, Sei suddenly pulled her closer to him. He buried her in his embrace as they still both swaying.

"Sei... how's your first dance? Do you like it?" she asked softly as she squeezed him when the man kissed her head.

"I'm happy. I felt like my heart is about to explode. I'm glad I never danced with anyone else before you came into my life. I won't dance with anyone else but you in the future as well. You are my first and my last." He answered and Davi almost teared up.