Kneeling before her, her father started to talk.

"Listen sweetie, we understand what you feel. You want us all to survive so you worked really hard day and night for this. But we can't sacrifice thousands or even millions of people's lives just for us to survive. Don't worry, okay? This father of yours will do something about this. I promise." He said and he gently kissed her forehead.

That night the couple began to make a plan. Thinking that their child was asleep, they started talking about what they should do. They both knew they have to destroy their daughter's experiment, knowing that it was something the world shouldn't know about at all cost.

After hours of discussion, her father told his wife to leave the town tomorrow with their child. He said that he will force the organization to let his wife and daughter leave using her daughter's experiment as a blackmail before destroying it.

Her mother was crying hard as she hugs her husband. Hearing about his plan, she could already tell that her dearest husband will going to sacrifice himself. And she knew that it was the only thing they could do.

"Listen Darling, you have to leave this place. I only have days left to live but our daughter is still so young. She doesn't deserve this kind of life. All I wish is that she will at least experience the life we both experienced before. She has to leave this place, she deserved to live normally and live a happy life. If you both could leave this place, I swear I would die happily. I will never regret anything. This is my last wish so please make it happen. I will always be with you both even when I'm gone. Okay?" He said and tears flowed down the child's cheeks quietly as she listened to them, crying, saying their goodbyes to each other.

The next morning, her father's plan was a success. The organization let the mother and the daughter leave. He demanded a jet to return them into Country J and they agreed. Not knowing that the father already set the nuclear weapon he and his fellow scientists created to blast along with him the moment they siege him.

As the jet left, an announcement saying that citizens would leave immediately because of a radiation leak echoed around the town. This too was her father's plan to lessen the casualty. The few locals in the town immediately left but the rogue scientists and the members of the Blackleaf didn't leave since they knew that the alarm was a lie. Not knowing what was currently happening in the underground lab. The father did his best to buy more time before launching the bomb.

Until time passed and the mother and the daughter finally left Country X. Inside the jet, the two immediately wore their parachute, it was because the mother knew that the pilot might return the moment he receives an order and she was right. Just before they reach country J, the jet changed direction so without hesitation, the two immediately jumped. And at that same time, a blast destroyed the entire town of Zemei.

The two landed just before the border and they both walked towards a nearby town. The girl was injured so her mother brought her to the clinic first before they left. However, that night, on their way, their car crashed.

Davi was awakened. Her eyes were wide. She remained in daze for a while before she was able to realize that everything was not a dream. What she thought was a nightmare was actually her lost memory and she couldn't believe it.

"Davi... Davi... are you alright?!" a voice reached her consciousness and the moment she recognized Hinari calling out her name, she remembered that she was involved in another car accident on her way to the hospital for her checkup.

Her eyes widened again the moment she saw her stomach.

"M-m-my child. What happened to my child?! Where is my child?" she exclaimed, as her face paled like sheet of paper.

"Davi, calm down. He's fine okay? He's alright. He's in the NICU and your son is very fine. Okay?" Hinari said and Davi teared up.

"M-my son... Hinari, I wanted to see him." She cried and Hinari along with a nurse helped her up. They pushed her in a wheelchair towards the room where her son is. Google search freewebnovel. com

As soon as they reached the room, Davi cried as she touched the incubator.

"See? Your son is really super cute. The doctors said he is alright so don't worry, okay?" Hinari said and Davi smiled with tears in her eyes. She couldn't believe that she has a child now. She was now a mother and she couldn't explain just how happy she felt looking at her little son.
