

ILY Monster 276

Port Queen.

Davi who just arrived was welcomed by a group of both soldiers and scientists. She was wondering why but the moment she approached the commander and her mother beside, she finally understood what was going on.

They congratulated her because the researches and inventions she left a year ago were actually huge breakthrough that she gained national and international awards for them. She was even told that the office of the president invited her for the upcoming national honorary awards.

After the congratulatory event, she was called by Commander Yun along with her mother. This military commander was actually her father's half-brother and the man who hid Davi's mother 15 years ago. After the accident, Miura Sanae sought his help and the man helped her enter the secret special force and hid her under the ocean for ten years. Until Davi was also brought under his care.

"You are away for one year so you may not hear about the news yet." He said as her mother smiled ever so happily. Please visit freewebovel.com

"Is this about father? I already heard it." She replied and the two were shocked.

"Ohh... We thought we could surprise you. But yeah, you are free now. Both of you are finally free." Commander Yun said and Miura Sanae embraced her daughter.

"Sweetie, after how many years we are finally free. And your father was now seen as a hero." She cried. And Davi just embraced her back quietly.

"Your researches are a breakthrough. Even the general and the president was awed. The couldn't believe that talented asset was hiding beneath my wings all these years. We can finally introduce a genius and a national treasure like you to the world." Commander Yun stated, looking like a super proud father before some summoned him.

The two then went back to their respective rooms. Davi went straight to bed after showering. She raised her hand and clenched her shirt, she stared at the ceiling for a long time. Her mind was filled with Sei's face and her son's. Her heart was painful and she wanted to go back to that house right away.

Being a special force medic, Davi studied psychology as well. That was why the longer she self-monitored, the better she finally understood what was happening to her. She was avoiding and suppressing her emotion for too long that she ended up being unable to express them anymore.

Within her, she doesn't wish for Sei to know that she became like this, that was why she left without a word. She doesn't know how to face him now that she can't even cry nor smile. Everything is finally over, and to her, she still felt like everything was a dream. She didn't even know how she managed to just left that house without saying anything. She felt like she has lost herself. She wasn't the girl she used to be anymore, and she doesn't want Sei to realize it.

She knew that curing this type of psychological illness will take time but she just wanted herself to be fixed right now so she can properly face them and go back to them. She doesn't want to show herself being like a robot who doesn't know how to express any emotion in front of her dearest son and husband. She doesn't want her son to see her being in this kind of sorry state.

Meanwhile at Military Headquarter.

"General, I want to ask you to make an order and make this person quit the special force." Sei said. His voice was absolute and chilling as though he actually came not to ask but to order. Of course, the general was completely aware who is this person in front of him. He couldn't even believe that this man was actually the one who personally came to him, when he knew that the powerful leaders around the world couldn't even invite him for a dinner.

"Mr. Chen, it is my honor to grant your request." The general immediately replied. He didn't dare to ask any more detail even though he was itching to find the reason why he was asking this.

"But don't make it so obvious. Try to order her to transfer into a less dangerous department. Also, restrict her from leaving the country." The man said and the general could only agree.

"This sergeant is an exceptional scientist. She just received numerous awards for her research and the office of the president chose her to be one of the awardees in the upcoming honorary awards. I just called commander Yun and I was surprised knowing that she was a member of the special force. I asked why she's not a full time scientist but he said that she chose to be a part of the special force herself." The general explained but the man remained quiet. "I will release an order to transfer her in the science department." He continued and the man nodded before they left. Leaving the general wondering who is this lady to that terrifying young tycoon for him to go through all this for her.

"Zaki, let's go find a flower shop." Sei said as they walk and Zaki immediately began grinning wide.

"Oho... are you going to be the one who will court her this time?" He asked with intense interest as he continued grinning.

"I can't force her to come back right now when she's like this. Right now, she was fighting a war within herself. I wanted to slowly return her back to me. She was the one who fixed me, so I will definitely cure her and take her back." Sei replied. Seriousness and unwavering determination were flooding his eyes and Zaki could only smile.

"Sei, did you know that those five years didn't just changed your wife? You actually changed too, but for the better. And the most amazing thing that changed in you was your EQ. You matured quite a lot." Zaki said and Sei just glanced at him.

"Zaki, when Kir is back, I will send you back to Country H to pursue your own life. It's been five years but you and your fiancée is still not married yet." Sei retorted and Zaki almost stumbled on his own feet.
