

ILY Monster 291

Meanwhile at Chen Residence...

It was already midnight when Davi stepped out of Little Shin's room. She was planning to go and get change first when she stopped the moment she saw Sei quietly sitting on the sofa and looking outside the window.

He wasn't wearing his mask anymore. He looks like a painting sitting there unmoving. She could see his face now and he was just so damn alluring. When Davi thought about the past, it was hard to believe, it was still like a dream.

If this was the fruit of her sufferings, Davi couldn't help but think that it's all worth it. Not only because the face that she was dying to see back then was now in front of her but also because everything she wished for had come true.

The world was cruel but here they are, together again inside a single roof. The agonizing pain and sufferings that happened to them made Davi believe that, as long as love exists in this world, things will gradually go back to where it belongs.

In that moment, Sei was thinking deep. He was recalling about the proposal he planned five years ago. The ring he bought was still in his hand and he couldn't wait anymore to give it to her. He remembered her confession and his heart could still feel the emotions he felt that night. This time, he wanted to be the one to woo her, cure her and give her his all. From now on, Sei thought that he will do anything for her. He remembered the words she said that night before he left her and he swore to grant that wish. He wanted them to do everything they couldn't before. Please visit freewebnovel.com

Due to him simulating the plan in his head ever so seriously, he didn't notice a certain someone admiring him as if he was someone who descended from the realms of the gods. Not until suddenly, he heard that sweetest voice called out his name softly.

"Sei..." Davi said as she stood in front of him, causing Sei to immediately snap. He looked at her and was surprised that he actually didn't notice her approach.

"D..." Sei didn't continue the word he's about to say, because the moment he saw Davi's eyes, his heart skipped a beat. Finally, he saw that intense longing look in her eyes and it made him unconsciously reach out for her hand.

Davi was about to speak when suddenly, Sei pulled her. Before she could react, his hands were already wrapped around her waist as he buried his face on her abdomen. His sudden action stunned Davi for a while but soon enough, she wrapped her hands around his head as she bent her body hugging his head.

Sei was still sitting in the couch and Davi was standing in the middle of his legs.

The moonlight was shining brightly as they hug each other tightly. They both were like a romantic painting filled with emotion and genuine unconditional love.

A moment passed and Davi found herself stroking Sei's hair just like what she used to do before their separation. And the feeling of caressing his hair like this was just so heartwarming and nostalgic.

"Sei... I really, really, miss you." She uttered when all of a sudden, Sei pulled her and made her sit on his leg. Davi was once again surprised but before she could even recover her senses from his sudden action, his lips were already slammed into hers.

Sei held her waist as though he doesn't plan of letting her go of her anymore. His warm lips slowly kissed her and when she finally relaxed, Sei slid his tongue inside her mouth and gently delved deeper.

The sensation of the passionate kiss they were finally sharing after some long long years were just so amazing and full of intensity. Sei slowly turned like a chained beast who was finally released. He missed her so much. Words were not enough to describe how he much he missed her, how much he missed kissing her and he couldn't restrain himself anymore.

The two kissed for so long and yet Sei still seemed unsatisfied. He kissed her again and again until Davi caught his face. She bumped her head onto his forehead as she pants.

"Uhm... Sei... y-your kissing skill really improved a lot." She said as her face flushing red. Well, she just said whatever that came into her mind just to distract him even for a while to give herself time to breath. However, Sei who was supposed to feel happy because she just praised him felt somewhat a bit troubled by her words. He gazed at her and caressed her cheeks with his thumbs.

"I never kissed anyone else since you left." He suddenly said and Davi blinked her eyes.

"Then how come you improved a lot?" She asked and Sei fell speechless. Invisible big dots appeared above their heads as a certain noisy black crow flew above them.

Realizing her question, Davi blushed a little. She was secretly delighted that he told her he didn't kissed anyone but it also made her curious. She then looked at Sei intently, waiting for his answer.

She was actually expecting Sei to get stunned for a while but he didn't and he answered her immediately.

"Simulation." He replied and Davi tilted her head as she looked at him with questions in her eyes.

"I practiced kissing you in my dreams." He explained and Davi almost choked. She reflexively covered her mouth with her fingers. I-is that even possible?

Just as Davi was still thinking about it, Sei kissed her again. This time, he explored her mouth with passion and hunger. Relentless as though he was savoring every taste of her mouth. Until their kisses turned even wetter.

They parted their lips to take breath but Sei didn't moved farther than an inch. Their lips were so close as they heavily panted, that they both feel the heat of each other's breaths.

"Sei..." she uttered and Sei's hand rested on her nape.

"I'm sorry but I want to make up for the kisses we couldn't share for the past five years." He said and Davi's eyes widened before he kissed her again.

'M-make up for the past five years? Sei... how many kisses would that be? Will our lips last if you do that?' Davi could only protest in her mind and yet she couldn't stop him either. It was because, she herself couldn't resist him at all.
