

ILY Monster 309

By the time Davi and Sei stepped on the ground, Little Shin was already asleep so Kir had called Sei minutes ago and told him that he will bring the boy to the car.

"Little Shin is asleep?" Davi asked as they walked and Sei nodded.

"Mm. I guess the little guy finally got tired. He was full of energy the entire day." Sei replied. They were holding each other's hands as they walked in the middle of the crowd, effortlessly making heads turn towards them.

"Sei... I'll go to the comfort room first." Davi said and the two of them walked towards the restroom. When Davi entered, Sei called his bodyguard to bring him something to fix his hair. And in no time, a man walked closer to him and followed him inside.

Sei removed his pink headband and he started fixing his hair to its usual style. Well, apart from the need to drop by in his company tonight, he promised Davi to show his cute side only to her made him abide. He only wanted to please her in any way he could.

"Is it alright now?" Sei asked, and the man beside him cleared his throat.

"Boss, I'm sorry but you really have zero skill in fixing your hair." He replied and somehow Sei stared at himself in the mirror and his face darkened.

"S-should I go call the Miss to help you?" The man continued as he staggered when Sei breathed deep as he speaks.Google search freewebnovel.com

"No need." He said as he raised his hand.

"Then, shall I call your profession---"

"No need. Because the pro is here." Someone suddenly cut the bodyguard's words and Sei just glanced at the man walking closer to him.

"How cold. This subject of yours just came back after a year and the only thing you did is give me a cold single glance?!" He complained but Sei didn't even turn and look at him.

"Ryou... shut up and come fix my hair." Sei coldly ordered and when Ryou tilted his head to look at Sei's hair, the man bit his lip to stop him from bursting out loud.

"Oh well, this is the only skill the heavens didn't bestow upon you so I suggest that don't even try fixing your own hair again, Sei. The whole world will experience a great quake if they see you like this, although, I bet your wife will see you as cute..."

"Shut up and just quickly fix it." Sei cut through his blabbering and the man just laughed.

After some moments, the three men finally stepped out of the comfort room. Sei ordered his men to stay away from him and they could only abide. Leaving him standing alone, leaning on a post just in front of the comfort room.

However, it was just a few seconds when suddenly, people started noticing him.

"Hey, isn't that man... oh my god, that's... that's the gorgeous and ultra-rich Chen Seiji, right?!"

"W-what? What are you saying, how could that god be here?"

"Are you an idiot? Are you saying that that man is his doppelganger?!"

"Well... wait, it's really him. But those clothes..."

"Idiot, he might be disguising. Oh my god, this is the first time I saw him in person and my nose is already bleeding!"

"Yeah, damn, he's so cool. His aura is definitely majestic even though he is wearing just a t-shirt."

"Anyway, we need to confirm if it's really him. Let's take a photo."

"Hey, are you serious? Don't you know the rumor that he hated media? All the entertainment paparazzi won't dare take a photo of him without his permission, you know?"

"Well but... that's too late, you idiot. Look, everyone is already taking photos of him."

Sei's brows started creasing hard. The crowd started to thicken and by the time he decided to move away, his eyes widened upon seeing that the crowd already surrounded him. The girls started to scream and flashes from cameras irritated him.

The situation went out of control. It was as if a certain superstar suddenly appeared and it started rocking the park in no time. Thankfully, the well trained undercover bodyguards were quick enough and they manage to surround him before the crowd began to mob him.

Sei's men were scattered around the park and some were watching outside so he was suddenly short of men. The incident was completely unexpected and the guards were taken aback. Although, they were elite bodyguards that were trained to protect him from any kind of dangers, the fact that they couldn't just hurt these people who wanted to be near Sei made their job a pain.

"Don't worry boss. The others are on the way here." A man said as they continued pushing back the crowd. Sei was still leaning nonchalantly on the post but his face was obviously sour.

That moment, Davi finally stepped out of the comfort room and upon seeing Sei in the middle of a wild crowd, Davi's heartbeat palpitated. She stood on the steps quietly. However, her eyes began to blaze.

Davi's feet started moving when someone suddenly stopped her. Davi was about to ignore him when she recognized him.

"Ryou?" She uttered and the man smiled.

"Yep. Long time no see miss." He replied when the screams went even louder. Davi creased her forehead and decided to move again when Ryou spread his hands and blocked her path.

"Uhm... Miss... please stay here. Don't worry, the guards will do their job." Ryou said but Davi obviously wasn't convinced. Something dangerous blazed in her eyes and Ryou was shocked. He never saw this person in this state before. She was still the beautiful goddess and angel-like lady he knew, but now, there was something different in her. He could feel the deadly aura that was exuding from her and the next words she said jolted Ryou and an extremely chilling shiver run down his spine.

"Ryou... give me a gun." She said with a serious and fiery gaze and Ryou's eyes widened.