

ILY Monster 321

Dumbfounded by Sei's request, Davi just remained motionless. Her eyes were a bit wide as she stared at him in disbelief.

"T-ten minutes?!" she stammered and when Sei just replied with an "Mm", Davi didn't even know what to say.

"A-are you really serious?" she could only asked again, thinking that Sei was just kidding her. She knew that this man never know how to joke around at all back then, but she thought that maybe he had learned this past five years.

"I couldn't kiss you before going to bed last night and this morning because of Little Shin so... I want to make up for it." He answered and Davi's face flushed red as she tried clearing her throat. Well, no matter how much she think that Sei might be kidding, the honesty and sincerity in his eyes was telling her otherwise.

"Isn't one minute enough?" She negotiated but the man's eyes turned somewhat dejected. He didn't show it in his facial expression but the fact that he didn't utter any more word and because of that familiar look in his eyes were enough for Davi to tell that he was definitely unhappy.

Looking at him, Davi realized that the unhappy and dejected Sei was still one of her greatest weakness. After all these years, it's still impossible for her to just reject him when he was looking at her with that expression in his eyes.

Thus, Davi could only continue trying to negotiate with him.

"2 minutes." She said but the man simply blinked, still speechless.

"Okay, 3 minutes."

"..."

"4 minutes."

Still unhappy with four minutes?! Isn't four minutes long enough?

Davi couldn't believe how greedy Sei has become and for some reason, she just felt like this was actually his new strategy to lure her into his trap. Moreover, Davi can't help but think that Sei might be doing this because he knew she couldn't refuse him when he's like this.

"Okay, five minutes are long enough, right?" Davi then said but when Sei just stared at her and still remained silent, she could only face palm in her mind.

W-why does it feels like the level of my husband's requests are only getting harder and getting even more shameless? Can I even handle it if his request will level up again?

As Davi speak within her, silence enveloped the car for a while. However, just as Davi was about to speak again, Sei's voice finally reached her ears.

"A-alright." He said but in such a really soft voice, obviously forced and a bit unhappy.

That moment, Davi was suppose to rejoice but seeing his dejected expression, Davi couldn't help but feel helpless. She really doesn't have any tolerance against this saddened Sei. Moreover, when this man is like this, Davi can't help but remember the masked innocent him, those familiar expression of him, looking like an adorable puppy in the rain was just such a lethal blow she can never ignore.

Thus, like a knight surrendering the last of his resistance to the king in distress, Davi finally gave in.

"I mean, we can kiss for five minutes now and the other five minutes will be later..." she then quickly added and as soon as those words left her mouth, a killer smile, so beautiful like the rising sun immediately carved on Sei's gorgeous face.

His stunning smile that never ceased to make Davi's jaw to drop caused her to fall in daze again. While she was in that state, without wasting anymore second, Sei's lips suddenly reached hers, causing Davi's eyes to widen with surprise.

Gladly, she managed to pull away before he could delve deeper in her mouth.

"Uhm... Sei. You're men are still inside." Davi softly uttered as she turned red like tomato.

Sei on the other hand who actually completely forgot about the presence of his men could only bite his lip. However, just as he was about to order his men to step out, an extremely important idea, according to his perception, suddenly popped out of his brain and he smiled, disregarding the presence of his men again.

"Can you straddle on my lap?" He asked as if he didn't hear what she just said and Davi was stunned again. She looked at him with wide eyes and the moment she saw him smiling wide, Davi could only puff her cheeks. Well, she realized that Sei didn't just turned way too shameless, he actually also started being a naughty teaser, and what worse was that he's doing it so naturally and was even still unaware about it. He doesn't even blush or stammer like he used to anymore.

"C-can you tell them to go out first?" Davi could only ask, causing Sei to snap as he immediately gestured his men to step out.

The moment the two body guards climbed out of the car, Sei was surprised because it was Davi who moved first. She straddled him and she swiftly laced her hands around his neck.

"Sei, are you trying to tease me?" Davi asked and as expected, the man simply blinked, as though he was trying to remember when did he tease her.

"I'm... teasing you?" He asked, clueless and with question marks in his gorgeous eyes.

Looking at his expression, Davi's shoulders could only drop. She realized that even though Sei's EQ improved quite a lot in some aspects, he didn't seem to realize that some of his action and words could be perceived differently by others and he simply doesn't care.

"I'm not teasing. I'm serious." He confirmed with his usual firm and absolute tone and Davi's nose almost bleed.

"O-okay. I just thought you're teasing me."

"What made you think that way?"

"Be-because you asked for ten minutes kiss. Our lips will be left out swollen if we do that, so I thought it's a joke." Google search freewebnovel.com

"You don't have to worry, I will never hurt your precious lips. I'm thinking about kissing you every ten minutes."

"..."

"That way, your lips won't get hurt."
