

ILY Monster 410

Sei needed to acquire a marriage license before anything else so he immediately dialed a private number.

"Hello?"

"This is Chen Seiji. I need you to open up the registry office now so I can get a marriage license. I will be there in 5 minutes."

The call ended and without any doubt that the office would be open by the time they arrived, Sei then took Davi's hand and led her towards the chopper.

Remembering something else he needed to do, Sei settled Davi in the chopper first before going back inside the mansion. He made a call to Zaki and gave him some instructions. Once the call ended, he ran to the chopper and boarded it effortlessly.

The trip took around 5 minutes and as they passed the registry building, they could see the lights being switched on inside the office. Sei knew that he could have sent his people here to pick up the marriage license but he wanted to do things properly this time. He wanted to personally get their marriage license with her, as he should have done the first time around.

The chopper landed on the roof and Sei led Davi towards the office, not skipping a beat.

When they arrived, a clerk was already behind the desk sorting out the marriage license for them. She finished a few seconds after they arrived and she gave them the marriage license without a word. The clerk seemed to be afraid to even ask and was afraid to make any mistake as she simply did her job seriously as if she was currently serving a ruthless emperor.

Once they received their official marriage license, Sei finally breathed a sigh of relief. He was so close to being able to be called Davi's husband again and he couldn't stop himself from getting excited. Somehow this rush was thrilling for both of them and they simply couldn't stop but smile at themselves. Well, no matter what anyone says, they were enjoying this rush and they felt like one day, when they grow old, they will laugh with happiness at each other when they remember this night.

With every second being quite precious, the couple didn't linger and went straight back on the chopper.

It was already 1 in the morning so by the time they sat inside the chopper, Sei pulled Davi in his arms as if he was trying to put her to sleep.

"Let's take a nap for now." He said but Davi just smiled.

"I slept for hours yesterday during my trip to this country so it's alright. Did you sleep?" She replied and Sei caressed her hair as he answered her.

"Mm. We also slept so I'm fine but we still need to take a nap for now." He said and Davi smiled as she gave in and buried her face on his chest.

However, before she closed her eyes, she raised her face again to look at him.

"Kiss me." She said and Sei was surprised. He immediately lifted his hand and held her face. Davi also closed her eyes and waited for Sei to kiss her but seconds went by and no lips landed on hers.

Davi slowly opened her eyes and when she saw Sei simply looking at her, she reddened. She pursed her lips thinking that Sei was teasing her again. However, before she could retort back by the doing the move instead, Sei suddenly yanked her on his embrace, burying her face on his chest.

"Not now. Let's wait till after wedding." He said and Davi almost choked. H-huh?! Why do I feel like Sei was the one bullying me this time?