

ILY Monster 411

Davi couldn't believe what Sei just said. Was this man serious? Was he doing this on purpose or something? Why do I feel like he was suddenly playing hard to get?

Somehow, Davi couldn't help but think that Sei was teasing her. She felt like he was punishing her. First, by rejecting her request to spend the night with him, and now, he was even rejecting her request for a kiss? Was he punishing her for leaving yesterday?!

Davi frowned as she raised her face again. Her eyes narrowed as she looked at him and she slipped her hands around his neck.

"Darling... If you don't want to kiss me, then I'll kiss you." She said and she was about to kiss her hard when Sei suddenly put her finger on her lips, stopping her, causing Davi's eyes to widen in disbelief.

"D-darling, I'm sorry but... it's dangerous." He said and Davi creased her brows.

"H-huh? Why?" she asked, curiously when Sei bit his lip before he answered.

"If you kiss me now, I might lose my restraint again. And if that happens, I'm afraid, our pilot might get distracted." He replied and Davi blinked before her face slowly flashed red.

"Y-you're right. Haha. Sorry." She could only utter as she awkwardly laughed when Sei pulled her closer and his lips landed on her forehead.

"Let's wait for a bit longer. A bit more longer." He said and Davi finally laid her head on his chest as she obediently closed her eyes.

Time passed and the pilot said that they were finally landing.

Davi, whose face was buried on Sei's chest slowly opened her eyes when Sei held her head, not letting her lift her face. Confused, Davi was about to ask when Sei spoke first.

"Davi, is it alright with you if I blindfold you?" Sei suddenly asked and she blinked, as questions flashed across her eyes. However, she soon immediately realized that her Sei might have a surprise so without any more questions, she nodded.

"Mm. Of course." She replied and Sei slipped his hand in his pocket. He brought out the nostalgic red blindfold and upon seeing it, Davi couldn't help but smile as she remember the good old days.

She then closed her eyes and slowly, Sei carefully put the blindfold over her eyes. Afterwards, Sei stared at her for a while before he pulled her in his arms again, kissing her forehead while Davi was suddenly feeling excited about what it was that Sei had in store for her this time.

The chopper landed in the rooftop of a certain building.

Sei carried the blindfolded Davi until they both entered a certain room. Upon putting Davi down, Sei removed her blindfold and Davi was surprised to see Hinari inside.

"Okay, I'm leaving you here." Sei said and he kissed her cheek. The moment Davi uttered an "Mm", Sei's warm palm landed on her cheek and caressed it before he turned his back and left.

By the time the door closed, Davi immediately turned to Hinari.

"Hinari, where are we?" Davi asked but Hinari just raised a brow as she went and pulled her closer.

"Dear Davi, I'm sorry but I can't tell you." She said and she pulled her towards another room inside. To Davi's surprise, the room they entered was a huge make up room and some renowned artist was already inside waiting for her.

"Now get in so we can finally start." Hinari said with a smile and eyes brimming with excitement.

Somewhere a bit far away from the building where Davi was, people arrived one after another. Choppers were landing on the rooftop and then leaving before another one took its place. It was a very meticulous operation. Not long after, a military helicopter also arrived.

It was 4 in the morning but the moon was still shining so brightly

Meanwhile, in another room, Zaki was doing Sei's hair ever so seriously.

"Are you sure you don't need a beautician?" Zaki asked and Sei simply glanced at him blankly.

"What can a beautician do to make my hair look better?" he asked and the serious Zaki raised a brow.

"Tch! How cocky! But well, you're right, with our handsome, mysterious looks, we both don't need a beautician. They would probably just ruin our image!" Zaki replied as he laughed but Sei glared at him.

"Get serious." He said with a firm voice and Zaki just smiled.

"Easy, you know how awesome I am. This Zaki is the most expert with things like this. I can do this perfectly even with my eyes closed." Zaki was simply having fun but Sei seemed to still be so tense.

Seeing this, Zaki just laughed again.

"Sei, will you relax? What are you being tense for?" He playfully asked but Sei's brows just knotted hard.

"Shut up."

"Haha. I told you, relax, okay?"

"I can't seem to calm down. I think I'm getting too excited."

"Ohh... so you're nervous. Sei, want some advice from this good little brother of yours?"

"What?"

"I heard grooms usually stop feeling nervous after they sing out loud. Why don't you try it?"

"..."

Fufu... I wonder if Sei can sing... pfft! C'mon, sing!
