"Let's drop by the lab." Sei said and Zaki's eyes widened.Please visit frewenovel.com

"Wait, Sei. I'm in a hurry here. I'll just go ahead." He protested but Sei simply looked at him with a look saying his request was rejected.

"It's good that you are very excited but, aren't you waiting for night time to arrive? You can't arrive there too early, no? We still have time. You can't ride the chopper since you are planning to surprise her. I know you are so nervous your heart is going crazy right now, that's why I'm giving you time to relax and take a breath. I'll be quick." As soon as the car stopped, Sei hastily stepped out of the car's door, leaving the anxious Zaki unable to relax in his seat.

Sei then quickly arrived at a certain huge private lab. The staffs in white coat all gasped as the gorgeous king walked pass them with a bouquet of roses in his hand. He looked exactly like a die-hard perfect suitor so determined to woo the woman he loved. Everyone was so jealous since they all knew that those flowers weren't for a girlfriend but for his wife.

"Damn! I wish my husband would do that for me, too. This King is damn so romantic! I want someone like him too. Ahh..."

"Right, their love is damn too much. How many husbands nowadays still act like this? Still courting his woman even if she's already his wife? Oh, gosh. This PDA is killing me."

"Don't even mention that our madam boss' husband is a very, very busy man. And yet he still takes the time to do something like this. Oh god, I'm dying!"

As the staff stuffed themselves with this oh so romantic dog food, Sei finally reached his wife. Davi was busy inside her personal work space. Sei didn't enter the room because she was working with all sorts of chemicals.

However, by the time Sei stopped and looked at her through the glass window, as if Davi heard him call her name, she turned.

Their eyes then met and Sei smiled. The surprised Davi widened her eyes as she looked at the gorgeous creature smiling at her.

Davi quickly wrapped up and stepped out of the door.

"Darling! You're here!" she exclaimed as she jumped on him.

"Mm. I came to visit you. You're working so hard." He said and Davi smiled.

"Hehe. Don't worry darling, I'm very fine. My work is also progressing very well. We could see some results soon."

"Mm. I know you can do this. Because my wife is the greatest."

"My husband is also the greatest so I should be great too. But what's behind your back?"

Davi looked at Sei with a meaningful gaze. It seemed like she already knew that it was flowers that were behind him.

"Flowers for you, my dearest, loveliest wife." Sei then said as he reached out his hand and Davi blushed. The bouquet consisted of 27 roses which said how much one loves his wife.

Davi smiled widely as she received the flowers.

"Zaki taught me how to pick them. He said you taught him before." Sei's words surprised Davi.

"You picked these yourself?!" she exclaimed and the first thing she did was look at his hand.

When she saw the scratch covered with a band-aid, Davi bit her lip. She felt bad he was hurt but she couldn't get angry at this man who always did his very best to make her feel all the love in this world.

"Thank you so much darling. These flowers are even more special now." She said before she kissed his hand. "I hope this wound gets better soon."

"It will. Because your kiss is my best medicine."

Flustered by another cheesy pick up line from Sei, Davi smiled and the next second, she wrapped her hands around his neck and she kissed him hard and deep.
