

ILY Monster 69

"Are you alright?"

Sei's words broke the long silence, causing Davi to finally snapped and wake up from her deep thinking. She realized that she's been quiet for a while now that she didn't notice they're already close to Sky Town.

"I'm fine now. I'm just being a bit too worrywart. Haha." Davi forced a smile as she looked at Sei. However, as though the man could feel the girl's gloomyness behind her smile, he suddenly patted her head softly.

That moment, Davi couldn't help but smile at him, this time, it's not forced. His warm hand was so gentle that her worries seemed slowly melting away.

She then took a deep breath and stared intently at him.

"To be honest, I really want to go home with you but... I... I..."

Sei patted her head again the moment she paused as an indifferent expression flashed across her face.

"It's fine. Stay with him. He needs you," he said causing Davi to felt instantly relieved but at the same time a bit disappointed. She's always been looking forward for the day he will come back, she even declared that she'll monopolize him tonight and yet she needed to back off now, causing her to felt indescribably sad.

However, she soon coaxed herself that she will surely launch a lovey dovey attack as a make up for tonight when she's back.

Wait for me Sei, you better prepare yourself because I will definitely won't show any mercy this time.

"Thank you, I'll make up with you when I come home," she said as she stared deeply at him.

"Mm"

Shortly after that, the car finally stopped in front of a huge building. They already reached Sky Town since it was just minutes away from the City hospital.

Davi then opened the car's door and was about to step out when she turned back and faced towards him.

"I-I'm going," she said and Sei just quietly nodded.

Davi stepped out and the moment she shut the door, she bit her lip tight. That moment, she felt as though she doesn't want him to go yet. She wanted to stay with him for a while longer.

She gazed at the car's window with a really dulled expression. And before the car could move, Davi suddenly walked towards the other side of the car and hastily knocked the window near Sei.

The car's window immediately slid down and Sei curiously moved his head near it. However, before the masked man could even ask what else she wanted to say, without any warning, the girl's face immediately moved closer to him and...

She kissed him.

The surprise attack was a bit too fast that she didn't even gave him a moment to react.

And before he knew it, the girl already ran away like flash, leaving him frozen in an awkward position.

It was another kiss and run. However, it was a little different this time. It was kiss and run version 2.0, the flash kiss on the lips.
