

ILY Monster 71

Sei didn't move for a long while. He just stood there motionless as his gaze were glued into the things in Yijin's hands.

"Boss, please accept these. These are all from the miss," he said while he was looking down the floor. His ears were quite red, indicating his embarrassment for suddenly being a messenger of love.

That same moment, Sei finally lifted his hands and as soon as he accepted them, the boy ran away in a flash without saying anything.

Sei watched his back until he disappeared, before his gaze fell back to the things in his hand.

A bouquet of white camellia was in his left hand, and in his right was a cute white lunch box with a red ribbon tied in it.

Sei remained standing in the middle of the sofa quietly when the annoying Zaki walked towards him. He sidled over him with a wide smile and said; "Camellia white huh, isn't that flower means 'you're adorable'? Darn it... your wife is too sweet. But wait... why adorable? When did a cold stone like you became adorable? Did the young miss make a mistake...?"

Before Zaki could even finish his statement, the cold man already left and headed towards the kitchen. Zaki of course followed him to have a peak.

Sei put the lunch box on the table and scrutinized the flower in his hand with no change of expression in his face. Until he finally found what he was looking for. A love note.

'Good morning. Flowers for you. I hope you like them. ~ Davi'

As usual, a small smiling heart has been drawn at the end of her name. And as soon as he read the note, the light in his eyes glittered once again.

He then sat on the chair and carefully untied the ribbon as though it was a really fragile treasure.

He opened it slowly and his eyes widened a bit upon seeing what was inside.

The peaking cat went extremely curious on what was inside the box the moment he saw the slight change in Sei's expression. The man looks dumbfounded that he didn't move his hand to even touch what was inside.

Zaki the peaking cat was dying to know it, however, the man just stared at it for a long time. As though, he had no plan to eat it if in case it was food.

Damn! What is it? What the hell did you put in that box, Davi your highness? What it is?

Time passed and Zaki reached his very limit. He walked slowly towards him as if he was a curious little cat risking his life for the sake of his curiosity.

I'll just peak a little and run. Just a little.

The moment he reached him, he slowly sidled behind him and his eyes almost bulge out the moment he saw it. He even forgot his plan to just peak a little because he started laughing hard that he instantly fell into his knees.

"Pfft! What is that?! Hahaha. Is that supposed to be you?! My god! Hahaha, her majesty Davi is really the best."

Zaki rolled on the floor as he laughed hard while Sei remained unbothered.

The white chocolate cookie inside the lunch box was actually looking so cute. However, Zaki laughed at the fact that Davi actually made cute Sei cookies. The cookies were carefully crafted that one might consider it a masterpiece. Even Sei's black mask were crafted carefully that it almost looks the same with the real thing.

"My god Sei, your wife just turned you into little cookies. She even included your mask. Hahaha. This is the first time I saw masked cookies. Pfttt! Hahaha. That one is exactly you."
