

ILY Monster 75

After the two sibling's earnest talk, Davi decided to go home, however, she insisted that Yijin will stay with him until his knee will fully recover.

The young body guard was surprised, but he could only obey his lady boss's order. Davi then told his little brother that she will still drop by from time to time before she finally left.

On her way to Gray to mansion, Davi was smiling. She tried viewing herself into his little brother's shoes and was surprised to find out that she will definitely do the exact thing he did. Thinking about it convinced her that it was the right decision, causing her to felt a great relief and at the same time thankfulness.

At that same moment, Davi was looking out the car's window when something caught her eyes. She ask the driver to stop the car and as soon as she stepped out, she went straight into a flower shop across her.

Truth was that, Davi was looking for a Daffodil to send him, however, the closest flower shop at Sky Town surprisingly doesn't have any daffodils left. Thus, she ended up picking white camellia instead.

Davi's late grandmother was a flower lover. She even had a mini garden in her house where Davi learned her gardening skill. The old woman also taught her all sort of things especially about the language of flowers. And she couldn't forget what her grandmother told her before, 'let the flowers silent voice speak for you, it is sometimes more romantic than words'.

Minutes later, Davi finally chose a single daffodil.

One of the reason why she sent him flowers and cookies early in the morning was to trick him that she won't come home. It was basically her preparation for her next move.

'Step #19; slip back unannounced'

Davi always remembered how much Hinari stressed the power of surprises in her advices. She said that sweet surprises are magic that was oozing with positive love signals. And slipping back unannounced when he least expected it will just increase the power of magic that will hardly hit him. Repeating what she once told her before; 'be an arresting sweet aroma that's appearing out of nowhere especially at times when he is alone.'

Although she also said that this step is among the riskiest, simply because the possibility of wrong timing is high, she also stated that if there's a human cheat at the other side, then there's nothing to worry about.

Thus, that moment, Davi stopped at the road's pathway and was about to message the human cheat, Mr. Chen, when a red flashy convertible car stopped in front of her.

She raised her head and her face turned quite displeased on what appeared before her.

"Ohhh! Look what I've found. My sweet unfortunate goddess is here," a blonde guy looking like a spoiled rich kid, called out mischievously as he leered at her.

Davi instantly felt like her pleasant mood was destroyed just by the sight of this man. He is Wu Rei, the so called playboy heartthrob and her annoyingly forceful classmate back in high school, who was among the main reason why Davi learned taekwondo. Seeing him just made her remember his extremely irritating habit of following her everywhere, and declaring himself as her boyfriend shamelessly.

And thinking about it just made her want to just beat him into pulp. Thankfully, because of the fragile flower in her hand, she managed to calm down and just ignored him as she started walking away as if she saw and hear nothing.
