

ILY Monster 83

By the time the mini facial finally finished, Sei immediately wore his mask again before he carefully removed the blindfold in her eyes.

"Does it feel better now?" she asked and he nodded.

"Mm. Feel good."

Davi smiled at him as she stood and tidied the things she used. She was curious about his reaction but since she couldn't see his expression at all, she could only rely on his answers.

Shortly after that, someone knocked the door. Sei stood and opened the door and as expected, Zaki appeared.

"Did I interrupt something?" he said mischievously before he sidled towards him and whispered something.

As soon as Sei heard whatever Zaki told him, he immediately turned towards the girl who just stepped out from the bathroom.

Seeing them, Davi could already tell that there might be another important thing Sei must do. Thus she could only smile and wave her hand dismissively.

"It's fine, you can now go," she said and the man nodded.

Davi watched him went out until the door was closed when suddenly, her phone rang. She quickly picked her cellphone and was surprised. The caller was no other than her love guru and best friend, Zuzuki Hinari. For the past month, Davi was trying to call her but the girl wasn't answering at all. She only received occasional messages from her once in a while.

"Hello sweetie."

"Hello? Hinari? Where on earth are you?"

"Haha. Don't worry about me, worry about yourself. I'm in North America."

"Then why are you not answering my calls?"

"Duh. Because you only called when I'm asleep."

"Er... well... how should I know that you're actually at the other side of the world?"

"So? How was it? I bet your man is now a putty in your hand."

Hearing the words 'putty in your hand' immediately made Davi somewhat speechless. Well, the first thing that appeared in her head was when Sei gave her a score of three out ten the last time she asked him.

"Er... I think we didn't reach to that extent yet... uhm, not even close I guess, I can't see his reac---"

"HUH?! What the hell did you say? With that beauty of yours and... are you saying that my advices actually didn't work on him? Bloody hell... wait, I can't accept this. Your man might be gay, he might be gay I'm sure of it---"

"Hey, calm down. He's not gay okay?"

"How could I calm down?"

"Listen... actually he is---"

"No, you listen to me Davi. Did you two even kissed?"

"Er... we did... well yeah... I did kiss him."

"What type of kiss?"

"Huh? Well, just a peck in his lips?"

Silence followed Davi's statement. Afterwards, she heard a sound of something that was bumped perhaps into a table. That moment, Davi could only imagine Hinari being greatly frustrated that she was lost for words.

"It's not like there's no impro---"

"Hear me Davi, just go and jump unto him. Kiss him. No, French kiss him. If he won't reciprocate, kick his ass!"

Davi could only cough slightly as soon as she heard what her friend just said.

"H-huh? F-french kiss?"