

ILY Monster 86

Davi's final resistance slowly crumpled. She didn't expect this man of all people to suddenly act like this. If he was another person, she would have think that he was just desperately trying to flirt with her. However, the man talking was no other than the stone cold wooden statue, Sei.

Davi couldn't believe what he just said that she suddenly landed her palm unto his nape to feel if he was actually not feeling well.

And while Davi's hand was still on his nape, the man talked again.

"You really don't want to?" he asked and his tone seemed a bit disappointed. That moment, Davi remained motionless as her gaze was locked unto him. She looked as though realization finally dawned on her upon hearing his voice.

What am I doing? Isn't this a really rare and unexpected chance for me? Why am I worrying if he finds out I'm lying? This is a perfect chance for me to test the water, right? Ugh! Please brain, cooperate with me.

That moment, Davi just imagined herself slapping her own forehead for almost doing a huge mistake. She realized that she must grab this chance no matter what. She also realized that Sei will not notice that she has no experience at all since she was sure he's even worse than her. And most of all, apart from having a partner to practice with, she thought that this will be a perfect chance for her to observe his reaction and to experiment things in a more intimate way with him for the sake of her future ultimate seduction move.

At the same time, Davi felt as though she just found a powerful gem she could use as stepping stone for her to succeed.

"Of course I want to. I'm just testing you if you're serious," she finally replied and she smiled at him excitedly.

"I'm serious,"

"Okay then, from now on, you're now my student."

"Mn."

"So since, you're now my student, I might order you to call me teacher, is it okay with you?"

"It's okay."

"But we can't start right away okay? I mean, well... I need to officially drop that junior of mine first." Davi was actually planning to buy some time because she wanted to watch the video her friend sent her first. She wanted to gather the weapons she needed to ensure that the moment she begin the siege, the castle will certainly fall in her hand.

"Mm. No problem."

Upon hearing his certain answer, Davi was about to ask him why he suddenly wanted to learn, when her stomach suddenly growled.

"Ahaha... I'm hungry," she said shyly.

And as soon as those words came out of her mouth, Sei finally remembered the dinner he left almost an hour ago. He then stood right away and reached out his hand and helped her stand.

At the dining table, Davi was quite happy. She was eating happily that Sei couldn't help but just watch her. She looked like she was excited about something, as if something good just happened.

So when Davi noticed him just looking at her without even touching his food, she knitted her brows and looked curious.

"What's wrong?" she asked.

"You look happy," he replied and Davi just looked at him for a moment before she smiled wide again.

"Mm. I'm happy. Because you're finally here. I'm not eating alone anymore." Davi's words made him speechless. He felt a strange feeling the moment he heard her. It was a really uncomfortable feeling for him that he could only clench his fists slightly.

"Eat up. You didn't even eat anything yet." Davi continued and her lively voice and dazzling smile made him just stare at her again.

"Should I feed you?" she asked playfully and he snapped.

"No need."

"Say ahh..."

"..."

Sei was speechless the moment the girl reached out the spoon near his mouth even though he said 'no need'. Her eyes were blinking as he looked at her, and he felt like it was impossible for him to reject whatever she's offering him.

That moment, Sei's ears turned red as he hesitantly opened his mouth. While the girl was just enjoying herself as she kept smiling, as if she was just excitedly feeding her cute little pet.
