

ILY Monster 94

At that moment, Davi went silent as her thoughts began to wander deep within.

She began to think about Sei's treatment towards her. Apart from that night he told her to seduce him, Sei never asked any other thing from her, not even her time. He never ordered or demanded her to do anything for him as well. Instead, he just let her do as she pleased, even supporting her with her plans. Sei is always been so good to her that she sometimes thought that he is actually her guardian angel, a heaven-sent.

And thinking about it made Davi felt a certain inexplicable feeling. Sei already became more than just a part of her life. Before she knew it, he already became so precious to her that she wanted to just fly to the sky and give all the stars to him. She wanted to give him the best of her.

Because of that, although she was a bit tired, she started thinking about how to compensate him the best way possible. She wanted to make up for the times she spent for herself. And she wanted it to be much better than all the other moves she did before.

Time passed and she thought about taking him out again for another date. But as she thinks about it, she was shocked herself when she realized that they still never had a real and proper date. She remembered that their first date was actually a disaster, and the second was a mess, causing her to slap her own forehead in her imagination.

However, that same moment, Davi has decided. She decided to ask him out and give him the most romantic date ever. Thus, inside her brain, she started making a plan as she stared blankly outside the car's window. Her concentration was intense, as if she was a military lady general simulating numbers of strategies in her head all at once. She was too focused that she didn't even realize that a long time already went by.

Not even realizing that the man beside her is getting stiffer the longer she stayed silent.

Sei's aura was slowly getting colder as he kept glancing at her. He was thinking deep. This is the first time, Davi ignored him like this. She usually glances at him occasionally with a bright smile even when they were both not saying anything at all. However, this time Davi didn't even turned her head towards him again. She just seemed as though, she just forgot about his existence. Causing Sei to feel an unbelievable discomfort that he never felt before.

Until finally, they arrived at Gray Mansion.

And the moment Davi stepped out the car, she immediately rushed inside, and went straight to the comfort room.

However, Sei who didn't know a thing about why she just immediately rushed towards the house without even looking at him or saying anything, turned even more stiffened. His already cold aura turned way darker that Zaki who was already at the door walked back to him.

"What is it again?" he asked curiously.

"She's ignoring me."

"..." Zaki could only sigh. However, he couldn't blame him because even he did notice Davi's unusual silence. Zaki knew that every time Sei was beside her, Davi always looks ecstatic, so it's strange to see her being quiet and serious. "Well, maybe she's just tired."

"Are you sure this isn't because I kissed her?"

"Huh? Hey, you're imagining things."

"She never ignored me like this before."

"..." Zaki sighed again and he started complaining deep within. She just ignored you for a mere forty-five minutes straight and you're like this?! Why is this monster-turned-human always turned annoyingly so innocently fragile and ignorant when it comes to his wife? Someone please help me smack him hard.

"Okay then, if you're that anxious about it, just go find it out yourself. I'm sure the misunderstanding will be cleared if you do that. Just go kiss her again and ask. As easy as that," he said but Sei just glared at him as though he was telling him he wouldn't trust his damn advice anymore.
