

I'm Richer Than My Billionaire Ex-husband Chapter 275

In Caleb's heart, Alina has always been a problem, and no one knows what Alina is really up to.

Especially at this juncture.

His heart, moreover, is constantly rising and falling at the moment.

"What the hell are they up to?" Ingford was now abuzz with excitement.

Especially with his deadly bite on Alina, according to Chester's temper, wouldn't he bring Emma back to force him back?

And now, nothing has happened.

This is really confusing, at the moment completely he does not know what Chester is trying to do.

But Caleb is well aware of something.

That is, Emma was not brought back directly by Chester's men, and Alina must have known and agreed to it.

Finally.

Caleb came to Mulherd Manor, Chester had already left. Looking at Caleb who appeared in front of her again, Alina, "You really have nothing to do."

Looking at the man limping, she didn't care in the slightest.

Caleb, "What are you up to again?"

He asked.

After all, Alina has always had a lot of tact, so to be able to hold back, in Caleb's opinion, this woman has bad intentions.

And when Alina heard Caleb ask this, she frowned and looked at Caleb.

"In your mind, I'm more of tricks than Emma? She's the only one who's simple, isn't she?"

"At least, simpler than you."

Well.

After all, during this time, they did things that no one could understand. Therefore Emma was naturally a lot simpler in Caleb's heart.

However, now when Alina heard that Emma is simple, it was as if Alina had heard a joke, not knowing what to say about him at all.

"Want to know?" Alina looked mysteriously at Caleb.

Looking at Alina, he felt annoyed.

Hence the raging in his eyes could not be suppressed.

Alina said, "Caleb, I actually really feel sorry and pathetic for you."

Especially in the matter of Emma, what kind of mentality did Caleb carry to shield that woman.

"At least, you are the president of AIG, how can you be so stupid?"

This, more than anything else, was said with a touch of irony.

When he looked at Alina, danger flashed in his eyes.

"Alina."

"Since it has come to the point of lawsuit between us, everything speaks with evidence."

"....."

"You, too, don't care what kind of game I'm playing, after all, it's none of your business what kind of person I am."

Before, Caleb saw it clearly what kind of person Alina is, but not he dare not say so.

"Humph." Caleb snorted coldly and turned around.

However, after just two steps out, Alina opened her mouth, "Are you really not half curious?"

Alina, "Your eyes and consciousness have always been on me, and you're really not half curious about Emma?"

Ever since it happened, Caleb has been chasing after Alina.

What about Emma?

“When we were North Eglinton, she went to the hotel and begged me to forgive her. It was her initiative to leave Ingford after this return, wasn't it?”

At this moment, Alina just pointed out these two biggest points.

Caleb's body stiffened at her words.

These two points are, in fact, the most puzzling in Caleb's view.

According to Emma's temper and personality, not to mention whether she is really willing to leave, as far as the matter of North Eglinton is concerned, Emma would not be willing to bow down to Alina.

“She's doing well in Ingford, and with us all away, it should be the best time she's ever had.”

“.....”

“Why on earth do you think she suddenly went to Eglinton and begged me to forgive her? Or do you think that she was genuinely begging for forgiveness from me?”

This man, in this case, didn't make a fuss about how Emma had begged her and she still hadn't forgiven her or something.

But this, too, is probably the point that Caleb has been avoiding, and although he is unwilling to face it, Alina is now pointing it out.

“So, why do you think she begged for forgiveness?”

At this point, even if Alina didn't say it, Caleb actually knew it.

Alina, “I really admire you for being able to protect her so unconditionally by now.”

If he has felt something is wrong, Caleb should have felt something wrong for a long time.

Even if he didn't feel it before, what about after these two events happened one after the other?

He felt it for sure.

But even so, he helped Emma to leave the country and sent her to a place like South Eglinton.

In a place like that, there is probably no way for someone without a few skills to fish Emma out of it.

“Why do you think?” Rarely, under such sarcasm from Alina, Caleb did not just shrug it off and leave.

“Just wait and see.”

She did not know exactly why.

The woman, who was clearly aware of her grandmother's and her parents' affairs being discovered by herself, was able to remain by Caleb under such circumstances.

So much so that it was really unknown what it was that could make that woman willingly leave Caleb.

As Alina said, wait and see.

Under Caleb's eyes, there was dullness.

In the end, seeing Alina's reluctance to talk, he went away.

Marry was standing behind Alina.

"Miss, Master Caleb is really unreasonable." Marry is now disappointed with Caleb.

Alina, "Okay, Marry."

Alina was not disappointed by this, after all, she was used to it.

Wait and see.

Marry looked at Alina, "It's good to end it."

Alina nodded her head.

Now anyone who knows anything about her relationship with Caleb is almost universally in favour of her going for closure.
