

Chapter 18 - A Moment in Destiny

"Raise your head!" William smiled, his voice sounded more heart-touching, "Do you like to stare at your own feet while talking to other people?"

"Ah!" her face reddened.

She then awkwardly raised her head and gazed into his eyes.

Gazing into his eyes that dazzled like black gems was so enchanting.

"Can you do it?" he asked seriously.

"Yes I can!" Sherry took a deep breath and answered firmly.

No matter how, she would do her best and try hard.

There's no such thing as failing in her world, because she wouldn't let herself fail. She had to raise Dan, which was the source of her confidence!

He said, "Great! I wanted a definite answer!"

"Thank you for Mr. Rowland's help!" Sherry sincerely thanked him.

"Let's eat together!" he gazed at her while saying that.

"What?" she was stunned because she thought she heard it wrong.

"Pack your things, get off work, and eat with me!" he drank his coffee and stood up.

His tall and big figure was so oppressing.

"Mr. Rowland, sorry... I have things to do! I'm leaving!" she must pick her child up. It was already so late... Oh my God, she's going to be late!

She quickly ran out.

William was dumbfounded.

It was the first time a woman had rejected him!

William followed Sherry, who was quickly leaving. Sherry went down, walked out of the company's gate, and ran straight to the bus stop.

But as if the bus was against her, it didn't come! William slowly drove his sapphire blue Bugatti out the company's gate. He glanced sideways and saw Sherry's slender figure in front of the bus stop sign.

She was anxiously looking at her watch. His sharp gaze tightly locked on her figure.

Sherry anxiously waited for the bus. Suddenly, she felt like someone was watching her.

Somehow, her intuition made her quickly raised her head and looked at the road.

There was no one there, there were just many cars coming and going.

She silently shook her head.

Suddenly, her phone rang.

Sherry was shocked before quickly picking the phone up.

"Sherry, what are you doing? I have picked Dan up, you don't need to rush over anymore... Just go straight to home!" Celia's voice came from the other end.

"Thank you, Celia!" Sherry was in panic and she didn't think Celia already picked her son up.

That's good, otherwise she would be so sad once she thought of Dan's disappointed look.

She was so tired and nervous that day, but once she thought of Dan... No matter how hard it was, it was worth it.

She unexpectedly ran into Mr. Rowland and Ms. Rhodes kissing, but then Mr. Rowland acted like nothing happened.

Fortunately, he didn't fire her.

It seemed like Mr. Rowland was not a nasty person who would bear grudges.

Sherry glanced down at her red hands that were scalded... She once again got into trouble and didn't get fired for it. Thought of that, Sherry smiled like she had won the lottery.

William kept looking at Sherry's figure. His Bugatti slowly went across her until it passed through the bus stop sign. While in the reverse mirror, her tiny figure became clearer and clearer.

"Sherry, have you prepared the dress for the company's celebration this weekend?" Alice asked.

"We should wear a dress?" Sherry was dumbfounded, "Can I not go?"

"No way! How could you not go?"

While they were talking, Ms. Hines came and informed, "The company's celebration will be held in Kinga Hotel this Saturday. Dresses for ladies and suits for men!"

"Ugh!" Sherry frowned. Dress! So expensive!

The anxiously awaited Saturday came.

Luckily, Celia had dresses and their figures were similar. Sherry asked Celia if she could borrow a dress.

Celia gave her a white dress which gave a bit Brazilian vibes to it.

After Sherry changed into it, Celia and Dan were stunned.

"Sherry, you should be wearing strap dresses like this! Show your perfect collarbone and chest! Oh my God, that guy is going to have nosebleed!"

"Celia, how can my mommy wear such sexy clothes without anyone protecting her? No, I'm going too! I want to protect mommy so no pervert can't get close to her!" Dan was very anxious.

"Hal! Kid, it's a good thing... You'll get a new daddy!"

"I don't want a daddy, I just want to quickly grow up and marry mommy!" Dan proudly patted his chest, "I can protect mommy!"

"Hehe!" Celia laughed. "Kiddo, you really love your mom! After you grow up, your Mommy will be old!"

"My mommy won't grow old!" Dan shouted, "Celia too!"

"Yes! We will never grow old... Not growing old is a strange thing!" Celia laughed hard.

If they didn't grow old, they'd be the thousand-year-old turtles.

"All right, stop laughing. Look, do I look great?" Sherry looked at the mirror, "No, I don't want to get attention. I just want to be low key."