

Chapter 19 - A Moment in Destiny

"Whoa! That's great!"

"Celia, help me cover it, I can't wear such sexy clothes! What Dan said was right!" Sherry was worried. She's a single woman with a child, how could she act ostentatiously?

In the end, Celia compromised.

Even if the little white dress was suitable for parties... Sadly, the extra blouse covered her exquisite body and made her seemed conservative and old-fashioned.

"Gosh, Sherry, you really ruined my clothes!" Celia shook her head at the sight of Sherry, who was covering her own body.

"It looks way better this way." after looking at it carefully, Sherry smiled indifferently, "Oh, Celia, I'll leave Dan in your care!"

"Mommy, you must come back earlier!" Dan hugged Sherry's arm in anxiousness, "You must be careful of those men, don't drink someone else's alcohol because it might have been drugged. Mommy, are you listening to me?"

"Hehe, oh my!" Celia was stunned, "Where did you learn it? You're very on guard!"

"From the television... Celia, it was on the television!" Dan spoke earnestly.

"Don't worry, Mommy will be careful. Be obedient at home."

"Yes!"

"You must keep your phone on. If someone is bullying you, I'll go and save you right away!"

"Mommy's little guardian!" Celia shook her head, "All right, stop saying sweet nothings. Go ahead, call me when you need me!"

After Sherry left, Dan raised head and seriously asked, "Celia, you think that my mommy should really find a guy, right?"

Kinga Hotel.

The iron-black Machini suit set off William's tall and straight figure. While his female partner who was holding his arm was wearing a gorgeous little purple dress. With the perfect tailoring, her hot body looked extraordinarily prominent.

The most eye-catching one was the diamond necklace on her long and beautiful neck.

Everyone knew that it was the most brilliant diamonds bought from the auction just by taking a look. The earrings, bracelets and rings of the same style were way more superior for those common wealthy businessmen.

Sherry shrank in the corner. She was really out of place for such occasion. There were a bunch handsome men and beauties... They're dazzling!

William and his female partner's appearance made a commotion in the whole celebration.

Liam that appeared behind William also caused an uproar, but there was no female partner beside him.

Liam was also wearing a suit with a smile. He was very handsome.

It's just that, they were of different types. Liam looked too feminine, while William looked handsome with his toughness.

There was a graceful piano sound in the hall and all the guests had gathered around.

Everyone was in awe momentarily when they saw William and the unfamiliar female partner beside him.

On the other side, Mr. John looked glum after seeing the woman beside William. He was clearly dissatisfied with the woman beside William.

Liam looked around and frowned.

It's the same! All these women would come every year, there's nothing new!

Suddenly, he saw a Shrunken figure in the corner. That figure seemed to be Sherry's.

In comparison to the groups of handsome men and beauties before him, she looked too ordinary.

Not her face, but her aura was really unsuitable for that place.

Liam walked over, "Hi! Sherry, my darling... Why are you here by yourself?"

Sherry raised her head and saw Liam's playful face. She spoke in a low tone, "Mr. Brooks!"

He was really a joker. Who did he call as "darling"?

But he didn't seem to have any evil intention, and somehow it sounded quite intimate.

"Hello." she spoke in a low voice.

While hanging her head lower, Sherry looked at the point of her shoes.

She was really unsuitable for such a party, couldn't she just ask for a leave?!

"What? You want to leave?" Liam knew she couldn't sit still just by a glance.

She raised her head in shock, "How did you know?"

"Sherry, you're really special. Other women would be eager for parties, but you unexpectedly wanted to leave!" Liam glanced at her dress.

Yes, she looked better after changing clothes. It was better than her working attire, but it was still uncool, "What about leaving with me instead?"

"Eh!" Sherry was dumbfounded.

"Ha! You're surprised, right?" Liam laughed, "I knew you're just a pure woman. I feel bad for ruining beauties of our country like you!"

What?

Sherry was speechless.