

Read Novel Loving You In Secret Chapter 1751

Loving You In Secret Chapter 1751-However, everything spiraled out of control.

Tyler knew his behavior was despicable, but he could not control his emotions.

When he loved, every cell within him longed for her. Every time he came to see her, he told himself it would be the last time. However, he found himself appearing at her house more and more frequently.

Tyler knew he was in trouble, and it would not be long before he returned to his former self.

Vicky was like a drug to him. Even though he knew that contact with her was toxic, he could not bring himself to let go.

He knew she was pregnant with his child, and his most primal desires began to surge, making it impossible for him to resist the urge to make her stay.

Vicky listened quietly to his confession, and her heart ached.

She could not fight off the urge to hold him; her touch was firm and comforting.

He only mentioned a few words about the time he regained consciousness, but Vicky knew he had endured a lot of pain.

The fact that he was alive was a miracle.

“What was on your mind when you fell into the sea?” Vicky asked.

“That I had to stay alive,” he said. “I had to survive and find you so I can continue to blackmail you into staying with me.”

Vicky was momentarily speechless. After a brief pause, she called out, “Tyler.”

Tyler lowered his gaze to meet hers; her beautiful eyes sparkled in the warm-toned light.

“I’ve been waiting for you.” She looked into his eyes and enunciated each word. “I love you, and that has never changed.”

...

10 months later.

A restless man paced back and forth outside the operating room.

Aurora, who grew dizzy from his pacing, interfered. “Tyler, can you please sit quietly for a moment?”

At this moment, Tyler no longer looked as emaciated as before and fully regained his peak appearance.

He ignored Aurora’s words, his eyes fixed on the operating room where the surgical lights had just come on intently.

He continued to pace until the door to the operating room was pushed open, and Tyler strode forward. In the nurse’s arms was a swaddled baby, ready to be handed to Tyler. However, he completely ignored the baby and walked straight to Vicky, who had just been wheeled out of the operating room.

Due to the abnormal fetal position of the second child, this delivery had been a Cesarean section.

The nurse was slightly taken by surprise. “Um...”

Tyler only had eyes for Vicky and ignored his child completely.

Finally, when Vicky was pushed into the recovery room, she opened her eyes and saw a familiar face before her.

“Vicky, how are you feeling?” Tyler asked in a tense voice.

“Alright.” Vicky’s eyelashes fluttered gently, and she whispered, “Is it a boy or a girl?”

Tyler paused for a moment, then said, "I don't know."

Just then, Aurora entered the room holding the baby with a smile, and said, "Congratulations, Vicky. You've given birth to a big, healthy boy!"

Upon hearing this news, all colors were drained from Tyler's face.

Vicky was also surprised and asked, "Another boy?"

Aurora had always liked boys, so she happily nodded and said, "Yes!"

"Really?" Vicky glanced at Tyler and could not help but laugh. "Another son, huh?"

Tyler had bought a bunch of girl's items and even chosen a girl's name before the baby was born. To his surprise, alas, it was a boy.

Vicky looked at Tyler and smiled. "It doesn't matter whether it's a daughter or a son. What's important is that it's our child."

They would continue to be happy together anyway.

Loving You In Secret Chapter 1752-Tyler showed great disdain when his wish of getting a daughter was let down. What irritated him most was that this son looked remarkably like him.

After recovering from childbirth, Vicky accompanied a newly pregnant Aurora on a shopping trip for baby supplies.

Upon hearing Vicky's story, Aurora could not help but ask, "Men are usually happy when they have sons, so why does Tyler prefer daughters?"

Vicky sighed. "Tyler says that a family is never really balanced and happy unless they have one son and one daughter."

Aurora nodded thoughtfully. "Indeed. Now that you have a son, having a daughter would be perfect. Vicky, have you and Tyler considered responding to the national call and having a third child?"

Vicky shook her head. "The last time I gave birth, Tyler wasn't around, so he doesn't know what it was like. This time, he was scared out of his wits and had no intention of having more children. A few days ago, he even underwent a vasectomy."

Aurora chuckled. "Daughters may be sweet and well-behaved, but there are advantages to having sons, too. With Lufian around, Tyler should be able to retire early and enjoy life with you."

Tyler had not fully recovered when he first returned. Eventually, after resolving their issues, Tyler's health gradually improved under Vicky's care.

Once he was better, Tyler began taking care of Vicky during her pregnancy. Having taken care of Vicky during her previous pregnancies, he was experienced in this role.

Being a father of two, Tyler finally abandoned his revenge against the Hart family under Vicky's persuasion and regained control of Hart Corporation. After all, power and influence were necessary for a good life, and Tyler wanted to do everything to secure a great life for his family.

Old Mister Hart, upon learning of this, made a special call to thank Vicky. He returned to Molivia for retirement, with Valencia and Orion accompanying him.

Vicky smiled with a touch of tenderness in her eyes. "I need to stop by my studio later. The clothing designs I made for him should have arrived.”

Aurora’s initial impression of Tyler was hardly favorable, but after witnessing his genuine care and concern for Vicky, her opinion gradually changed.

It was clear that Tyler cared deeply for Vicky. Despite all the challenges they had faced, the storms finally passed.

Aurora offered, “I’ll go with you!”

“Alright.”

After retrieving the clothing designs from the studio, Vicky was ready to head home.

“Vicky, can you accompany me to buy a few more things? I...forgot to buy something,” Aurora said.

Vicky looked at her in confusion. “Didn’t you just buy everything you needed?”

Aurora averted her gaze. “Well... I want to buy some cat food! We’re running low at home.”

Vicky gave her a knowing look. “Sure, let’s go.”

Taking advantage of Vicky’s distraction, Aurora secretly texted Tyler.

[Tyler, hurry up. I can’t stall Vicky much longer.]

Her plan to meet Vicky today had actually been Tyler’s idea.

Since he missed so many of Vicky’s birthdays, he wanted to spend some quality time alone with her this time. Hence, he asked Aurora to arrange an outing with Vicky while he prepared a surprise at home.

As Aurora leisurely picked out cat food, she kept waiting for Tyler’s response.

Eventually, her phone buzzed as Tyler replied.

[Buy some more time.]

Aurora felt like her life had lost all meaning upon reading his response.

Resigned, she came up with an excuse to drag Vicky to a pet store to look at pets and Vicky obliged.

The pet store had a wide variety of animals, making it a great way to pass the time.

After spending about two hours there, Aurora finally received a message from Tyler.

Loving You In Secret Chapter 1753-Aurora sighed in relief. "Vicky, we've been out for quite a while. Shall we head back?"

Vicky glanced at Aurora. "Can we finally go back now?"

"Yes, we can go back... Huh?" Aurora sensed something was amiss. "Vicky, do you...know something?"

Vicky smiled. "Every time I go out with friends, Tyler always bombards me with questions about when I'll be back and insists on picking me up. Strangely, he didn't ask me anything today. Also... I remember that it's my birthday today."

Aurora was left speechless as she realized Vicky saw right through her act.

...

By the time they got home, it was starting to get dark outside. Inside the mansion, it was quiet and pitch-black. Suddenly, a warm, yellow candlelight gradually illuminated the darkness, revealing a handsome face.

"Happy birthday, Vicky," Tyler said.

Vicky gazed at the flickering candles, feeling a bit dazed.

It was then she remembered that during the early days of their relationship, he had prepared a birthday surprise like this for her as well.

Time seemed to have passed quickly, and in the blink of an eye, 10 years had gone by.

“Make a wish,” said Tyler, holding her hand as they walked over to the dining table filled with delicious dishes.

Looking at the spread, a hint of amusement danced in Vicky’s eyes. “You still remember, huh?”

On her birthday 10 years ago, Tyler himself cooked a candlelit dinner for her.

Vicky had long left behind her girlish tendencies, but at this moment, she felt as if she had returned to the excitement and joy of that day.

In a deep and melodious voice, Tyler said, “I never forgot.”

His face glowed with what could only be said as unwavering affection.

After they reconciled, Tyler swiftly arranged for their remarriage the next day. Vicky knew he had buckets of insecurities, so she went along with it.

Vicky slowly closed her eyes and began making her wish. After making her wish, she blew out the candles.

From across the table, Tyler asked, “What did you wish for?”

Vicky smiled and replied, “The same wish I made ten years ago.”

“What did you wish for ten years ago?”

Vicky held his hand, and their matching wedding rings sparkled under the lamplight.

“I wished that we’d live happily ever after and never part from each other for all eternity.”

...

Time flew by.

18 years later, Tyler handed over the position of Hart Corporation's head to their son, Lufian, while he and Vicky enjoyed some alone time together.

Tyler organized a wedding for Vicky, though it was not extravagant, and only close friends and family were invited.

In the presence of their loved ones and friends, Tyler slowly lifted the veil from Vicky's face, planting a gentle kiss on her forehead.

Even after all these years, his feelings for her remained as they were.

In his eyes, Vicky was still as radiant as when he first met her.