

Infatuated with My Mysterious Husband Novel

Chapter 26

Valeria lay still and motionless, continuing to pretend to faint.

The car finally stopped after driving for a long time.

The two men got out of the car and saw Valeria lying motionless. They thought Valeria was still in a coma.

"This little woman is still in a coma. Let's get into the house of the forest people on the mountain and enjoy it. Then we'll see what will happen."

The two said and got Valeria off the car. Then they carried Valeria on their back and walked up the rugged mountain road.

After walking for about 40 or 50 minutes, they stopped and said, "We're finally here. I'm exhausted!"

Valeria continued to close her eyes, feeling that she was placed on the bed.

The two men didn't know that Valeria had already woken up. After putting Valeria on the bed, they made a quick decision about who to rape her first by playing finger-guessing game.

There were only two wins in the three rounds. Judging by the voice, the driver must have lost. He swore, "You're f*cking lucky. Why did you get ahead of me in everything? I'll go to the back and smoke a cigarette. Hurry up!"

The man left while swearing. The man who covered Valeria's mouth came over and ripped off the black cloth on her eyes.

Valeria's legs and feet were tied up with a tape. The man felt that it was not very convenient to do it, so he cut off the tape on Valeria's feet.

They were in the wilderness. They took Valeria to an abandoned forest warden's house, so they were not worried that Valeria would wake up and shout.

The man reached out and grabbed the towel in Valeria's mouth and threw it on the ground. Valeria continued to lie still.

The man was so lecherous that he even cut off the adhesive tape on Valeria's wrist.

There was a rustling sound in her ear. The man was taking off his clothes. Valeria was secretly moving her wrist.

The man quickly took off his clothes and reached out to untie Valeria's button.

Just after the two buttons were undone, Valeria, whose eyes had been closed, suddenly acted. She took off the hairpin on her hair and aimed it at the man's face. It was a fierce hairpin.

The man never thought that the unconscious woman would suddenly make a trouble, and he didn't expect Valeria to have a weapon.

Valeria hit the man in the eye with a blow. Blood instantly sprayed out and the man screamed.

With one strike, Valeria jumped up and ran out. She had a stun. If she had been in normal times, she would have fainted on the ground and couldn't move her feet.

But now her desire for life and fear made her forget everything. Valeria jumped out of bed, opened the door, and ran out.

Behind she came the voice of a man who had been stabbed by her, "Hurry up, the little woman has run away. Catch her for me!"

After losing the game, the driver lit a cigarette and smoked it behind the house. Hearing the scream, he was shocked and immediately threw away the cigarette butt and came back.

The companion covered his eyes and came out of the room with blood on his face, "Hurry up and catch up with her. Kill her immediately! B*tch!"

"Don't worry, She can't get away!" The driver comforted his companion and went to catch up with Valeria.

This was mountainous area. The mountain roads were rugged and it was night time. Valeria ran forward while running and calling for help.

Her voice echoed in the mountains, and behind her came the sound of hurried footsteps.

Valeria was terrified to the extreme and ran forward desperately. She slipped and rolled down the hill.

The man behind him did not expect such a situation. While he was in a daze, he suddenly saw the light of flashlights at the foot of the mountain coming up. 2

"Oh no, how could someone come at this point?" he thought.

"Could it be the helper called by the b*tch?"

In spite of everything else, he rushed back to the room and called for his companions, "Damn it, someone is coming up the mountain. Let's go!"

"Where's this little b*tch? How dare she plot against me! I swear I would kill her!" The man who was stabbed covered his bloody eyes and cursed.

"The little bitch has slipped down the mountain. I don't know whether she is dead or alive. As long as no one can save her, she will surely die. Let's run away from the back mountain quickly, or it will be too late!"

Send Gift

Comments