Chapter 151 Another Kind of Taste

Mother Hoyle said softly, "I watched Ophelia grow up, she is a good girl, she is clever, sensible and filial, and she has been waiting for you for so many years. I know you have been searching for so many years, trying to find the girl who saved you. I have never seen that girl, but just as you said, she is such a girl, however, she left you first, it's not you do not want her, it's she that gave up you first. I think you are more grateful to her than love her. You don't even know what she looks like. How can you fall in love with her? Now that you have made up your mind to marry Ophelia, I hope you will treat her well and not do anything to make her sad. Do you understand?"

"Mom, don't worry about it anymore. I know how to deal with it." He knew what he was doing and what he should do.

No one can play tricks behind him and retreat as well.

Aoba and Ada got up one after another, and tended a little sleepy. They didn't have enough sleep yet. "Happy New Year, Mom!"

Looking at them, Mother Hoyle happy. "You two are so lazy. Your elder sister-in-law has been cooking in the kitchen for a long time."

Ada listened to her mother's words and become excited, "It seems that the elder sister-in-law is really ready to be a good wife and mother, however, I don't know if the dishes will be poisonous or not, elder brother, you have to get ready for avoiding it."

Chapter 152 But the Bride Is Not Her

Olive spent a busy Spring Festival. There are a lot of things to do every day, so that she had no time to think about other things. But on the eighth day, she gave herself a day off and drove alone to a quiet seaside.

The weather in Luo city was very good and the sun was warm. According to the weather forecast, Jiang cheng was also sunny.

It's a good day to make marry ceremony.

When she got out of the car, the sea wind blew her windbreaker up with the cold of early spring. She climbed up to the height of the rocks and shouted loudly to the sea. She cried and burst into tears. She sat at the seaside from sunrise to sunset.

The man she loves is married today, but the bride is not her. It's such a conventional story.

Chloe didn't know Alan 's wedding date, but Ivy did. He knows a lot about that man.

Ivy went to the Angel Hotel to look for Olive. The staff there told him that she was on vacation today, but she didn't go home until evening, nor did she accompany with Annie. Her mobile phone has been unable to get through, he was a little worried, but he did not dare to bother Father Steele and Mother Steele, they just think she was working overtime in the hotel.

Where would she go?

For that man, she can't him at all. Otherwise, on this day, she won't hide and heal herself.

He looked for her all over the street. Although Luo city was not big, but there was a lot of people. He did not know where she was.

Chapter 153 Olive, Just Forget Him

After choosing an authentic Sichuan-flavor hot pot restaurant, Ivy asked the waiter for a small balcony and ordered her favorite dishes.

She ate very quickly, as if all the sadness he had just seen her on the beach was a false impression. The fragility that he heard on the phone was cleaned up by her tenacity, which made him unable to take care of her.

"Olive, just forget him."

Olive stunned, her tears suddenly came back and fell into the bowl. "Am I silly? He got married today, I know clearly that I can no longer love him, but I still think of him."

Ivy wiped her tears with a tissue. "Olive, he's not the only good man in the world. Just as what you persuade me before, there are many good women in the world, either. There's no need to be entangled only with a man."

"Some words are easy to persuade others, but it's difficult to persuade oneself." Olive took the tissue in his hand and sighed.

Ivy grabbed her hand. "Chloe said that you like to read Zhang Xiaoxian's book in your leisure time. I remember one of her saying that there is always only one way to forget a relationship. There is only one way, time and new love. If time and new love do not make you forget a relationship, there is only one reason: the time is not long enough, and the new love is not good enough. Olive, let me take care of you. I don't mind if you use me to forget that man."

Chapter 154 Alan was Her Poison

After checking out, he sent her back. He didn't drive fast. He watched her looking out of the window and her eyes turned red again. She was thinking about the man who was married today.

At the intersection, when the red light came on, he stopped the car and said, "Do you want to go to waittingbar for a meeting?"

Olive blinked her eyes, and there was a lot of moisture on her eyebrows. "How about another day?"

"But if you go back like this, uncle and aunt will be worried."

"It's all right. I'll just sit in the neighborhood."

"Is it so difficult to forget him?"

Olive put her hand on the car door and rubbed her forehead. "I also want to forget him. Five years, I don't know why I can't forget him."

"Maybe it's heredity." Ivy sighed softly.

"I don't see how smart her mother is. At best, she's not stupid." Dave gave Olive a preliminary impression.

"Olive is restrained. You will find her cleverness later, and Annie, in fact, is Alan's child." As soon as this sentence was over, the car scratched across the road with a sharp, piercing rubbing sound.

Dave stepped on the brake and staggered. "Come on, in the middle of the night, don't say anything that could easily cause road killers."

How did that woman relate to Alan? They also had a child. The news was absolutely valuable.

"I see, you're approaching the mother and daughter on purpose."

"I've known them for five years, and I didn't know that thing until recently." This was the most painful place for him. Why the woman he loves couldn't forget his enemy?

Xenia snorted. "It's all your work, isn't it? Ivy isn't as untidy as you are. It was in good order before you came in."

Sure enough men and women couldn't be compared. Although she could not cook, she kept the house tidy and soon put the mess in order.

"Well, it's different with a woman in the house. Hey, Xenia, I will find a house in the next few days, you can move in with me. Ivy will clean up the house himself." Dave laughed.

Ivy looked at him and felt that he had an impure purpose.

Xenia gave him a mean look, "You want to find a free maid, right?"

"You are looking for a job, aren't you? My martial arts health center is about to open soon, I need staff. You can manage finance for me. If money managed by our own side person, I will be at ease. I guarantee you food and shelter, how about this advice?" He planned so great for himself.

Xenia said with anger: "I'm not your own side person."

Dave smiled and thought it was so funny to tease her, "Why not? You called me brother. I do not easily treat others as my sister outside. Once you call me brother, I will protect you."

Ophelia seemed to be clingy to him. She followed him everywhere, like a shadow. It was not until the day before the wedding that Alan sent her back to her parents' home that they finally separated. Xenia thought the opportunity was coming. She followed his car a long way. He seemed to wander aimlessly on the street. At a quiet intersection, she stepped on the gas pedal and rushed to the front of the car to block his car.

Alan was a good driver. He stopped within a centimetre of her car. He was no stranger to her face, and when she got out of the car, the window of his car was opened, "Mrs. Boswell, what do you mean?"

He seemed extremely unhappy, his face was cold like frost.

"I'm looking for you to make a deal." She came straight to the point and didn't want to talk nonsense.

"Not interested in that," Alan said coldly, driving the car backwards.

"What about Olive?"

The car suddenly stopped, quietly parked, black like a cloud with rage.

But her bet was right.

As soon as she got into his car, she rummaged all over.

After getting off the car, Xenia walked a few steps and turned back. She asked him carefully through the window, "will you marry Ophelia tomorrow?"

"Why not." Alan ground, stepping on the accelerator at his fee. The car disappeared like an arrow leaving Xenia shouting in the empty road, "Hey, you can't get Olive when you get married."

What did the man think?

Alan did not return to Hoyle family, but to his private villa outside. When Delyn opened the door, he was shocked to see that Alan was angry and hurried.

"Mr. Hoyle, what's the matter"

Didn't he getting married tomorrow? How can he get here instead of Hoyle's?

Alan said as he went upstairs, "call Dave to Hoyle family to get my dress for tomorrow and see me in the study."

"OK." Delyn watched him disappear at the corner of the stairs with some worry. He called Dave quickly and explained the matter in short words. He couldn't help saying, "Mr. Hoyle seems not to be very happy."

"Never mind, wait for me." Dave laughed and drove to Hoyle family. Naturally, he can't help but explain.

The Alan's mother was so anxious, she actually knew that Alan would not let her rest assured,"Ada, you hurry to call your eldest brother and ask him where he is now. He actually dares to be late for marriage!"

Ada sighed and really wanted to take the cotton balls in her ears, she had said it more than ten times in an hour and urged her once every few minutes,"Mom, I just spoke to my eldest brother on the phone, he's on the second ring road and almost there. Don't worry too much, ok?"

"Can I not worry? Why do I always feel my eyelids twitching?" She always felt that something bad would happen, she couldn't rest assured without seeing her son.

Ophelia sat in the dressing room in a white wedding dress holding flowers, it was an hour past the original auspicious time, the guests who off the platform were talking about this matter. Why hadn't that familiar figure appeared yet? Was that because...

She dared not continue thinking about it and kept comforting herself. It wouldn't be like this. Yesterday, when he drove her back, he was still normal. He also told her not to get up late so that had enough time to put on makeup.

"What's the matter with Alan? He actually dares to be late for such a big thing as marriage." Ophelia's mother couldn't help complaining alongside.

Ophelia's father gave her a quick pull, "Just say a few words less, you see, our daughter was already so nervous."

"Can't I just say a few words? It's true, they have been engaged for so many years, he has dragged and refused to get married. Thanks to our daughter always likes him wholeheartedly, anyway, he has no loss." The Ophelia's mother snorted, as if she was not happy if she didn't give vent to her anger.

"Dad, mom, Alan must come. Since he personally promised me to marry me, he would certainly come." When Ophelia said this, she felt its not very reliable.

"If he does not come, I will break one of his legs and bring him here." Ophelia's father comforted his daughter.

After he said this, the priest was stunned and the crowd was in commotion. Both Alan's mother and Ophelia's mother and father turned pale, "What the hell is going on?"

Ophelia was even paler. When she looked at his face, there was still a strong smile on his face. But his smile suddenly turned into the cold glare, which made her fervent heart like falling into the ice cave. She could not believe that he actually embarrassed her in front of so many guests and also made the Hoyle family and Meyer family feel awkward, "Brother Alan, what did you say? "

Alan leaned close to her ear, "You know best what I have said. Ophelia, I always thought even if you are headstrong, you are also a kind girl. But I don't expect that you have been ruthless so that I want to kill you. I have clearly known everything you had done to Olive, Annie is my own daughter. If you dare to hurt them again, don't blame me for not considering previous friendship."

This word seemed to make all energies of Ophelia drain, she was tottering. Olive, you won.

The bridesmaids hurried forward to hold her.

The Ophelia's mother rushed forward, slapped him in the face and pointed at his nose, "Alan, you say, what did she do wrong so that you are doing this to her? Without her help, can you achieve your current achievements?"
