Chapter 181: Come Back and Pick Me up

"Solve it yourself." How could this man have so many good luck? He could enchant girls even when he was in an elevator. Charming appearance really made him popular.

After breakfast, he took her downstairs of the meeting hall. It was all his fault. When she hurried upstairs, the meeting has already begun, so she had to bend down to go in through the back door and sat next to the annoying Qin she met yesterday.

There was no other better options, because it was the only unoccupied seat left behind.

Qin touched her, as if she was unwilling to let the matter go, "Hey, that man yesterday, is really your husband?"

He later thought about it and felt something was wrong. It seemed that he has met that man somewhere.

"Any questions?" Olive answered coldly and moved her body aside without trace.

Qin said with a smile, "No. I just feel I seemed to meet your husband before."

"Maybe." Olive scribbled casually in her notebook. Although Alan was not very high-profile, he occasionally appeared in newspapers and magazines and on TV. If not, she couldn't collect so much information about him these years. So it was not strange for people in the business circle, like Qin, to feel he has met him. It was just that there was a buzzing fly sound in her ear that made her upset.

"Hey, what's your husband's name? What does he do?" After a while, Qin got closer.

What did this man want? Was he investigating them? "I'm sorry," Olive said angrily. "No comment."

As soon as she got in, she asked, "Mr. Hoyle, where are you going to take me today?"

"Isn't there a party to attend? After dinner, I'll take you to buy the dress." Outside the window, the man surnamed Qin looked over. Alan leaned over, put on the safety belt for her, and then smiled coldly at him. Was he on the catch for his woman? How dare he had this idea.

Olive actually brought a dress, but in Alan's eyes, he must feel it was shabby. "Hey, aren't you afraid someone will be attracted by me and take me away if I got gussied up?"

Alan said with a smile, "I haven't been around for five years and nobody could possess you. Now I'm back, can you still run away from me? If you dare to run away again, I will tie you up and hang you to beat you until you kneel to beg for mercy."

"If I'm hanged in the air by you. How can I kneel?" Olive laughed.

She took advantage of loopholes of in his words. He didn't mean it, because he couldn't bear to hurt her.

After dinner, he took her to try on dresses. Olive also slowly accepted his way of consumption. She chose to ignore the price directly, otherwise her heart would ache for the money.

Over the past few years, she really made a hard living, especially in the first few years. She didn't dare to buy anything if it was not necessary. Even though she had to buy it, she would choose a cheaper one. At the time, someone suddenly appeared to pay bill for her, which made her really unable to adapt it for a while.

He chose her a lavender colored dress with sloping shoulders, lace and pleats. The hemline of the dress just touched the ground, and there were small three-dimensional flowers under the pleats. When she changed it, she looked at the woman in the mirror, and felt like she was a princess in the fairy tale.

Alan hugged her waist from behind and breathed hot against her ear. "What should I do? You are so beautiful. I will be worried if you go to that party."

Such a beauty. He only

The hairdresser wouldn't give up. He made invisible drawings above her hair with his orchid fingers, "Miss, if you do a curly hair and have you hair dyed, you will look more pretty."

"I like straight hair." Alan said coolly.

"Well, in that case, I'll make a rebonding for Miss."

"No, my wife's hair is very straight. It hurts hair. just trim it for her."

The hairdresser saw that he failed to strike the bargain, his face didn't look good. However, there were other customers in the shop, so it was not proper to complain. He murmured something in a low voice, which may not be very pleasant to hear.

Olive was chuckling. Alan, you are so stubborn and cute.

In less than half an hour, they came out of the salon. The hairdresser complained to his colleague behind them. "Why would that woman fall in love with such a man. He couldn't even pay the perm money for her. What a stingy man."

Olive couldn't help laughing at last. If the hairdresser knew that the stingy man he said could make his hairdressing shop go bankrupt by using a little power casually, she couldn't imagine how wonderful his expression would be.

"Are you really laughing? What a hell place you chose." Alan stared at her.

"No," Oliver said, glancing at him. "You just want to ask me if I had woosers, right? Why bother being so roundabout?"

"Was there any?" Alan laughed. He really wanted to know. In fact, he didn't know much about her. He had to start to make this up.

"Yes." However, at that time, she was not in the mood to fall in love. She was either busy fighting with Chloe, or she had to work hard to keep the first grade. The first place had a large scholarship, which can reduce the financial burden of her parents. Besides, they didn't know what love was. She thought she was very mature at that time. But it was funny for her at this time.

"How many?" Alan asked.

Olive started to count with her fingers. When she counted one more, Alan's face darkened a little. Until she counted to ten, his face was very gloomy. It seemed that his girl had a lot of luck in love affairs, so he needed to keep a closer eye on her later.

Olive patted his gloomy face. "I lied to you. Most people were busy studying. In fact, there were only a few couples who are in love."

"How many on earth?"

He kept asking. The man was so narrow-minded.

Olive chose a comfortable position, took off her shoes on, put her legs into the sofa, and put her head on his lap. "I don't know, no one has ever express his feelings to me, but I received several love letters in the table, but I just threw them away."

The answer satisfied him. She did a good job. Otherwise, it was dangerous. His girl would have been cheated and fooled by those little boys who haven't grown up yet.

Sitting in the room and having meals alone, she suddenly felt a little insipid. He had just left. Why did she just start to feel unusual? When he was here, she felt that he was too clingy.

Human is really a contradictory and polarized animal.

Annie called, "When do you come back, Mommy? I miss you so much."

"Honey, Mommy will be back at the weekend. I'll bring you a big gift."

Could Alan be regarded as a big gift? Olive couldn't help smiling and bending her lips. She wondered whether it would scare Annie. This child, though seldom asked the condition of her father, missed him so much.

"What is it, Mommy. Can you tell me?" Annie was curious.

Olive laughed and deliberately kept her guessing, "Well, it's a surprise. Let's just keep it secret."

"OK, I'll wait for mommy to give me the surprise." Annie was happy.

Hanging up the phone, Olive made up a message for Alan, "Where are you now?"

There hadn't been a reply for nearly ten minutes, and she didn't know if he had seen it.

After meals, Olive found that it was still too early, so she just leant on her bed to watch TV. But there seemed to be no interesting program to watch. There were only some noisy entertainment programs, a lengthy TV play, and endless advertisements.

Suddenly a strange number called her mobile phone, then she pressed the answer key, "Hello, who is that?"

"Time to get up." The voice was soft.

This word was used to describe a man! Well, Olive was choked. "Alan, can you not be so aggressive? I'm afraid that you will be caught for drunk driving and be in prison for fifteen days. At that time, I'll go to the detention center to give food to you. It's said that the detention center is like a gangland prison. People here are not allowed to eat well and sleep."

This girl was threatening him! But he also knew that she was afraid he would have an accident, "where do you hear these things?"

"Online. A lot of bad prisons."

"Don't look at these things in the future. If you are free, you can look at me."

Olive sighed, "Mr. Hoyle, you are so narcissistic."

"I just love you."

"Well," she didn't think she can be as sappy as him. She changed the subject because she didn't want to be disgusted." how long can you go to the hotel?"

"I'm not familiar with the road here. I have to ask the driver."

They were silent for a few seconds. Olive suddenly called out, "Alan, you are not shy? Ah, there is other person in the car but you say sappy words."

Thinking about it, she blushed. How did he do not blush when he said sappy words in front of other people.

She should have believed him. Since he dared to be with her so openly, he must have thought of a perfect way.

So, Olive, you should be brave.

Alan saw the woman in the video changing her posture. She was simply lying on the bed, with two legs moving in the air. Although the quality of the picture was not particularly clear, she can still be seen chewing snacks like a little mouse. The sound of creaking went through the microphone.

"Is it delicious?" He asked.

"Well, what you bought is delicious." She had learned to answer him in his voice.

He wanted to eat her, but he could only look at her and feel a little restless of his lower part of body.

"Girl, in a few days, let's get marriage certificates in Luo city." He couldn't wait to make her being his wife. Only in this way, he was relieved. He wanted to give her a shackles and cover the chapter of his Alan in this life.

"You want me to elope with you." Olive looked at him happily.

The boss was him? Olive was shocked by this thought. but it was nothing strange. Hoyle companies were not only in Jiangcheng. Hoyle company had many branches. Moreover, Alan seemed to be familiar with Jinjiang city and should come more often.

She wanted to ask him, but was afraid of disturbing his work. She sent a message to him. He didn't respond all day.

Her mobile phone was so quiet that she always felt something wrong. When it came to dusk, she suddenly remembered that he hasn't bothered her all day.

He said that he would call her at noon but he didn't. At that time, she was sleepy and did not respond. This man was testing her that if he didn't call her, would she take the initiative to call him?

He was such a naive man and even cared about such a small thing.

Although she despised his behavior, she still called him obediently. Unexpectedly, she heard a cold voice said, "sorry, the phone you dialed has been turned off."

She hasn't seen him turn off the cell phone these days. At most, it was turned into a vibration model. He wanted her cell phone to be open 24 hours a day. How can he turn it off?

She was puzzled. Returning to the room, she called him again. But the phone was still turned off.

"What the hell." She mumbled and waited. Maybe he didn't notice that his mobile phone was out of power. When he was busy, he seemed to have no sense of time.

He didn't mean to. It just happened suddenly. He didn't know that the mobile phone in his pocket was turned off automatically.

But even if she missed him, she didn't need to make a phone call in a few minutes. This frequency made his eyelids jump. The girl must be worried about him.

He called the phone in her room directly but no one answered. Was she sleeping so soundly?

He was worried and immediately called the hotel people to see if she was safe.

"Why? Your girl has made trouble for you again." The man said with a smile.

"No!" He was serious.

"Look at your face. She run away again? Don't worry. I'll catch her for you again."

"No." If she wanted to run, she won't call him many times. What he worried was if she was in the room. If she wasn't, where did she go?

The man despised Alan. "You are so nervous that you frighten yourself. Maybe she went out to play at somewhere. She is an adult, not a child, and doesn't need to be monitored for 24 hours. Anyway, tomorrow...No, it should be said that she will go back today and then you can see her."

It was quiet in the hall. Although it was warm, Olive still felt cold. She was hungry and sleepy. The man followed her and sat down beside her. He crossed his legs. It was a wild and uninhibited posture.

"What do you want?" Olive finally couldn't help but say. She was alert. Looking at him carefully, Olive found that the man seemed to have had a fight. His suit was wrinkled and two buttons were missing. His eyes were blue and bruised. However, all these did not affect his handsome. He did not have any embarrassing postures. He seemed to be dangerous and charming.

The man was not angry with her cold face, but said with a smile, "it seems that Miss Steele is not the only one who can sit here."

Well, she must bear it. It was not her place. She can sit away from him! Olive got up and sat down on the sofa on the other side and glared at him fiercely. However, how did he know her surname was Steele.
