Chapter 201 "Can you be gentle, Olive?"

What happened tonight was expected to provoke a lot of topics in such an occasion. But anyway, she was no longer in these people's eyes and it was Norton Geve who would regret getting her here. And some things had a ripple effect like a butterfly effect. Alan Hoyle suddenly turned around and looked at Qin Ling but seemed to say to everyone, "Mr. Qin, I forgot to tell you that Olive Steele is my wife who is not a vain woman and she is my only love."

Then everyone at present was shocked and screamed but Olive Steele did not hear it and she was taken away by Alan Hoyle, which made her not expect to leave so early as she just wanted to turn up. After backing room, Olive Steele was about to say something when Alan Hoyle kissed her lips and made his tongue interweave with hers. Alan Hoyle did not expect it happened to her when he just was not her side about ten minutes. Fortunately, his Olive was strong and he just saw that Olive Steele beat Qin Ling when he came to her. Thinking of Qin Ling twisted his face with pain, Alan Hoyle just want to laugh. It was a bad thing that Qin Ling offended Olive Steele and Alan Hoyle was pity that he could kick him harder.

"Hey, why don't you close the door?" Kent appeared again like a ghost and he leaned against the door with his arms around.

Olive Steele was surprised to hide into his arms and stared at Kent with her blushed face. Alan Hoyle was not pleased to be disturbed at this moment, "Just close the door, thanks."

"But I'm good at disturbing others." He walked in and sat on the sofa with his legs crossed.

Chapter 202 "You're embarrassing me!"

There was silence in the room and Alan Hoyle carefully looked at Olive Steele who seemed to be thoughtful, "Olive, are you angry?"

He just did not want her to have room for thinking deeply, it was said that women always felt insecure and he feared that she would leave him, so he took up all her time forcefully and temporarily deprive her time that with her family and friends, so that she could be with him every second until she relied on him and never leave him alone. So, he made a harmless deal with Norton Geve but he was still worried that she would think of him as a villain. Olive Steele did not say anything for a long while, which frightened him and he was about to explain when she clawed his neck, "You're just a wretch, Alan Hoyle, you dare to fool me and made me lose my face."

Alan Hoyle took a deep breath secretly that she did not angry and he grinned, "Really?"

"Sure, Norton Geve had seen my boyfriend and how do I explain to him? He will crack me down and laugh at me, which embarrassed me."

Then Alan Hoyle suddenly pressed her under him and there was a faint smell of danger, "Who is your boyfriend?"

"What? You still dare to bully me? You know that I played him off." Olive Steele said and beat him.

Alan Hoyle smiled, "You're mine and only I can bully you, come on, give me a kiss."

"I wasn't talking nonsense, it's a fact, don't you believe me?" For many years, Alan loved her; perhaps the most appropriate one sentence was: "Love once begun will never end."

Olive leaned on Alan's chest, "I believe you."

Alan hugged her more tightly and put his chin against her head, "Girl, you have avoided me for too long. I don't have much confidence, so I am afraid that you will change your mind again later. I urgently want to show you my determination: I want to be with you. I want to be together with you forever."

"So, you urged Mr. Geve to arrange this business trip." It's not an exchange meeting at all, nor a reception, it turned out to be just a guise.

"Don't you like it?" Alan asked rhetorically.

Olive tilted her head, "Can I say I don't like it?"

"No." Alan was overbearing.

Olive pouted, "It seems that my answer is not important."

It seemed that Kent was acting up again.

Olive Steele, who was snuggling in his arms, didn't want to move an inch, but the knocking sound was way too loud that she had to tidy up her messy clothes before opening the door.

Two waiters were standing by the door. They came in pushing the cart and said politely, "This is the meal Mr. Bai arrange for two."

At the same time, the phone in the room rang. Alan Hoyle picked it up, and Kent's voice came, "Candlelight dinner with a beautiful woman in your lap. Hoyle, I hope you have a wonderful night."

The waiters were professional. They soon arranged candlelight dinner near the French style window, "Enjoy your meal." they said before they left.

Olive Steele was halfway through the meal in the previous cocktail party when that person surnamed Qin ruined her appetite. She didn't finish her dinner.

The meal on the table looked appetizing. Her mouth drooled just by looking at it.

Alan Hoyle laughed and asked, "Are you hungry?"

In the beginning, I was curious about wine. After drinking it, I found out that the taste was not that good, and it caused my nose and throat uncomfortable."

Alan Hoyle laughed, "But, you're still drinking it."

"For kids, drinking fell second. The fun was in the stealing part that no one noticed. Slowly, I started to learn to hold my liquor."

Alan Hoyle looked at the funny and proud woman in front of him, "You little rascal."

He was just worried about her.

She kicked his feet under the table, "Hey, you really can't compare with me."

"Are you trying to make me lose to escape our agreement earlier today?" he reminded her smilingly.

She blushed. Her heart skipped a beat. Why couldn't she hide her intention in front of this man? She glared at him, bitterly, "You have seen through me."

"Of course, I have, my beloved little fox." he smiled dangerously.

This man loves her, spoils her, protects her, clings to her. It's him made her feelings be open.

"My girl, Olive." His voice was hoarse. Olive, which name had engraved his ownership long ago, made him addicted. Everytime he called her, he would kiss on her lips hard, which behavior made Olive's face blushed, as red as the sunset in the sky, shining and charming.

"Alan."

"I'm here." He lowered his head, as if he was addicted in kissing her.

He cherished his dearest baby much that he couldn't bear to hurt her a little. She was the pearl in his heart. When she was away, he would hurt every night. Now she returned to him, he felt satisfied; and he wouldn't give her any chances to leave again in this life.

Wealth and status were not the ultimate goals he pursued. Those were just the basis for giving her a good life. He remembered that she had said, she worked to make her family live a better life.

At that time, he kept her ready to work 24 hours a day, but she bargained with him without fear or retreat.

Yes, the purpose of work is to make the loved one live comfortably, and so is he.

His little girl, now looking at him with her eyes confused, could not help calling him, "Alan"

Her voice was a little lazy and a bit sexy, making him pleasant.

Alan Hoyle caught her hand, "It seems that you have the strength to do one more time."

Olive Steele quickly retreated, "Oh no, I'm tired and you could self-control for five years, so it's fine to hold a short time."

Olive Steele was clever and she knew how to deal with him but she forgot that Alan Hoyle was cheeky in front of her. the bathtub was not very big so he pulled her back without striking a blow, "I forgot to

Olive Steele hummed, “I didn’t mean it.”

But her protest faded with his kiss and she said, “Alan Hoyle, I’ll break with you if you touch me again tonight.” Olive Steele lay on the bed and feebly resentful.

Alan Hoyle smiled triumphantly, “Really?”

There was no tenderness in his words at all and the woman had to leave even if she was unreconciled to. Kent tidied up his clothes and walked over the wine cabinet, poured two glasses of wine and sat opposite Alan Hoyle.

“Why are you here instead of with your sweetie?”

“So, you satisfied your desires in the office just now as you did not find the right bedmate last night and you were upset?”

Taunting and insulting each other, which was the dialogue mode they never got bored.

“Well, a woman stood me up last night.” It was the first time he had been played by a woman and he would not let her go if he found her. However, he never thought it was this woman who completely subverted his life. Of course, it's another story.

Olive glared at him, "why did you hit me? "

"I usually see you are very smart. How can you become a fool now? " Alan pretended to be angry, and his sincere heart had not been changed ever. She even hesitated and thought about it, which was too shocking.

"Because some people say that a fool has a fortune. " Olive laughed. She once had thought that she had no chance to be with him again any more, but the destiny didn't seem want to let them be separated.

Life really couldn't be decided too early, just as she didn't know what the final outcome would be with him. But she began to try to think optimistically about the future.

Alan pretended to be unhappy, "Then why did you take it down and not wear well? "

"You sent it to me secretly. There is no sincerity at all. You have to put it on again for me. " Olive pouted and said.

Alan had no choice but to put the ring on her finger sincerely. The girl was born to torment him, "You can't take it down again. "

Olive shook hands, "you're lucky, it is too tight to be thrown away. "

Alan raised his eyebrow, happy and proud, "Of course, I chose it in person, so how can it not be appropriate? "

How cheeky he was! Olive showed the whites of her eyes to him, and then she happily looked at the ring on her finger.

Oddly enough, it didn't take long for his hand to be placed on it, but the pain was a little lighter, only to reel back in again if he left it for a moment. Throughout the rest entire flight, his palm didn't leave her belly.

It was nearly dusk when the plane landed in Luo City, and Dave had already come and was waiting at the airport exit.

Seeing this face again, Olive was slightly embarrassed, thinking that at first she was trying to deny her relationship with Alan, now the two of them had been together, which made her feel a little embarrassed at the moment in front of Dave.

Instead, Dave naturally greeted her with a smile and acted as a driver.

Olive closed her eyes as soon as she got into the car and tried to drift off to sleep so that her perception of the pain would be much lighter. She had intended for Alan to take her home, but when she opened her eyes, the car had already driven directly to the Ming Hu Villa.

"You don't look too good, going back like this will make them worry, let's recuperate here for a night before going back. " Alan found a reason that was not reasonable enough, and in fact, he was there selfishness. After staying with her for a few days, she had been more and more addicted to the world with her. Once she went back, he was afraid that she wouldn't be able to enjoy such a wonderful world for a while.

Olive didn't even have time to object, and under Dave's direct gaze, Alan hugged her and went in the door, not minding being seen at all.

The door was opened by Dave, and when he passed by, Olive saw his smile across Alan's arms, and there was no sarcasm or contempt, so natural. As if he had already expected that she and Alan would be together.
