

Innocent Wife 22

Chapter 22

Olive curled her lips, wanting to detour. However, that man moved the newspaper away and sat straightly. He passed a bottle of wine with confusing as well as beautiful eyes, "Hey, stay with me, I am lovelorn."

Olive looked around and found herself was closest to the bench while others were over ten meters away.

The world never was short of lovelorn people.

Somehow, she took the bottle in his hand, "Cheers for the lovelorn."

She newly broke up with someone.

"Hey, aren't all women realistic and merciless? She always said she loved me when I worn designer clothes, drove famous cars and used credit cards, which pleased me a lot. However she changed when I had nothing. Why did she betray me and leave me? Why couldn't she wait me to raise up again? How can women be so bad, so merciless?"

Olive looked at him sympathetically. He looked handsome and was as young as her. There was tears in his eyes that he endured not to fall them off.

Men seldom cried. He might truly fell in love with someone who had no luck to own him.

She drank a few sips, and wiped her mouth by the back of hand, "Not really. Some women are just so stupid. Even they know they can't fall in love, they love men anyway without strings. They are afraid to be the burden thus they choose to leave and miss men after departure."

a moment and become

Olive smiled, "Yeah, it is me. Therefore, not all women are bad. That woman who left you isn't suitable for you. But one day, you will meet your true love, the right person in the right place."

head as if he

" It is gonna

never met

another encounter happened not soon after when Chloe took her to a newly opened bar

Thinking about it now, Olive couldn't help but sighed that anti-alcoholic drugs. Ivy looked at the neon lights in the street and said, "You are right. Time is the best medicine for pain. Chloe will as Olive turned around, her eyes couldn't open under the strong light of the unexpected car and her body

to her beige

“What kind of guy is that? Doesn’t he fear to meet ghosts was beyond her imagination that the ghost in the car was Alan Hoyle.

and followed her to the community somehow. Then he saw a man and Olive walk intimately, talk with each other.

his view, they were so bought something across the street, he accompanied her, sent her back and then drove away.

this made Alan

they fall in

for? Why did you make