

Innocent Wife 24

Chapter 24: You Are the Wisest (2)

"You go first and I'll come soon." Olive said putting a good face on.

Someone wanted her to make a fool of her, but she couldn't make herself embarrassed. She needed to be calm, calm and calm again.

Making herself calm down, Olive drank all the coffee remained last night. The cold feeling ran down her throat. She clenched her hands and then loosened them, picked up the minute book and went to the conference room.

Except for all members of the marketing department, the meeting room was full of employees who were respectively in charge of the purchasing, production, public relations, finance and even personnel departments.

Olive glanced at Alan at the head of the table who looked calm and made others stressed even if he said nothing. The conference room was so quiet that she even could hear the sound when a pin fell to the ground.

Everyone was sitting in earnest. Those women looked at Alan directly or secretly from time to time. The scene was extremely funny.

On his right hand, sitting was Alan's close assistant.

In Sabrina's words, this assistant was handsome and gentle, and looked much more friendly than Alan who always showed an indifferent face.

Olive didn't clearly point out that Sabrina had fell in love with this assistant.

Alan frowned when he saw her coming in without nothing in her hands, "Assistant Steele, how about the materials I have asked you to prepare for the meeting?"

Olive lowered her head and whispered, "I'm sorry, I haven't got them ready yet."

taking pleasure in her misfortune, others were showing sympathy for without any emotional change. But suddenly his eyes glanced at the people at present and immediately ready, stunned for a long time. She had prepared to withstand present, there was her consciousness. She could not let others laugh at her. So she stood was lingered on her face for several seconds and finally he nodded.

vine map on it, and marked the data. She explained slowly and clearly and analyzed the company's strengths and weaknesses from the whole market. She cited the data in detail, as if that material eyes were bright and sharp and her every action showed her confidence conference room, which also mingled with someone's with one hand idly turning the pen in his hand and the other one resting on the arm of the chair to support his

Why did she always make him feel find out that, when she was close to him, the delicate fragrance coming out from her body was also the same with the girl in his memory.

felt that there was something more or less. And there was nothing special about her reaction to him.

confused

Sometimes, he even had an impulse to ask directly if she was

was afraid of getting the

He had looked for her for five years. There was no any news. During the five years, there had been many women who pretended to be her. So it be you? Olive and applause from the bottom.