The Innocent Wife of Scheming President

Chapter 261 You Threatened Me

Olive Steele sighed. It seemed that she didn't have to confess by herself. Somebody else would do it for her. Chloe Malan was one of them, but she didn't know about the other. Alan Hoyle was up to something bad, but she couldn't stop him.

She didn't know how crazy things were about her and him outside now, but she felt that the public must be against him.

She wanted to send a message to Dave Harrod or Kent Bai to see if she could take some countermeasures, but the phone was confiscated once she hung up.

"Miss Steele, can we start?" the man who was crossing his arms didn't intent to give her a break.

"I want to go to the bathroom first, can I?" she was able to put a low profile and suppress it for the whole day, but she was afraid that she might suffer from incontinence if she endured it.

The two men exchanged glances and quickly called a policewoman on duty to accompany her.

They called the policewoman to accompany her, but in all candor, they were afraid of her running away, so they kept her handcuffed. She couldn't fly. How on earth would she escape this place?

Olive Steele could finally breathe after peeing. Now, she was in a ninja turtle mode. But, Alan Hoyle, would he take her away from this place?

She thought he told her to leave everything to him. She thought he told her to put her faith in him. Was he even alert about the rapid changes happened in Luo City and Jiangcheng?

Or, was everything still under your control? Olive Steele could only hope for the latter.

The policewoman urged her, "Are you done?"

"Hey, policemen, you are really so funny. Why should you ask me such childish questions when you've already come to a conclusion, isn't it redundant? Are you going to ask me next if Alan and David, whose name is Kent Bai, are involved in illegal dealings like drug dealing and dirty money laundering? " The policemen wanted to kill two birds with one stone, but it was obvious that it was impossible.

"I'm glad Miss Steele can get my meaning." The policeman who was holding his chest with both hands coldly said.

"But I don't know anything, so it's futile to ask " Olive smiled.

The policeman who was recording slapped the desk, "Olive Steele, you tricked us! "

Olive rolled her eyes and said, "I'm just telling the truth, and if you guys don't believe me, I can't do anything about it. "

"Olive Steele, do you believe that I can make you unable to get out of this door after twenty-four hours.

" The policeman who was in charge of record finally lost his patience and said angrily.

Olive smiled faintly, "I believe it."

Damn these cops didn't know what tenderness is? Olive suddenly thought that the man called He Zizhong was actually quite cute, but since she was locked up in this small house, she hadn't seen him since the beginning, so the meeting at the old tree coffee left her confused and unpredictable about that man's mind, and she was wondering if Qin Ling's case was still under his control.

The police officer who took over the shift had switched the line of questioning to starting with the Angel Hotel, such as the malicious acquisition of the Huang Guan.

Olive felt quite amused, "You guys want evidence to prove these, just feel free to check the Angel Hotel's finances."

Qin Ling's murder now became secondary, who the real murderer didn't seem to be important to the police. And how to make Alan and the Angel Hotel fall down became the top priority in their eyes.

Human's heart is so strange!

She wondered if Qin Ling would feel sad looking at his parents and uncle in heaven.

She didn't like the dead man, but suddenly she felt sympathy.

When Dave walked into the interrogation room, the dreary, oppressive air seemed to be infused with a breath of fresh air, clearing her muddled mind for a moment.

Olive smiled wearily, and she wanted to say, "Mr. Harrod, you've finally come. " But when she opened her mouth, it was mute, and her lips were so dry that it felt like they were cracking.

Someone came to uncuff her, and when she stood up, she almost fell forward because her limbs were numb and her head was dizzy.

Cross-industry job hopping required courage. If it weren't that the boss made staffs feel particularly trustworthy, who would take such a big risk? After the Hoyle Group acquisition of Hengdu, the salary and benefits of staffs had improved a lot compared to before. The boss never treated subordinates and company employees badly, but they still insist on leaving.

As for the woman next to him, as long as she was willing to return to Hengdu, he wouldn't even feel surprised if the boss would give her the entire Hengdu.

He had watched the boss' persistence over the years, even if hope was slim then, the boss had never given up on searching. Fortunately, the boss' efforts paid off. The boss finally got what he wanted. He knew the thoughts of the boss best. In fact, the boss really wanted Olive to work at his own company, but Olive had her own ideas.

When the car stopped, Olive glanced around and was taken aback. Was this a hospital? She couldn't help asking, "Is he injured?"

What she could think of was that he was accidentally injured while dodging the pursuit of those people. But what she didn't expect was if he wanted to avoid the police, how could he still be admitted to the hospital openly?

If people were worried too much, they would always become mentally retarded.

"Honey, don't get too excited. Let the children get up first." Mr. Steele helped Mrs. Steele up.

For the fact that he was lame, this man had long accepted this truth, although he was already more than fifty years old.

His life would inevitably be affected over the years, but his daughter's love made him feel warm.

The child didn't mean it, and didn't want to have such an accident, he could only say that the human heart was sinister.

Olive must be guilty all these years. She had been working hard to make her family live a good life. She lived with a strong and optimistic attitude, which made him feel very gratified.

As for this man, from the first time he saw him, Mr. Steele felt that he was not a common man, but he never thought he would have such a strong background. The Steele family was just a small family, whether Olive fell in love with such a man was fortunate or unfortunate, and Mr. Steele secretly sighed.

Although Chloe Malan felt a little disappointed because she was not able to match Ivy Aldington and Olive, looking at the current situation, she also knew that Olive had fallen in love with Alan Hoyle, and Ivy Aldington had no chance.

Chloe Malan teased, "So you are going to be living with Olive's family?"

It can't be so simple that asked the dignified chief executive of the Hoyle group to join the Steele family. The provocation in the words of Chloe Malan was self-evident.

"Chloe, stop!" Olive stamped her foot and stared at Chloe severely. The more she said, the more outrageous she knew that this woman would not be able to let Alan go after she knew this matter.

Chloe Malan's finger slammed Olive's forehead fiercely, "Stupid girl, I'm helping you, don't you know? I haven't got even with you for so long, you do want to help this man? I'm afraid that you will be hurt by the old witch again. It seems that my kindness will not be rewarded."

In her eyes, all the wealthy ladies who looked down on ordinary people were vicious old witches with early menopause and internal secretion disorders.

Olive understood her thoughts well, she did think about these things too before, but in the end, she was defeated by Alan's persistence and affection, just like now.

Alan Hoyle smiled slightly, "As long as Uncle and aunt agree, why not."

As soon as the words came out, Olive's parents were shocked. They were looking at the man in front of them with complicated eyes.

Ivy, who had been standing silently, couldn't help but surprised too. As for Chloe Malan, she had prepared more words to embarrass him, but her words suddenly died down.

If it weren't for the extreme love, how could Alan abandon his identity, leaving only five simple words: to be with Olive forever.

The most beautiful words in the world were not that I love you, but to be with you forever. If a couple loved each other so much, but they can't be together, that would be the most bleak thing.

Chloe Malan waved her hand, she was angry, "Don't mention him, he is just a scum, I must be blind, so I would marry him. I will find someone a thousand times better than him."

Ivy squinted at her. "Why are you so excited? You still love him?"

"Are you crazy? He is nothing to me." Chloe Malan said disdainfully, but the ringing phone suddenly interrupted her words. The sound seemed to come from her bag.

She didn't know when did the bag roll under the sofa, moved her cumbersome body to pick it up, she took out the phone from the bag and answered the phone call.

"Where are you?" Although she was drunk and a little confused, she could still recognize that it was Yang Yu.

"Where am I? Does it have anything to do with you?" She was drunk, and she can't speak clearly.

"Are you drunk?"

"Yeah."

"You drink like this in broad daylight, where are you now, I'll come to you." Aoba Hoyle frowned, and an image of a drunk appeared before his eyes.

"Why should I tell you? If you can, just try to find me on your own." Chloe Malan hung up the phone happily. After throwing the phone to the corner, she continued to carry the wine glass, "Come on, let's drink again."

But the man on the sofa was already drunk and fell asleep.

"I want to eat oily eggplant, roast fish, omelet, steak, can you get it for me too?"

Of course, Olive just ordered the dishes as a joke, but Alan Hoyle picked up the phone, asked the person on the other end to deliver the dishes within half an hour, and then he shaved Olive's nose, "You told me that you are not hungry. You little liar, you ordered so much at one call, you must be very hungry now."

"I want you to have a meal together with me." She knew that he must not take care of his stomach.

Alan Hoyle sighed slightly, how could he not understand her thought, how could he not love this girl?

Alan got up to wash an apple, poured a cup of warm water, and heated some porridge that had been prepared in the microwave. "Eat this, it can make you feel better."

Olive drank the water and said, "You are so well prepared."

Careful men were so full of love.

Alan Hoyle looked at her distressedly, "But I still let someone hurt you."

"Of course not!" At most, it was a little abuse. As long as she can see him again, the twenty-four hours of torture meant nothing to her.

"You!" Alan Hoyle sighed, "Naughty girl."

"Of course I am in a happy mood if you are fine." Olive ate the apple and ate porridge, she was laughing.

Olive sighed, "It seems that you are playing tricks with them."

Alan Hoyle sneered, "How can you catch a big fish without throwing a long line?"

Although Olive didn't know the details, she could guess the general idea. As for the complications, it couldn't explain clear in a few words. As long as Alan was fine, it was the best thing.

However, that these things happened was probably because of her. At the wedding, Alan Hoyle made the Meyer family thoroughly discredited in front of the guests. How could they swallow the insults?

"Sorry, it's all because of me that caused the Meyer family to find ways to retaliate against you."

if she did back out now, Ophelia might not let her go easily. She's a ticking time bomb in Ophelia's eyes, so she really wanted her to disappear.

And while her parents haven't made a clear statement yet, she knew that they've actually accepted the fact, from the time her mother beat her and complained that she was bearing it alone, and from the time her father called him his son, that her parents actually had accepted the man who was five years late, and they just needed a little more time to digest the unexpected facts. They are common little citizens, and the dangerous things were testing the capacity of their hearts.

Alan was excited to see her relieved and that she had agreed to marry him, so he kissed her several times in a row, "Baby, from now on I am your man, your husband. You should also call me baby now. "

"I know that. " Hearing Alan saying such intimate words, she suddenly felt a little awkward, "You are no longer a young man, and only young lovers call each other like that. "

Alan bit her lip slightly and said, "Do you mean I am an old man? "

"Yes, but that's not seven or eighty years old. " Olive laughed.

"But I really want to walk out with you when we are seventy years old and ninety years old. "

There are thousands of love words in the world, and his seemed to be the kind that touched her most. After considering for a while, she said softly, "Baby, I have eaten a little much, and I feel so full. "

Alan shivered slightly and his heart beat fast. The word "baby" really is the most beautiful word in the world.
