Chapter 321 That's not an excuse.

"Of course not." Olive Steele smiled to reassure Annie. she hadn't been sure herself before, but now she was willing to go ahead and trust Alan Hoyle to give them a good life.

"Well, for your sake, Mommy, I'll believe him," Annie said with a flutter of her cheeks.

After her shower and getting dressed, Annie refreshed again, chased the puppy around the room.

Olive's father returned as well. His business was doing well lately, and he had even hired a part-time college student who was now looking after the shop.

As the family sat around the table, Alan poured a glass of wine for Olive's father and then poured some into the glass of Olive's mother, who was not drinking. He refilled his own glass and held it up, "Thank you for your blessings on our marriage. Olive has suffered a lot over the years because of me, and at the same time you have been worried, but rest assured that from now on I will love Olive and Annie dearly."

His words made Olive's mother's eyes turn a little red. The suffering Olive had endured in the past had finally been replaced by this man's sense of responsibility. She hoped that Olive and Annie would always be so happy.

Olive's father waved his hand, "As long as you're happy, we're fine anyway."

After Alan Hoyle had a drink with Olive's parents, Chloe Malan suddenly dropped a pointed question, "Hey, Alan Hoyle, you and Olive were registered now, tell me you won't keep this in the dark just because of the old hag of yours."

"Chloe Malan," Olive Steele

But hearing Aoba Hoyle's words, Olive Steele suddenly choked on her throat and nose. The pungent taste in her throat and nose caused violent coughs as tears showed up in her eyes.

Alan Hoyle rushed to hand her a glass of water and stroked Olive's back, "Look out, honey.

Olive Steele's teary eyes kept glancing over between Aoba and Chloe Malan's faces.

Something was going on between these two people, and now she was quite sure about this.

Shortly after dinner, Olive's father returned to the shop and Chloe couldn't wait for Aoba to leave, "Time to go, chop-chop. Leave our house."

"No, I'm staying to accompany my brother," Aoba Hoyle was still trying to find an excuse to stay.

"With a beautiful wife, you really expect me to believe your brother needs some other company? "

Olive laughed and shook her head, then walked silently into the kitchen, thinking the dirty dishes in the sink should be enough to keep her away from the battlefield for a while.

Annie was taken into the bedroom of her grandmother was trying to give Olive and Alan some privacy and space for the recent reunion and the registration today.

Having cleaned the dishes, Olive Steele was mopping the floor, when Alan Hoyle walked into the kitchen. She turned around suddenly and bumped Alan who then grunted as if in pain and held his hands against his stomach.

Olive Steele saw that he didn't look right and dropped the mop quickly, "Are you hurt?"

While his entire body leaned over to her, which made Olive more anxious, "Where did you hurt?"

She was going to lift his clothes as she said.

Alan Hoyle, however, grabbed her and laughed lowly in her ear, "I'm just kidding."

Even though the stick hit him just now, he could not let himself get hurt. It warmed his heart to see her tense for him.

Olive Steele swung a fist at his chest, "Grow up, you."

"Girl." Alan suddenly sighed long and hard, "Only when I'm holding you that I don't feel like I'm dreaming."

Olive Steele bowed her head, "That's not what I'm worried about. It's just that she's your mother. Can't you treat her like this, can you?"

Although Alan Hoyle didn't tell her what had happened, she was clear about that because she was a constant top of conversation when Alan received his mother's phone call.

Alan looked cold and determined, "When she is willing to accept you, I will forgive her. If not, there's no reason to talk."

"You are not afraid to irritate her." She happened to hear that Mrs. Hoyle had undergone a major operation last year. In addition, she felt that Alan and his mother would be in a good relationship if Alan and she keep apart.

"Hey, honey. Don't worry about that. Take it easy. When I left Jiangcheng, everything was arranged."

In fact, he was a filial man. Although some mothers-in-law were always worried that their sons would love their wives more instead of themselves, he was an exception.

She also knew that sooner or later she had to meet his mother instead of pretending to care about nothing. She could hide at present, but she could never run. So she needed to figure out a way to solve this problem because she would go to Jiangcheng to meet her or Mrs. Ji would come to Luo city to make waves. What's more, she didn't want Alan to be in a dilemma.

As long as Alan loved her, she could do everything. But she was greedy for this peaceful and warm time at this moment.

Chapter 325 Separate Beds

When Annie grew a little, she learned to crawl on the ground. Anything that could be grasped in her hands was a novel thing in her eyes. She was willing to observe and research as if she regarded herself as a thinker.

Then Annie was a toddler. The 248th day was specifically marked on the photo album because on this day Annie had learned to walk. Although she was toddling, she didn't need an adult to help her walk.

There were early signs showing Annie was smarter than the average kid.

He turned page by page. Some pictures were about Annie's birthdays every year. Some photos recorded Annie ran in the community, played in the park and participated in activities in the kindergarten. Most of them showed that Annie was so cute and was born with a model according to the poses she did. Without him, Oliver took good care of their daughter and taught her to be optimistic.

Alan thought his mother must have seen his child, such a cute little granddaughter. But he wondered why she was so cruel to him and let his child live in the outside for several years. When he thought of this, he felt so terrible.

For a long time, the buzzing sound disappeared as if people had left without a sound. Then Oliver woke up.

She sat up, rubbed her eyes and looked at Alan, "Didn't you find it, did you?"

Alan felt better when he turned around. Then he took the photo album and sat on the bed. He asked Oliver to tell him the stories behind the photos.

Olive Steele felt funny. They looked like that they were enemies. She got out of bed and went to the bathroom to get a warm towel, washed Annie's face, and cleaned Annie's sweat for fear that she would get sick.

Annie, who was energetic after sleeping, started to play around on the bed.

Olive Steele went to the bathroom to put the towel. When she came back, she saw Alan Hoyle teasing his daughter, "Didn't you say that we should pay attention to the line between men and women? Why do you come to my bed?"

Annie snorted, "This is my house. I have slept with Mommy for a long time."

"But I bought the bed, and your mommy is my wife." Alan Hoyle leaned against the bed and laughed.

"You live in my home, can't I sleep in your bed? Your wife is my mom. If you dare to let me away, I will let mommy drive you away." Annie was not to be outdone.

This little girl was so clever. If a boy liked her in the future, what the poor boy would suffer? Of course, for his baby girl, no one can bully her, right?

Alan Hoyle smiled and said, "If I walked away. Your mommy will be sad. Are you willing to let her sad?"

This question made the little girl stunned for a while, she was in a dilemma, pouting her mouth, and turning her eyes a few times. He knew that his baby girl had another idea again. His daughter wouldn't admit defeat easily.

"I don't believe you." She's always obedient when she fell asleep. Grandpa and grandma praised her for that. This man wanted to lie to her, no way!

"I don't care if you believe it or not, it's up to you, but you have to be quiet, don't wake up my wife." Alan Hoyle pressed his finger to his lips softly.

Olive Steele thought: I have been woken up by you, okay? How can they remember her until now? It's too late, she wouldn't sleep again.

The little girl thought for a while, snorted lightly, then she got up from the bed, lowered the volume, "You, help me wear my clothes."

Alan, actually, was very willing to do this for her, but he still asked, "Why me? Don't you know how to wear it yourself?"

"Mommy has done it for me for several years, but you are unwilling to do it even once. Are you sure you are my biological father?" The little guy's serious.

Olive Steele didn't hold it back and laughed out loud.

Alan Hoyle held the little girl, "Hey, you, you woke up my wife."

"Come on, you two stop playing, get up quickly." Olive Steele got out of bed, opened the curtains, and the morning light sprinkled all over the room, with blue sky and white clouds outside the window, and the rising sun on the sky. Olive opened the window, a cool breeze rushed towards her.

Alan Hoyle received Olive Steele's call in the car. He answered it happily, "Honey, miss me?"

Olive suddenly blushed. She still felt embarrassed to say sweet words in front of so many people, "Yeah, not only I miss you, but there are also a large group of people missing your wedding candy."

Someone shouted to the cell phone, "Mr. Alan, we want to eat Dove Chocolate."

Alan smiled, "Okay, no problem. Honey, you tell them to wait for me. One person has two boxes of chocolate. It means good things should be in pairs. Let them celebrate for us."

Dove Chocolate was a little expensive. Only he could buy so much without any hesitation. If it was in the past, she would definitely not spend the money. Anyway, he was rich, so she just let him do it

An hour later, Alan appeared in the office building. Olive was handling work in a huge general manager's office. Suddenly, she heard loud laughter and noise outside.

She went out to look. She saw Alan personally handing out chocolates and roses to everyone.

He said, "If you have girlfriend or boyfriend, give this rose to him or her. Tell him/her that you are single-minded. If you have a crush on someone, go to confess your feelings with the rose. I wish you good luck."

Someone asked, "Then what should we do if we don't have girlfriends and boyfriends and no secret crush?"

"Then just go to look for your right person." Alan Hoyle looked up. He saw Olive standing outside the crowd and laughing. "I have to go to find my honey. Ted Dulles, you handle the rest."

As soon as Alan left, He Zizhong knocked on the door of her office. After he went in, he pulled a chair out and sat down opposite her.

Chapter 329 Press Conference

He Zizhong didn't beat around the bush. He was straightforward, "Because your man is Alan Hoyle."

"Hm?" Olive Steele didn't understand.

"Do you forget that he acquire Hengdu? I'm not sure if he has any bad intentions toward Angel. Also, I'm not sure if you are fully compatible with him. Mr. Geve is my benefactor. I don't want his hard work to be destroyed."

Olive Steele felt that it was normal for him to have this idea in his heart. She couldn't blame him.

After a pause, He Zizhong continued with a little embarrassment, "However, after listening to Mr. Geve, I think I misunderstand you. I apologize."

Olive Steele waved her hands. She didn't care. She smiled, "Can we be friends now?"

In the world, having many friends were better than having many enemies.

He Zizhong smiled heartily, "Of course. If you need anything, you can ask me."

Since Mr. Geve trusted them so much, they must be reliable person.

Olive Steele spoke casually, "On the day of the incident, I promised the media to give them an explanation. Now that the case is solved, I think a press conference is necessary. We need to clarify the bad influence it has on Angel. I will need your help for this."

Others asked, "Mr. Hoyle, if you disobey your mother like this, aren't you afraid of being labelled as unfilial son?"

Olive Steele looked at him sideways. It was exactly what she was worrying about.

"Foolish filial piety and loyalty will not harm others. My wife is a kind person. My mother is still very stubborn because she doesn't know my wife yet. I will not abandon my mother, nor my wife and my children. As for how to make the two woman coexist peacefully, I'm still learning. If you have good suggestions, you can give me a few tricks. I will definitely thank you."

Alan Hoyle's witty jokes made everyone laughed. The atmosphere loosened. The reporters were eased. They were no longer so bitter and sharp. The female journalists couldn't hide their warm worship for Alan Hoyle and jealousy for Olive Steele.

Love was a never dying topic for human being, especially for women. In every women's heart, there was a novel about love where they were the main lead.

Alan Hoyle was everything they could wish for; rich, handsome, devoted, and persistent. A daughter-in-law's relationship with a mother-in-law had often be a problem. Most men wronged their wives in the conflicts, however, Alan Hoyle made women see hope.
