Olive gave him a fist, "Annoying. You even play deep words with me."

"I'm telling the truth." Even a strong determined person had their weak moment, let alone an infatuated man. Money and fame couldn't shake him, and he could only be moved by affection. Although the process was quiet complicated and he was even treated rudely, but his trip wasn't futile.

"You went to Paris on a business trip a few months ago, but it was actually for this, right?"

At that time, they had just gotten together. Her parents and friend didn't know yet and everything was still a secret, but he had already started to prepare everything.

He always did things that touched her. Every woman had their little romantic dream. And he always took these romances to the extreme, carrying full of love to her.

"Looking for Gaston wasn't a lie, and the business trip isn't a disguise too. There are several international wedding dress designers who are as famous as Gaston. Everyone's detailed information over the years had been sorted out by Dave in front of me. Gaston is the one who understands love the best among them, but unfortunately..."

The regret in his words surprised her a little, "What's the matter?"

Alan said, "Unfortunately, I don't know how to design. Otherwise, I'll definitely design the most beautiful wedding dress in the world myself for you and make you be the happiest bride."

Olive leaned her head on his shoulder and smiled softly, "Even if there's no wedding dress, even if there's no wedding, I think I'm already the happiest woman in the world."

Happiness wasn't in a form, but in the inner feelings.

Maybe to some people, this sounded like from someone who didn't feel hurt. But for her, there was no such things. She had no complaints and regrets. If there were, then it was an icing on the cake.

She knew that he wanted to give her the best.

"Honey, thank you."

"Silly girl. What's the need to say thank to your husband? If you want to thank me, it's better for you to kiss me."

Olive immediately landed a kiss to his face. What a beautiful and sweet heart he had, like eating honey.

At the hotel's door, he kissed her back, "I really want to take you around the world, ignoring all the mundane things."

"Yes, I won't leave anymore. Next semester, a new teacher will take over my job. My parents are old now and not in good health. I've stayed here for several years already, it's time to go back and take care of them."

There was some hint of reluctance in Flora's voice and she was a little blaming herself. But she soon changed into a ridiculous tone.

"You're a celebrity now. When I seek you for shelter, you can't not care me. I've been in Galawan for so many years that I'm afraid I'm a bit unable to keep up with the pace of city life. I've lost everything I learnt back then. I don't even know whether I can find a job to support myself."

Olive laughed, "How can you not find a job with your ability? If you're willing, come and work with at Angel Hotel."

"Okay. If I can't find a job, I'll really come to you. It's great to have an influential person. It's good that you're the president now. Since we're best friends, you'll never treat me unfairly, right?"

Flora was laughing and joking on the phone, making Olive to rebuke, "You really like to tease me. When you come back, call me first. Chloe and I will go to the station to pick you up."

"Okay. I'll call you too even if you don't say it. Don't forget to drive a Lamborghini or something so that I can also taste what it's like to sit a luxury car."

"You tease me again. Alan doesn't like driving luxury cars and is relatively a low-profile person. So, I can't satisfy you with a Lamborghini!"

"It doesn't matter if you don't have a Lamborghini, just ask your man to treat me to a few big meals. I want to have a seafood feast, a sumptuous feast, and I've been thinking a classic steak for a long time."

Through the long phone line, Olive could see the image of a woman with twinkling eyes and drooling. She laughed, "Those who don't know will think that you were just released from prison."

"Hey, how come it's like I just come out of prison here? I was the one who fled. I really feel that the children here are pitiful. I don't see meaty meals throughout the year. They're all like carrots." Flora always felt a sense of pity and helplessness whenever she talked about the children in the mountains.

Olive was touched, "Flora, I suddenly have an idea."

"What?"

"I now have 10% shares of the Angel Hotel. I want to use 7% of the annual dividends to set up a charity fund to help those children in need. After you come back, run and manage this fund for me. What do you think?"

Those shares weren't what she wanted to accept initially. Now, as Flora accidentally reminded her, she felt that they could be used to do some good deeds, taking it as to accumulate the old man's kindness a little.

Flora gaped, "You're not joking with me, are you?"

"Do I look like I'm joking? Or, you don't want to?" Olive wanted to roll her eyes at her. Too bad, she could only hear her and couldn't see her for the time being.

Chapter 443: Danger on the Plane

The day before going to Jiangcheng, Olive and Alan went to the hospital together.

Norton said to Alan, "Don't you kidnap Olive and never return."

Alan smiled, "Why? Afraid that no one will take care of the hotel for you?"

Norton snorted, "I'm afraid my Olive will suffered when she arrives in Jiangcheng."

Alan raised his eyebrows, "When does my wife become a member of the Geve Family?"

Norton directly said, "She calls me Uncle Norton every day, that's my niece. She's half maiden too."

Alan teased, "Since she's your maiden family, then you must have prepared a generous gift for dowry. I really look forward to it."

Seeing them bickering made her laugh, "Enough. You two are almost a hundred years old when is added together, but always quarrel every time you meet. Like a children, the more you live, the more childish you are."

Lory put the washed fruits on the table with a smile, "Your Uncle Norton gets naughtier as he gets older."

Norton childishly retorted, "I'm just healthier. So, Olive, after arriving in Jiangcheng, you have to urge this kid to finish his business and come back early to accompany me. The days aren't comfortable without a companion to quarrel."

Olive smiled and said, "Don't worry. Although I can't come back to take you home from being discharged, I'll definitely be in time for your and auntie's wedding anniversary."

And that night, both Steele's husband and wife suffered from insomnia all night.

Mrs. Steele tossed and turned on the bed, was unable to sleep, then simply sat up.

Mr. Steele also sat up and patted his wife's shoulder to comfort her, "Worry about them?"

Mrs. Steele sighed, "Can you not worry? Although I want to believe Alan, I still felt uneasy. I keep feeling something will happen. The two kids finally got together and I hope nothing bad is going to happen."

"You think too much. Nothing will happen."

Mr. Steele didn't sleep all night even though he said that.

Olive knew they were worried and said when they left, "Don't worry. I'll call you every day to report my safety."

Annie, who got on the plane for the first time, had put away her age that wasn't suitable for her age. She expressed a keen interest and excitement in everything on the plane, chattering like a little sparrow.

Chapter 444: Battle on the Plane

Gerald gave a look, then those people walked around the cabin boldly and fiercely. The cowards were already holding their heads in panic and trembling, "Don't kill me, don't kill me. I'll give you all the money you want."

The air police and stewardess who heard the news had been knocked to the ground too. The air was filled with strong smell of blood. There were women had cried out of fear.

Gerald didn't even frown. The evil smile at the corner of his mouth became more obvious, "President Hoyle, you usually always keep bodyguards around your wife and daughter. But today, you, the guardian God, doesn't pass the battle in person. Who don't you ask your bodyguards to show up? It's really boring to let me play a one-man show. Don't tell me that you're alone today, I don't believe it."

Alan smiled, avoiding the blade and resting his hands behind his head, "Alone? Then that's unfair to Mr. Wood who has prepared so much, right? Then some of you come out to practice with Mr. Wood's companions. Don't hurt the innocents."

Among the passengers, three strong men immediately jumped out with their bare hands to fight with the fiends.

The narrow passage didn't restrict those fiends' movements. With weapons in their hands, they became more unrestrained. Alan's underlings went against one enemy had to protect the passengers from the knife to not get injured and also prevent the enemies who were buried from the passengers from attacking from the back at any time. It wasn't a relaxed fight.

Alan didn't feel anxious at all with the knife on his neck. He was still joking, "Mr. Wood, do you think your people who are trained in the assassin world are better or mine who had ever been a special soldiers?"

Gerald also laughed, "What does President Hoyle want to say is unfair to have seven against three, right? But your aggressive strategy really doesn't work today. I just persistently like to win through numerical superiority. Who knew how many people you've hidden on this plane, President Hoyle? You're really a person who is good at hiding your strength, so that's why in the past few years, Finn Meyer could step into the trap you set step by step. He was too underestimated you, but I won't. You're the most patient man I've ever seen."

"Thanks for the compliment. But I think, you may not be able to get the reward," Alan chuckled.

"They said loser won't lose their manner. I really admire of President Hoyle's calmness, but you seem to have fallen behind," Gerald reminded him.

Alan dismissively said, "So what? I just don't know whether Mr. Wood's knife is faster or my friend's bullet?"

Gerald turned his head abruptly. He didn't know when there was another person behind him and he had silently pointed the gun barrel at Gerald's head, feeling a little surprised.

Alan chuckled again. Confidence was a good thing, but conceit was often bad. He suddenly raised his voice and said to the three bodyguards in the fight, "Five more minutes. If you can't beat them, you'll lose this month's bonus."

"Yes," the vigorous baritone sounded neatly in the cabin, as if rising the morale.

Among the passengers, someone suddenly yelled, "You men who have guts follow me and the warriors. Kill these wicked bastards. Otherwise, if the plane is hijacked, we can't live even if we want to. They will take us as hostages, or even kill us."

Passengers who were cowering suddenly awakened by this yell. There were many dangers anyway. If you didn't fight, you were awaiting for doom. If you fought together, you might still have a glimmer of life. There were wives and children waiting at home. You couldn't be a coward.

One after another, someone jumped out to join the battle, smashing the gangster with everything that could be used as a weapon. They hesitated at the weapons on the gangster and didn't dare to get too close.

But a clever young man took advantage of a gangster in front of him turning around and slashing at the bodyguard. He hugged the gangster from behind and restricted his movement. The bodyguard who dealt with him immediately took the chance to give him a fatal blow. The sharp weapon in his hand fell to the ground.

Without the threat of the knife, another person rushed over and held him to the ground together.

"Tie his hands with a belt," someone shouted.

Someone immediately took off the belt on his trousers, "Here, it's made of genuine leather and isn't easy to break."

“I have one too. Tie his feet. Don’t give him a chance to resist.”

Although this method was indigenous, it was also practical. The gangster’s hands were quickly tied up behind him, together with his feet. His body was tied into a triangle, making him unable to free himself, and was thrown aside.

One was subdued here, which invisibly encouraged the passengers. Even the woman, who was shivering with fright and only knew how to cry, took advantage of the fact that another gangster didn’t pay attention when he was fighting with the bodyguard. So, she quickly picked her metal chain bag and swung it into his face.

The metal chain on the bag hit the gangster’s eyes. It irritated and angered him. He aimed the knife at her, “You, bitch. Die.”

The woman was so scared that she held her head and screamed, thinking it was over for her.

After a while, she discovered that the expected pain never came at all. Instead, she heard the gangster’s howl in pain.

She opened her eyes and raised her head, looking at the gangster’s bloody face and he was covering his ear. The knife that should have been for her had mysteriously cut off the gangster’s ear by the bodyguard, when the knife was clearly still in the gangster’s hand.

After the gangster’s ear was chopped off, it fell on the lap of a person next to him. That person only smelled a strong smell of blood, and he screamed like a trumpet, then fainted.

The bodyguard answered coolly, "Leave it."

"What do you mean?" The group of people looked at each other.

"Literally." The bodyguard stood like a Bodhisattva.

Gerald smiled, "President Hoyle, I honestly think that your men's psychological is really extraordinary. This gives me the illusion that it's not my people who are flying the plane, but yours."

Alan smiled without saying a word, but squinted at him coldly.

The two had already left their seats since earlier and the entire movement in the cabin could be seen. Those who were afraid, brave, and silent, all of them flashed past.

Nate was standing behind Gerald with a gun in his hand to protect Alan at any time, but Gerald still arrogantly said, "I'll give you 30 seconds to think. After that, choose your team. I can decide how to deal with you based on how fast and slow you choose your team."

The crowd was terrified. They looked at each other but didn't dare to act rashly. Those who were far quietly asked the people around them, "What are you guys going to do?"

No one could easily answer this question, except for the coward Drew Martin who quickly embraced Gerald's leg and smiled flatteringly, "I'll listen to you..."

Nate raised up the gun and pointed it at Gerald's temple, "You seem to have forgotten the gun in my hand."

Drew was frightened again and jumped a few steps away.

Gerald didn't care, "You're pretty amazing to be able avoid the security check and take in this silencer. But even if you can kill me, your bullets are limited after all. The plane is landing soon. Hundreds of bullets are waiting to pass through your intestines."

Nate's tight face suddenly turned into a charming smile, "Are you sure that this plane isn't really going to Jiangcheng?"

The gangster on the ground struggled and shouted, "Do you guys still fantasize that a Spider-Man will rescue you?"

At this moment, a strange laughter sounded from the top. The sound which circulated through the loudspeaker turned clearer in everyone's ears.

Sean still felt annoyed of her chattering sound from her throat which was too noisy. He saw a handkerchief on the ground and then looked at the uninjured and unconscious Olive and her daughter. A little thought bloomed and instant understood something.

He picked up the handkerchief and searched the fake flight attendant's body. He really had found a small bottle. It was probably this thing that made his girl unconscious.

Sean smiled dangerously at the fake stewardess and sprayed some liquid from the bottle on the handkerchief.

The fake stewardess' eyes opened wider. Her body couldn't help but retreating. Her voice from her throat seemed vaguely to say, 'What do you want to do?'

Sean didn't hesitate to put the handkerchief on her nose. A moment later, the world finally went quiet.

After handling the evil woman, he then carefully removed the explosives on Annie's body.

His girl was lying quietly in his arms like an angel. Her eyes were closed and her eyelashes were long. Her small face was as gentle as milk. The little boy couldn't help but lowered his head and gave her a little kiss.

And at this moment, the bathroom door was kicked open hard. Sean immediately put Annie down and jumped into a guard stance.

"Young master, are you okay?" The two people who broke in rushed before him to check him up and down, couldn't help examining him thoroughly.

When Sean saw that they were his men, he was slightly relieved, "You're here."

He had liked to run around since he was six. These two men were arranged by his father to protect him. They usually stayed closed, but never showed up. They were like invisible people and only showed up in crisis times. It seemed that the situation outside was a bit serious, otherwise, these two wouldn't appear in front of him.

It was good they had come. He had helpers.

"We have to remove the threat from the time bomb as soon as possible, then wake them up," he said clearly.

"Don't worry. Leave it to us." One of them squatted down and began to study the wires on the time bomb, while the other person untied Olive.

Alan's men broke in just half a minute after them. The 30 seconds time difference made the latecomers' eyes see as though they were they kidnappers. As soon as they rushed in, they moved their fists first without uttering a word.

"Don't fight. We're also helping you to save people." Fortunately, Sean stopped an innocent conflict in time.

The four men shook hands and made peace, were united to awaken the mother and daughter. They spent some time to disassemble the alarm connected on the time bomb, then made their brilliant appearance at the most critical moment.

A head came out from a group of men wearing camouflage uniform. He raised up his horn speaker and cleared his throat, making the crowd instantly went quiet.

The man in camouflage uniform said, "I know you have a lot of questions, but I'm sorry that I can't answer any of you. I can only tell you that for some reason, we must ask you to cooperate for 24 hours. In 24 hours, everyone can't leave the designated area. Of course, we'll be responsible for food and housing. However, you can't get in touch with the outside world. Here, all mobile phones and wireless signals are blocked."

Someone heard e meaning and stepped forward to ask, "Are you trying to put us under house arrest?"

"Not a house arrest, I'm just asking everyone to cooperate for a day." Although the man in uniform looked cold, he had good temper.

That man looked a little annoyed, "What is this if it's not house arrest? Do you think we'll cooperate just because you say so? We still have work to do and have to transfer to another city for business trip. What do you think?"

The camouflaged man said, "All your losses will be responsible by us. We can do it for you if you need to explain to your boss, wife, girlfriend, and even lover."

The woman in white felt that although these people were mysterious and she didn't know whether they were evil, they were polite and didn't look like wicked people. For some reason, she was willing to believe them and couldn't help but stepped forward to ask, "Excuse me, are you sure for only 24 hours? Then could we leave here safely?"

"Of course," the camouflaged man said affirmatively.

But Drew didn't believe, "Bullshit. They're just the same with those people who'll do anything to achieve goal. This is called illegal detention. Everyone, don't believe him."

The woman in white reminded him, "Don't forget that it was them who saved us on the plane just now. If it wasn't for their men, we won't still be alive."

Most people agreed.

But Drew said, "Tiana, don't forget. If it wasn't for that Hoyle and Bai, we wouldn't be in that undeserved bad luck. They just save themselves."

These words also made many people nod their heads silently, which made Drew more confident.

"So, our losses should have been their responsibility. Now they even want to illegally put us under house arrest for one day. Is there justice?"

The camouflaged man wasn't upset too and simply said, "Sir, just say it directly. How should we compensate to satisfy you?"

Drew stroked his blood-stained arm and sneered, "How? Pay us our absent wage, medical expenses, and mental distress compensation—you can't leave out one of them."

The camouflaged man also smiled, but his smile couldn't erase the paint on his face. "Then, sir, how much do you think we should pay?"

Chapter 449: Hoyle's Daughter Starts Growing Up

Kent was shocked by the horror words that he forgot to spit out the grape seed and swallowed it in one mouthful. "Kid, do you know what a wife is?"

Sean met his gaze calmly, "My future mother-in-law is my future father-in-law's wife. But, uncle, you don't seem to have a wife yet."

The corner of Alan's mouth twitched, while Kent was a mess.

Annie snorted and blushed with her hands on her waist, "Who wants to be your wife? Egomania. Do you think you're Prince Charming that every girl likes you?"

Sean smiled a little, revealing two cute little tiger teeth. "You're not Snow White, and I'm not Prince Charming, but you have to pledge to marry me as a favor for saving you. Like your daddy and mommy. Your mom saved your daddy, so your daddy pledges to marry your mommy."

"Puhaha..." Kent couldn't help but trembled from laughing.

Children nowadays were astonishingly mature. He initially thought that the Hoyle's princess was already different among the children with her same age. Unexpectedly, the Shen's prince was even worse.

"Hoyle, don't you find that this kid is a good match for your little baby?"

"You're his good match." Annie stomped her foot and plunged into her dad's arms.

"Oh, you're shy. It's not a good idea to set you a husband's family early. The Shen Family is one good family in a hundred," Kent quipped.

Annie rolled her eyes with her arms around her daddy's neck. "Uncle Kent, if you like him, then keep him by yourself. Hurry up and marry Auntie Janetta, then have a baby girl to marry her to the Shen as their child bride."

Kent was choked by the kid again. She truly had touched a sore spot. He couldn't help but be upset, "He's interested with you, little girl. What does it have to do with me? Maybe I'll give birth to a son in the future. I can accept that man falls in love with other man. But forget it if it's my son. He has to marry to a normal wife. This opportunity is better to give it to you, girl."

"When my baby grows up later, it's not like she can't get married. What are you being so eager for?" Alan asked him.

But even he said so, he still regarded that kid with special respect. He dared to steal his daughter from him at such a young age.

The young deserved to be treated with respect. The Shen Family seemed to have another genius.

Kent deliberately teased Sean, "Kid, do you hear that? Your future father-in-law doesn't even agree to hand your future wife to you. What should you do?"

Sean wasn't in a hurry too, "It's okay. I'm still young now and glory is still shrouding my father. When I grow up and have my own business, I think future father-in-law will accept me, and I will make my girl fall in love with me."

On the night of meteor shower, she actually did it on purpose. She also knew that he melted the pill in the glass of milk he handed her the next morning. She quietly threw it behind his back.

Their following activities in bed, she actually also moved her hands and feet. Small pinhole pierced each surface and made a small hole.

She didn't believe. She was healthy. There was no reason to fail.

This was the first time she tried to plot against him. Who asked him not to let her give him a little Hoyle?
Hmph.

At the beginning, he forced her to give him a baby. At that time, she was unwilling. When she was already willing, he became unwilling.

But that was okay. When the baby in her belly took root, he couldn't do anything with her anymore.

Hehe!

"What are laughing about?"

"Huh?"

He discovered her snicker. Olive quickly turned her mind, she couldn't let him catch her idea. She pretended to be natural and said, "Nothing. I just think it's not bad to adopt a child."

Alan didn't know what was inside her mind for the time being. He was relieved, thinking that it was good she had come around.

It wasn't that he didn't want her to give birth. But Chloe's description had really scared him. So, he always paid attention whenever they made love.

He didn't want the doctor to suddenly run out of the operating room and tell him, did he want to save the mother or the baby? He naturally would save the mother, but she would choose the baby.

At work, in the business field, he had made too many decisions and each of them was decisive and forceful. But for his only beloved woman, he couldn't decide. So, he could only smother all the dangers before budding.

Olive was afraid of being found out too, so she quickly changed the subject, "Right, where is this place?"

Alan dropped the big rock in his heart. His tone was relaxed and he teased her, "Guess."

"I'm guessing that this is your secret base. But I have a very narrow view, I can't guess where this is specifically. Or, dear Mr. Hoyle, would you please give me a hint?"

Although she wasn't familiar enough with Jiangcheng, she hadn't set foot in this city for several years. But she still had memories of the approximate locations and places. After all, she had ever lived in this city for four years.
