Chapter 461: Alibiza Tree Is Blooming

“Hm?” Olive opened her eyes wider than before.

Alan simply bite her mouth.

Everything he had experienced here was like yesterday. He didn't know how his girl's small shoulders had to carry his burden. If it was another person, they felt it was too troubling and would have long avoided him.

He remembered that when he first lived here, his attitude towards her was extremely different. On one hand, he was like a sleepy beast facing the anxiety caused by blindness. On the other hand, he didn't want to implicate pure Olive. The better she treated him, the more disturbed he was. And he was also afraid that he would hurt her who was innocent because he couldn't see the hidden danger around him.

He tried his best to drive her away, but she clung to him tighter like a gum. He spoke mean to her, she grinned cheekily instead, making him couldn't find a way out. In the end, he simply ignored her care, which made her tease him later.

On that day, he was turned into a mess. His embarrassment was invisible but imaginable. The water wasn't actually deep as there was a mud beneath, it only reached to his waist. He was blind, unable to discern his direction. He wasted his energy in the water, until he was exhausted and was pulled into the boat by her.

She said, “You don't want to die at all. If you don't want to die, live a good life for me. Don't be a man who can't live better than a little woman.”

And it was after that day, his attitude towards her slowly changed. The two became friends. Although they didn't talk about everything, they gradually developed a tacit understanding. She knew that he was eager to learn about the information outside, so she turned on the TV to let him listen, read the newspaper to him, told him the news in the Internet, and even included some celebrities anecdotes and gossips. The content was all-inclusive. It was through this information that he knew about Hoyle Group. He knew his mother was well and his younger siblings were also temporarily safe. Then he calmed down and thought about some issues.

And later, the relationship between the two became more harmonious. Until one day where the seeds of love were sprouting in his heart and he became unstable.

At this moment, he took his time kissing the little woman who had become his wife. He really wanted to kiss until the end of the day, but he didn't expect that a strange noise suddenly came from the lotus bushes, which disturbed their sweet time.

There were a few high school students in uniforms. They had skipped class and climbed the wall to play. When they saw the lotus in the pond blooming in full bloom, they were attracted to them. They found two small boats and took pictures with their phones. They accidentally bumped their boat and realized the two were making out, taking a peek for a moment.

The boys were bolder, while the girls were a little embarrassed despite their curiosity and blushed.

“Let’s go. What’s there so interesting to watch? Don’t disturb them.”

After whispering and hiding behind the dense clusters of lotus leaves, someone took out their phone and revealed their existence with a few clicks.

Alan turned alert, “Who’s there?”

Olive’s face flushed with embarrassment for being peeped.

The children quickly picked up the oars and swung them fast, fled away quickly.

“We’re busted, hurry up.”

“Go over there.”

Chapter 462: Rewards And Punishments

“After my eyes are completely healed, in two or three months, I would always come here to live for a few days. I was missing you little deceiver who deceived my feelings and left irresponsibly. You didn't even leave a name and address, making me couldn't find you. I hated you so, so much. I wanted to catch you back and tie you then throw you into the pond.”

“To the pond?” Olive rolled her eyes and knocked his forehead with her chopsticks, “It's a good thing you can figure it out, dregs of feudalism.”

Alan peeled a shrimp and put it in her bowl, "After I calmed down, I thought again that you wouldn't be that kind of person. I can't imagine a young woman would stay with a disabled person for a year, taking care of him, encouraging him. What was her purpose? In the end, she didn't take anything with her and had even lost her innocence. If she was a liar, it didn't make sense. So, I thought she had to be threatened or blocked."

"It was fortunate that the car accident didn't mess up your head. It even left you a little wisdom." Olive also peeled a shrimp and put it in his bowl as a reward. "But, I have to correct something."

"What is it?"

"Actually, I left you a signal when I left, but I was afraid it'd be seen by a malicious person. So I hid it better. It's just a pity that you don't find it after so many years."

"There is." Alan looked confused.

When she left that time, she took everything about her, except for the bottle filled with lucky stars that she folded for him every day and left it on top of the bed. He almost turned the whole place upside down, but he couldn't find her sign.

"I just looked around the room just now and something is missing. Did you take it?" Olive reminded him.

Alan was taken aback for a moment, "Could it be that bottle of lucky stars?"

The only thing he took from this house was that thing. But he never thought that there would be a mystery in it.

"Yeah, the secret is in there. You didn't throw it away, did you? Then my hard work was really in vain." Olive felt regret for herself for that little idea. "Even if you still keep it, you still don't find the secret inside. It seems I was busy doing it for nothing."

When they returned to the villa on the mountain, Kent and the others had a good hunt all morning. For example, hare, pheasant, snake and so on. They hunted a lot, but they didn't see any boar.

They did see a few sheep, but unfortunately, they were raised by people down the mountain. They had also bought one back. When they were on the way back, they found a badger hidden in the jungle by the roadside. They successfully captured it after several rounds of chasing.

As soon as they came back, they packed them up and put them in the fridge. They also discussed going to the lake on the other side of the mountain to fish in the afternoon, planning to have a taste of the mountain lake at night.

Although Finn Meyer was arrested and there were still some mopping-up matters to be dealt with, compared to the previous crucial work and tight nerves, they were much more relaxed now.

It had been a long time since they relaxed like this.

Seeing Alan and Olive had returned, Kent happily greeted, "Hoyle, we're going fishing. Let's go together this time, or you don't get to eat tonight."

Alan really doubted whether there was only a six-year-old soul in his daughter's six-year-old body?

"You guys can be lovey-dovey for a moment. I'll go find other uncles." The little thing slid out like a wind, wittily leaving the room for the two of them.

"Isn't our baby a little too mature? Sometimes I really think that I'm not talking to a six-year-old child, but to an adult."

Alan stood in front of the window watching his daughter running around like a butterfly in the garden. He stroked his chin, "She even said that her father is a gangster and knows about sexual assault."

Girls should learn how to protect themselves, but his daughter had learned it too early.

Olive smiled, "I taught her. I think children can grasp earlier about the awareness instead of just talking about different gender and covering it up. They should really know the correct gender meaning. For example, Annie is a girl. Nowadays, cases of sexual assault on children happen frequently in the news. In order to prevent it from happening, I've told her since she was three that a girl's body can't be easily shown to a boy, especially which parts of her body that can't be touched by a boy casually."

This was very good. Alan didn't think of that thoroughly. If he protected their daughter through external conditions, then his wife's protection towards their daughter was more about educating her to know how to protect herself.

Barbecuing the villa here was unstoppable with constant laughter, but the Hoyle's residence was deserted.

It was yet, yet the lights in Mrs. Hoyle's room were still on. Ada pushed the door gently and walked in. She saw her mother sitting on the rattan chair on the balcony with her head on her hands and was motionless.

“Mom, why aren’t you sleeping on the bed?”

Mrs. Hoyle rubbed her forehead and sighed, “Can’t sleep. When you’re old, you’ll get insomnia.”

“Or let’s have a chat?” Ada sat next to her.

“Ada, do you think son will really forget his mother after he has a wife?” Mrs. Hoyle let out a sigh, thinking about how indifferent her two sons were to her. It sat wrong in her heart.

“Mom, how can you say that? They all love you,” Ada comforted her mother.

Mrs. Hoyle sneered, “They only love their women. How do they still love me who is their mother? Look at your eldest brother, he challenged me in front of so many people, looking at Olive Steele like a treasure. And Aoba, even though he comes home, his heart isn’t. After he’s done eating, he hides in his own room, talking on the phone with that Chloe Malan. He was even being impatient when he talked to me who is his mother. Isn’t it not obvious that their women are more important than their mother?”

Ada really wanted to say that wasn’t this all happen because she did it? But, her mother’s mental state wasn’t very good. She was afraid that it would irritate her if

Chapter 465: Let Annie Make the Decision

Everyone was indeed almost rolling on the floor, only Alan probably already knew it and could still manage his image, but the corners of his mouth curled up.

Nate clutched his stomach and couldn’t straighten his waist, “Sis-in-law, this performance isn’t the same. You’re too brilliant.”

If Kent was allowed to sing the second song, it seemed that not only the birds would fly, even they would run away.

The game continued. Those who won would chose to perform without exception. Of course, the finalists had to stay behind.

Nate danced very well in street dance. James learned all kinds of bird calls. Damon’s nunchaku was very exciting. And the dull Ezra performed a hand shadow looked lifelike.

Luke performed a comic dialogue, but it didn’t make anyone laugh and several pieces of watermelon rinds were even thrown at him.

Annie was even better in creating atmosphere. She used the watermelon she spooned to directly put it on Luke’s head as a hat. From then on, Luke’s name was directly changed into Watermelon. This was the ‘mark’ that would stay with him throughout his life.

Then the several men soon discovered that something was wrong with the game.

“We all had a round already, so why are you two still safe?”

Olive chuckled, “I’m also surprised. Maybe we’re just so lucky tonight? But almost all the performances were done by you guys. If I’m chosen next, I really don’t know what to do.”

Everyone laughed, “Then take a truth or dare or drink.”

When Olive heard her phone ring, the game was almost over.

She actually had drunk a lot, but she wasn’t drunk. The five men were successfully knocked out and fell asleep on the table.

Damon snored a bit and Annie playfully pinched his nose. The man who couldn’t breathe opened his mouth and blew that the sound was louder than snoring. Annie recorded him with Alan’s phone.

Kent gave Alan a deep look, “Your woman is actually a good drinker like you.”

Alan simply smiled, “You just know?”

Kent gave her three words, “You’re incredible.”

“Thank you,” Olive accepted his praise calmly before answering the phone.

On the phone, Ada didn’t beat around the bush too and went straight to the subject, “Sis-in-law, my mother wants to see Annie. Can I get Annie to play at the Hoyle’s residence for a day tomorrow?”

“Tomorrow?”

“For grandmother.”

“For grandmother?” Didn’t this little thing just say that she wouldn’t deliberately please the old lady? Then what did these flowers mean?

The little girl smiled sweetly and said, “Yep! But I didn’t have enough pocket money and can only buy one, and the other one was given to me by the florist auntie.”

Ada was a little bit confused about what was inside the little thing’s mind. Everyone said that adult world was the most complicated. Was it possible that the brain structure of a creature like children was also very special?

In the residence, Mrs. Hoyle had people prepared various snacks early in the morning. For some reason, she suddenly felt a little guilty after she said so heavy words to the child in Luo City.

In the past, she didn’t even bother to know anything about the child. But today, she was very interested in listening to Aoba telling her the little naughty girl’s fantastic and amusing stories. Each story stunned her.

“Is she as smart as you said? You’re not lying to make me happy, are you?”

Aoba chuckled, “Facts speak louder than words. You’ll find that this child is simply a child prodigy.”

Mrs. Hoyle never expected that when the child entered the door, she called her ‘grandmother’ sweetly and took out a small bouquet of gillyflower from her back, giving it to her.

“Did you teach her?”

“I don’t need to, it’s her own idea.” Ada laughed and told her the scene on the road again.

It really surprised Mrs. Hoyle to find a six-year-old child could have this thought. She asked a servant to find a vase and put the gillyflowers in. Then she smiled and asked Annie.

“How do you know I like these flowers?”

“Olive said that gillyflower is a mother’s flower. Every Mother’s Day and Luo City’s grandma’s birthday, as well as the first day of the New Year, Olive will personally select a bouquet of gillyflower for grandma. I’ll also use my New Year’s money to buy it for grandma in Luo City. And Jiangcheng’s grandmother, you’re dad’s mother. I give you flowers to thank you for giving a great daddy. But I don’t have much pocket money today, so I can only buy a few.” When the little girl said the last sentence, she blushed with embarrassment.

Xenia sobbed, "Tell me, did you deliberately make me pregnant? So that you can tie me to you and give you a baby."

Dave did do that, but he wouldn't be so stupid to admit. "How can I? It's mentioned in the manual that it won't be 100% accurate."

Xenie turned into a lion again, "You lied to me. I took out the rest and filled it with water. They all leaked and there is more than one hole. Dave Chou, you big liar, big liar. I don't want to live with you anymore."

Dave covered his mouth, thinking about how she was holding those things one by one under the faucet, and couldn't help but grinned. But he couldn't laugh, or the exploded gunpowder would explode higher.

Okay. He treated it as a pregnant woman with emotional fluctuation.

Xenia continued to accuse him angrily, "You big liar. You think I'm young and know nothing, so you lie to me... I hate you, I hate you so much."

He was already exposed, so Dave had to admit his little action, "Baby, I'm wrong. But I truly like you, my love for you is real. I swear and I'm not lying to you about this. Or, when I go back, you can dig out my heart to see whether it's yours. Let's not throw away the child first, okay?"

"Not okay! I don't want to turn into faded old woman so early, to wipe the child's pee and shits every day and then, my body will change."

"How about this? You just need to take care of giving birth and I'll raise the child. I'll clean up the diapers and attend the confinement. Don't we have a postpartum body sculpting coach in our health club? I promise that within three months after you giving birth, you'll transform into a pretty lady. When you go down the street, everyone will 200% stare at you. Everyone will see you as a beautiful young girl. You can directly drown me with the hardships."

There was silence on the other end of the phone. Dave felt that she was loosening, so he hurriedly struck while the iron was still hot and continued, "I'll be responsible for picking up and dropping our child to school. I'll tutor our child. And I like both boy and girl."

Of course, the best if she could give birth to boy/girl twins. But he could only secretly think about it.

Xenia still said nothing.

"And baby, abortion is actually very harmful to women. If you don't believe me, go to the hospital and ask the doctor in the obstetrics and gynecology department. Whichever one says it doesn't, we don't keep it, okay?"

Xenia finally snorted, "You know these and still set me up."

Dave brazenly said, "Why would I do that? In fact, there are many benefits in having a baby early. Because you're young, your body can recover easily. I'll raise the baby and you can continue doing the job you love and develop your career. You don't need to be like those elderly mothers who have unspeakable danger of having a baby and don't have the body to recover easily and have a big belly. Your job isn't easy to do it splendidly, right? After your maternity leave, some people take a rest. They take care of their children for two years, then they go out to the society. After they get old, they can't keep up with the era anymore. Now they're called faded old woman. Even if their work is still reserved, the space for climbing up is small. So, I'm doing it for your good. Hey, where can you find such a good husband like me? I think of everything for you. I do everything for you."

"You're not my husband yet," Xenia snorted.

"That's fine. Grandma can afford to waste it. This is the first time Grandma buys you something because of my sincerity, you can't refuse it, understand?"

"Oh." Annie seemed to understand.

"Hudson, prepare the car and take me and this little lady to go shopping. Ada, you're coming too."

Mrs. Hoyle did things was simply swift. Soon, the driver had taken them out.

Ada sat on the passenger seat and looked at the grandma with her granddaughter at the back seat. She secretly smiled and sneakily sent a text message to Olive, "The queen has fallen into the invincible charm of the little witch Aniet Steele, and she has been upgraded to be the little lady of the Hoyle Family. It seems like the queen won't let her granddaughter go home tonight. You guys can enjoy your own world."

Reading the text message, Olive smiled.

Alan looked at her stupidly smiled, "What are you smiling at?"

Olive handed her phone over, "Look, your daughter succeeded in bewitching your mother. I'm not as good as my daughter, so jealous."

Mrs. Hoyle led Annie to children's clothing area. Her big hand pointed down, left and right. She chose a bunch and asked the salesperson to pack them.

Annie refused, "Grandma, I only need to buy one."

"Isn't it good to buy more?" Mrs. Hoyle asked.

Annie deadpanned, "Dad has bought me a lot of clothes and I even haven't wore them. And you buy more clothes for me. Before I get to wear them, I'll grow taller already and I can't wear them anymore. It's a pity, isn't it? So, it's better to leave them to children who like them. Grandma, if you like to buy clothes for me, you can wait Annie to get older next, next year later after I grow taller."

Ada stood by admiring the little witch. At a young age, she could plan far ahead already. Could this be said as she was doing things in the long-term plan?

"You really don't want them?" Mrs. Hoyle was afraid that she was being a stranger with her, so that was why she didn't want them.

Annie determinedly shook her head, "I like that little red dress. Grandma, let's buy this one?"

This child wasn't a greedy child, Mrs. Hoyle thought sincerely.

When paying, Annie saw a suspicious man trailing behind an unfamiliar grandmother. His hands were in his pants' pockets on this hot day, but Annie still noticed the clip he was hiding in the bag with her sharp eyes.

Big Beard once told her that it was thief's tool for committing crimes. There might be a blade inside that was used to cut leather bags and pockets.

She took out the mini slingshot that Kent Bai gave her from her small shoulder bag. She watched at the man closely. As long as he dared to reach out, she dared to shot at his hand.

After Mrs. Hoyle paid it and carried the bag, she turned around and saw Annie's strange behavior. Just as she was about to step forward, Ada pulled her and whispered, "Look at how our little princess wisely fights thief."

Chapter 469: The Boss is powerful

There was a moment of silence as Mrs. Hoyle didn't seem as aggressive as she once was since she was about starting a new acquaintance with Olive, and suddenly Mrs. Hoyle didn't know how to communicate with Olive.

"Mrs. Hoyle, do you have anything else to say?"

"No, good-bye."

Olive raised her lips as she listened to the busy beep of the phone hanging up and thought of Mrs. Hoyle's awkward voice when Mrs. Hoyle talked to her.

Was this a good start? At least Mrs. Hoyle was less domineering towards her than Mrs. Hoyle had been.

Annie really helped.

By the time Olive returned to her private box, some of the dim lights have dimmed and the noise of the crowd has died down.

She thought she had gone into the wrong room and was about to come out when she saw the sizzling up of the candle in the middle of the table.

Someone shouted, "Happy birthday, Boss. I wish you many happy returns of the day.

Then they started singing birthday songs in a jagged pattern, making the scene seem old-fashioned and uncreative.

Well, it's Kent's birthday today? Why didn't anyone tell her? How could Alan say nothing to her? If he had spoken to her earlier, she could have prepared a present.

"Make a wish." They cried.

Kent slapped his subordinate on the head. "Today, as a single man, I have been fooling around with you, and you have wished me many happy returns of the day. Do you want me to stay single all the time?"

Kent's subordinate laughed. "What makes you think so? I wish you many years as wise as you are today. Boss, you are so charming, and you are a very rich bachelor, so the line of women admiring you is longer than the train. If you were to remain a bachelor, would you not be hated greatly by both man and God? What do you want those of us who work for you to think? So, if you want a woman, it's as easy as saying a word. All kinds of beauties are yours to choose from, no matter how tall or thin."

With the compliment, Kent's eyes narrowed with laughter, looking like a Maitreya, while he pointed to his subordinate. "Come here."

Kent's subordinate was obedient and moved closer.

"Turn around." Said Kent.

Kent's subordinate didn't understand but turned around obediently.

Chapter 470: As blind as a bat

Olive looked at one side of that woman's face and thought she looked familiar. The light was murky, but Olive could still see the woman's reluctance. It's just that the woman didn't seem to have the strength to resist, which made Olive feel a little weird.

The men looked like they're up to no good, and their eyes glistened with guilt, which made Olive feel more strange, so she put down her glass, got up, and walked over to them. "Wait a minute."

As they surrounded the woman, Olive heard a faint cry for help. "Help me..."

The two men's faces changed at once, looking fierce and giving Olive a nasty look. "Mind your own business."

Olive chuckled. "Mind my own business? I'll mind your business."

Anyway, with so many strong men behind her, she was afraid of these bullies in front of her? People really liked to throw their weight around. But what's wrong with her bullying now? Because she's bullying the bad guys, and there's nothing wrong with her.

"Do you know who I am?" A man with dyed yellow hair said, who was with a sullen face. He wanted to pretend to be cool, trying to bluster her, but he still just looked like a gangster.

"I don't want to know who you are, but I know her, and you're not her boyfriend. You're not even her friends." Olive revealed his lies and yelled at him. "So, let her go."

"What if I don't?" Towhead spoke in a rising tone and he even tried to touch her face. "You're prettier, girl, so why don't you play with the rest of us instead of her?"

How could Olive let him touch her face? So she backed off, trying to escape his hand.

Kent looked on sympathetically at this brash man who didn't want to live because he even tried to flirt with Boss Hoyle's woman.

It didn't take long for a cup to hit Towhead exactly on the head, and at once he was jumping up and down with pain, and then he swore. "Which bitch hit me? You're a coward for hurting me in secret. Bitch, you come to me."

"I'm in front of you, so what do you want to do to me?" Suddenly, Alan was close at Towhead's side like a ghost.

"Who the hell do you work for? You even dare to hit me. Do you know who I work for?" Feeling the bump on his head, Towhead still looked defiant.

Alan snorted coldly. "Hitting you is just the beginning."

Before Towhead could see what Alan was doing, he heard the snap of his arm, and then the pain that tore his heart and lungs went through him, so he uttered dreary cries and screams, falling to the ground in a cold sweat.

"Who the hell are you? You dare to hit me! Do you know who I am?"
