Chapter 491: Spellbounded

Mrs. Hoyle quickly remembered, "How can I not? You spilled it on all over Ophelia and scalded her that she screamed. I even thought why Alan find me one clumsy doctor."

The doctor shook his head, "It wasn't that I was clumsy or not careful. I did it on purpose."

Mrs. Hoyle was taken aback for a moment, "On purpose? Why?"

The doctor said, "The prescription was written by me, so I naturally knew how the medicine is. Traditional Chinese medicine is known for slow conditioning, but that medicine has a poison in it. If the amount of various medicinal materials isn't properly matched, the medicine for treating diseases can also become a poisonous one. Madam, your leg suffers from rheumatoid arthritis, so I have included Thunder Duke Vine, it has the effects of dispelling cold, removing dampness, and relieving pain. But, at the same time it's also a toxic medicine."

Mrs. Hoyle couldn't help being shocked, "But you still give it to me."

"It's difficult to find ordinary medicines to replace its effect. If it's matched good with other medicines and controlled in a moderate amounts, it's a great medicine. However, if it's slightly excessive in the daily dosage, it's a slow poison. I don't know if Madam still remembers, when I knocked over the bowl, your hands were shaking on their own and you couldn't even hold chopsticks while eating."

"I do. How can I not? I thought I had a stroke at that time."

"It's not a stroke. But someone has secretly increased the dose of Thunder Duke Vine."

Mrs. Hoyle hesitated, "You mean, Ophelia was behind that?"

"Yes!"

"Then why didn't you tell me earlier?"

Doctor asked her back, "Would you believe me if I did?"

Mrs. Hoyle was stunned for a while. If she had placed it in the past, she really wouldn't believe it. But now, after went through so many things, she had to believe even if she refused to. Was Ophelia really an unscrupulous and vicious-hearted person?

She actually wanted her to die. Mrs. Hoyle was unable to digest this completely for a while. She could only listen the doctor said, "If I told you back then, in your mind, I would only be regarded as a person sent by Mr. Hoyle to separate you and Ms. Meyer. It would be in vain even if I said it. So, it's better I kept quiet."

Mrs. Hoyle seemed to have an understanding. "This is why you take over to handle the medicine personally and watch me drinking it?"

“Yes. I’ve reported this to Mr. Hoyle. He asked me to keep watch. All medicines may not give to you from other people, even if it’s the one you trust the most. So, although Mr. Hoyle keeps against you from the outside, he still cares about you in the inside. At that time, you said that I was sent by Mr. Hoyle to monitor you as Ms. Steele’s lobbyist, but that’s not true at all. He came to me and only let me be responsible for your health and there is no extra work left to me. I also just knew Ms. Steele, but I can see that she’s a person with a strong kind heart...”

“And you just said you aren’t her lobbyist,” Mrs. Hoyle interrupted him. “Aren’t you just doing it now for that woman?”

“But it’s also the truth. You should believe that an evil-hearted mother can’t raise up such well-behaved, sensible, and clever child. This is called teach by precept and example.” Doctor meant Annie.

“Okay, okay,” Mrs. Hoyle waved her hand and laid down on her back. “You don’t have to say nice things for them. I know it in my own heart too.”

The doctor turned on the AC and covered the old lady. “Since Madam has clearly known, why do you still making it hard for Ms. Steele? I think, as long as you have peace of mind, she’s definitely not the one to be blamed.”

Chapter 492 Let Me Talk With Your Wife for a While

The Meyer family's case was still under trial, and Alan just left Jiangcheng before getting the results, because he knew that karma is real. The final ending was what Finn deserved, which would not be different from his expectations, and he would not let anyone have the opportunity to escape from their destiny.

Annie seemed so excited when going home that when she was still in the car on the way to the airport, she could not wait to report the message to her grandparents.

While Olive just looked out of the window and looked absent-minded. Somehow, she couldn't ignore the fact that when she left the house, she happened to glance back and saw the old lady standing on the balcony on the second floor, who looked so lonely.

Thinking about it, Olive just felt that the old lady was quite pitiful, but she knew that she was a strong person who did not need anyone's sympathy.

"Have I gone too far by taking you to Luo city?"

Alan said, "What are you talking about? Since I promised you, I won't go back on my word, so you don't have to think too much."

He knew she was a person of principle and was not indifferent or malicious, so she could not do anything too much. He was just afraid that she would put too much unnecessary blame on herself.

Of course, he had considered things about his mom, but he also knew that it could not be dealt with soon. He did not believe that the old lady in Jiangcheng could stay alone. He was sure that she would come to Luo city sooner or later.

Annie, who was flying for the second time, didn't feel the novelty like she had for the first time. She just asked when she was fastening her seat belt, "Dad, there won't be any more bad guys on the plane this time, right? If there is, you have to tell me in advance, so that I can be a little prepared."

The last time she hadn't even shown her skills, and she was accidentally dazed by that bad woman, so that she let that guy who she disliked save her, causing her reputation to be damaged. Annie pouted and thought in her heart that he was the last one she wanted to marry.

Alan habitually stroked her little head, "Don't worry, there won't be any in the future."

They sat in the first class cabin, where there were not many people and was very quiet.

Olive got sleepy soon after she got on the plane, because these days, she had always been dealing with Mrs. Hoyle, which made her exhausted. This time, she could finally have a break.

"Mommy seems to be asleep." Annie said.

Alan pressed his fingers to his lips, signing to let Annie keep quiet, and then he reached out to a stewardess and asked for a blanket to cover Olive's body. After that, he stared at her face and thought about how difficult it was for her to deal with his mother while keeping a smile every day.

Olive didn't wake up until the plane landed. Annie mischievously grabbed a strand of her hair and tickled her nostrils. She woke up with a long sneeze and saw the enlarged and smiling faces of Alan and Annie in front of her eyes. When she glanced sideways, she saw walking passengers, and then she heard the standard voice of the flight attendant in the cabin announcement, reminding her that the plane had arrived in Luo city.

She stretched out two hands and grabbed Annie with one hand and Alan with the other hand, "Hmph, you two are playing tricks on me, aren't you?"

Alan said innocently, "I didn't

"Chloe, don't you think that there is something wrong with Susan? "

Chloe was not able to react to the sudden words of Olive, "Huh? What did you say?"

"I mean... Has Susan been behaving normally for the past few days?"

Chloe gave her a suspicious sideways glance, "What are you implying?"

Olive clasped her hands behind her head, resting on the seat, and told Chloe directly, "I found that Susan is unusual."

The words had been said so transparently that even a fool could understand. Chloe could not help but get stunned for a while, and then she put on the brakes and pulled up by the roadside, "you mean that Susan is a fake?"

Olive nodded, "Highly possible."

Chloe said incredulously, "How is that possible? She has a token and has volunteered to take a DNA paternity test for fear of mistaken identity."

Olive laughed gently, "Don't forget that the DNA test results of Annie and her father were made into the result of no blood relationship, so even two people that have no blood relationship can be made into the result that they are family. In this world, if people have greed, they have the opportunity to be threatened and used."

In this world, money makes the mare go. As long as one has money, he could make the real become fake and make the fake become real. It was Susan's behavior that she took the initiative to do the paternity test that exposed her.

"That's true." Chloe, who had restarted the car, said thoughtfully, recalled several scenes where she had seen Susan, and there seemed to be nothing unusual about her. But since she was a fake, she certainly would pretend. How could she let other people easily see her flaws? After a while, Chloe asked, "How can you be so sure that something is wrong with her? "

"Intuition."

"Then if Susan is really fake, your intuition will be amazing. How about using your intuition to predict which lottery ticket number you'll win today?" Chloe said with a smile.

Olive rolled her eyes at her, "No way. "

"Oh, don't be so stingy! I'll give you half of the jackpot."

Olive looked at her with contempt, "If I could predict the lottery winning number, I would have already performed such supernatural powers, and do I have to live a poor life these years? Seriously, drive your car."

"Hey, it looks like my dream of getting rich has been cut short." Chloe sighed deliberately.

Olive pat her head slightly and said, "Come on! Remember not to tell anyone about Susan's things, especially that old couple of the Geve family. We should just let them be happy for a few more days. I have asked Alan to investigate, and I believe that soon the result will come out. "

"It's not abuse. But the dining table is like a black, heavy cloud that'll rain if not being careful when eating at Daddy's place. It makes me lose my appetite." Annie lifted her hand up to wipe her mouth. Seeing that Alan was staring deeply at her, she couldn't help but stuck out her tongue, "Dad, are you not happy with what I said?"

It wasn't that Alan was upset, but felt like he owed his child. He reached out to rub the top of her hair, "You're telling the truth and dad isn't unhappy, but I feel a little sorry for you and mommy."

Chloe murmured, "There's no difference. Consider you have conscience."

Olive put a food into his bowl and smiled, "Enough. Nothing's to feel sorry of. Consider I'm lucky to have taken a good man like you to Luo City. It's quite normal for the old lady gets a little angry."

Olive's parents secretly sighed. It was really sad seeing the relationship between their daughter and her mother-in-law still had no progress.

That afternoon, Olive couldn't take a break and went to the hotel. She had brought small gifts for everyone in the general manager.

"I want it too," her secretary exclaimed with joy.

"Of course. You even get couple sets with Ted. Think of them as my wedding gift in advance for you two. But, open them after you guys finish your work," Olive smiled. She swept her eyes around the room and couldn't find her assistant's shadow. "Rou, call Ted to my office."

"Okay." Her secretary hugged Ted's gift in her arms and happily returned to her seat to make a call.

Although they weren't allowed to open it now, when Olive was gone, no one could stop their impatience and there was rustling noises.

"Wow. It's my favorite perfume."

Chapter 495: Olive's Concerns

"Uncle Norton thinks too highly of me," said Olive without batting an eyelid while smiling. Her heart muttered that could this woman not after the hotel? Or did she retreat to plan a bigger conspiracy?

No matter what, she knew that if a person was impersonating, their heart wouldn't be pure. No matter whether this woman was a goddess or demon, she would be forced to show her true self.

Norton wasn't happy. He finally had his daughter back at his side and wanted to give this property to her to make up for his guilt for so many years, but now that his daughter refused to accept, wasn't his hard work in futile now?

“What’s good working with those foreigners? Angel Hotel is originally what father wanted to leave to you. If you don’t take over, who will?”

Susan smiled, “Olive is here. Olive is so capable that she must be able to manage the hotel better than me.”

Her gaze looked very sincere and no flaws were revealed, as if this were the truest thought in her heart.

But Olive felt because it was too sincere that it revealed traces of falsehood. “Susan, you can’t say that. After all, I’m still an outsider, so it against the law. I was willing to take this burden because Uncle Norton was seriously ill and couldn’t manage the business himself. Now that you’ve returned and Uncle Norton’s body is recovering day by day, no matter how, you guys can’t just brush this off, right?”

Norton also chimed in, “Olive, you should persuade her, persuade her to quit her job at US. Working for somebody isn’t as good as being a boss, right?”

The old man’s mindset was actually very simple. Because of his debts, he wanted to materially make up for his daughter who was sent away by him. In addition with his own body, although the doctor said that he had improved, how knew when it would relapse. This wasn’t a sure thing.

And there was his good-for-nothing son. Although on the surface he had turned into a new leave, his head still thought of Angel Hotel. He wasn’t an old fool just because he was sick. His mind was as clear as day. If Angel Hotel fell into his hands, it would be ruined in the future.

Therefore, he had to arrange some of his affairs as early as possible, otherwise he couldn’t die contentedly.

While Olive wanted to see if this woman sincerely rejected or it was just a fake. She said, “Yes, Susan. Uncle Norton had told me since the beginning that Angel Hotel is a welcome home gift for you. If you refuse to accept it, Uncle Norton will feel guilty and sad.”

Susan looked at the old man, “Father, you actually don’t have to blame yourself. I’ve heard about the past and you were forced into to do so. I don’t blame you for loving mother very much. I’m happy. My past adoptive parents were also very affectionate and treated me like their own child. I have a good life in those years living with them. Although we weren’t especially rich, they never let me receive any hardships since I was little. So, father, you really don’t have to blame yourself.”

Chapter 496: Someone Wants to Force Her to Leave

"No. I'm just worried that you don't want us anymore after she returns." Rou had changed several jobs and her current job was her favorite. If her boss suddenly changed, she didn't know how their temperament was and didn't know if she could match with her new boss's rhythm and style.

"Who said that?" Olive frowned slightly. Why everyone thought she was going to leave soon? It seemed that a lot of things happened in the Angel Hotel during her trip to Jiangcheng.

Rou said, "Everybody is talking that the chairman intends to teach Ms. Susan and Mr. Hoyle has long wanted you to return to work with him. The reason why you stay in the hotel is because of Chairman Geve's illness, saying that you will guard the hotel until the chairman finds his biological daughter. Now that Ms. Susan is back, are you really going to leave?"

"Who says I'm leaving? There's no such thing. Go back to your seat and do your work seriously. Be careful I'll cut your bonus this month with you nonsense thought."

"Are you really not leaving?" Rou asked happily.

"Of course." If she left, who would stop the bad guys from doing evil?

"You'll still be our boss?"

"If you want to change your boss, I don't mind arranging one for you."

Rou hurriedly waved her hand, "No, no. I want you."

"Then are you not going to work?" Olive seldom glared at her that it scared the secretary and she stepped out, but her pace was cheerful.

Olive sank into the soft seat and fell into contemplation as there was no more interruption in the office and there was only silence.

Only a few people knew the inside story of the agreement she and the old man reached privately in the hospital that day, but now some parts seemed to have been revealed after being polished. There were rumors in the hotel that everyone thought she was going to leave Angel Hotel. If she didn't leave, it would make people think that she was trying to plot against the hotel.

The daughter of the Geve Family had returned now. If she still occupied this position and it spread out, it would mean she had intention to keep the hotel and not want to return it to the Geve.

Of course she wasn't capable of this alone, but with Alan Hoyle as her backing, the situation is different.

And it would pull the both of them down.

Chapter 497: Check it Yourself

“What is there to think? I don’t know how much longer I can still live. I just want to see you take over Angel Hotel when I can still open my eyes, so that I can die contentedly,” Norton said heavily.

Lory had a gloomy expression on sitting beside him. What could we do with wealth in this life? Money could buy a lot of things, but it couldn’t buy health.

“Father, what are you talking about? Look at you making mother sad again. You have to believe that you and mother will live a long life. I’ve just found you, but you’re not allowed to say such damned words. I still want to be filial to you for a few years. Mother, don’t listen to father. Doctor has said that father’s body is recovering well. I still want you to look at your daughter finds a boyfriend and gets married, giving you a grandchild too.”

Susan was a very soothing person and she was able to coax the old couple with a few words.

If those hidden purposes were eliminated, Olive really felt that it was a good thing to let Susan be the daughter of the Geve.

Their daughter was their heart disease now.

Alan studied all the subtle changes in Olive’s expression. He silently put a food in her bowl and laughed with the most natural tone, “Ms. Susan, I heard that you’re a top student of the prestigious Stanford University. With your ability, it would be a waste not to come back and take over your family business.”

“That’s right. It’s much better to be a boss yourself. You don’t have to look at those foreigners while eating,” Norton echoed, but he also understood Alan’s meaning. He wanted to kidnap Olive earlier to his own company.

Susan smiled helplessly and sighed, “You know how to talk, Alan. It seems that this dinner is specially arranged by my father to persuade me. Give me a week to think about it. Seven days later, I’ll give my answer.”

Refused when she was welcomed, advanced after she retreated, Olive thought. This one named Susan was a good player.

Norton bargained, “Seven days are too long. Just three days. Three days later is our wedding anniversary. I’ve arranged a banquet and there will be reporters from several media companies. With this opportunity, I want to formally introduce you to everyone and declare you’re the legal heiress of Angel Holiday Hotel.”

Susan wanted to say something, but Lory, who had been silent, took one of her hands and said, “Just listen to your father. Actually, whether you take over the hotel now or not, it’ll be yours sooner or later. Your dad’s will has been made long ago. The Angel Hotel is his legacy to you.”

On the way back, Olive sat silently without a word, looking out the car window thoughtfully.

Alan pulled her distracted head to his shoulders, “What are you thinking?”

Alan lifted up his head and looked at Mrs. Steele for a long while.

Mrs. Steele bristled by his gaze, "Why are you looking at me like that?"

Alan hurriedly got up to let her sit, pressing down on his mother-in-law, "Mother, can I take that as Olive has also the exact jade pendant in her hands like the one in this photo?"

The answer to the question in his heart was ready to come out now.

"Yes. Olive isn't my and her father's biological child. This is no longer a secret in our family. Didn't you know it already?" Mrs. Steele suddenly was taken aback and grasped on something. "Then do you mean that the jade pendant in this photo isn't Olive's?"

Alan shook his head and answered, "No."

"Oh my," Mrs. Steele was surprised and hurriedly picked up the photo to take a closer look. This was obviously the same thing. She kept her eyes on the photo and held on Alan's arm tightly. "Tell me now whose pendant in this picture? Now!"

Alan could even feel the trembling in her fingers. He held her hand and tried to calm her down. "Mother, don't get too emotional. Calm down. Let's talk slowly. We talk slowly."

Mrs. Steele had a prior case of a stroke. He couldn't let her emotions fluctuate too much.

Actually, he wasn't calm too, but he had to be calm. He thought of his girl who had concealed it for a few months. He really wanted to catch her and hit her butt.

But Mrs. Steele couldn't calm down. She lost herself for a moment and was panicking, "Wait. I'll call her dad first."

When Mr. Steele received a call from his wife, he happened to be in the elevator. Before he could speak, he heard a rushing voice on the other end of the phone. "Come home quick. Now."

He thought something happened back at home. He ran as soon as he got out of the elevator and he almost hit onto the house. "Honey, what's wrong?"

Mrs. Steele didn't expect her husband to come home as soon as the call had ended, but she didn't care anymore and waved at him anxiously. "Come here and take a look."

Mr. Steele had the same reaction with Mrs. Steele when he first saw the photo, "Isn't this Olive's jade pendant? What's wrong? I had thought our house is burning."

He even almost fell down when he got out of the elevator.

Alan breathed out a sigh of relief. His girl even hid a little secret from her husband. He even wondered how she could be so sure that woman named Susan was a fake. It turned out it was her.

Here she went again. Mrs. Hudson said helplessly, “Madam, how can you say that? They’re your children. No children would curse their mother to die. Besides, they’re the children you raised. You have to believe that the children you raised aren’t failures.”

“The most failure one in this family is me. No one likes me. All of them take me as a burden.” Staring at a house with only a few servants left, the old lady inevitable felt desolate.

“Madam, I’ll say something I shouldn’t say. You’re to be blamed a little in this situation,” Mrs. Hudson looked at her face carefully.

“Aren’t they all blaming me now?” Mrs. Hoyle mocked herself.

“Madam, you have a stern face on every day. Even if young master and young lady are willing to come home, they’ll hide when they see you like this. Madam, I’ve worked in this family for more than 30 years. I’ve watched you join the family and lived harmoniously with master, you gave birth to two young masters and young lady. Then, master left. You’re the backbone of this family. You should have the warmth of a family, but it has become cold now. Is there a meaning for you to be like this?” This was the first time Mrs. Hudson, who usually didn’t talk much, daringly said so many words from the bottom of her heart to her.

“Then you mean, you ask me to apologize to them and admit my mistakes?” Mrs. Hoyle asked with a cold face.

Mrs. Hudson hurriedly replied, “I don’t mean that, Madam.”

“Then what do you mean?”

“I mean, you don’t need to apologize specifically. From now on, treat them kinder a little, just like in the past, be in harmony. Don’t lose your temper all the times, then sincerely accept young master’s wife. I

Chapter 500: I Want to Bite You

The next day, Olive saw from the mirror's reflection that her neck was full of hickeys. The weather outside was hot and there was no way she would go out wearing a high color top or a scarf.

She screamed furiously, "Alan Hoyle, you bastard!"

Alan rushed in and asked innocently, "What's wrong, honey?"

Olive pointed at her own neck, "Look at what you've done. How can I go out to work like this?"

"It's weekend today. You can just not go," Alan reminded her.

“I’ve just come home from Jiangcheng two days. A lot of works are waiting for me.”

“The hotel isn’t yours anyway. Why do you work so hard?” Alan said deliberately. He wanted to see her reaction.

“I’ve made a promise and I’ve to do it well. Not to mention, I have 10% of their shares.”

That was her reason. Every time she avoided the importance and responded lightly. Others might see it to be reasonable, but he knew that that was only one of the reasons.

Alan smiled and said, “How about I give you half of my company’s shares, will you work for me?”

“Are you lack of people?” Olive rolled her eyes at him. Now, she was anxious for the red marks on her neck, yet he still could make a joke. She really wanted to burst his head. “Hurry up and think of a way for me. This is all your fault.”

“How can it be all my fault? My body has several of your bite marks too and they’re still hurting. You must’ve been a tiger in your past life. You have such sharp teeth. Look at this,” said Alan and opened up the buttons of his shirt. And surely, there were several teeth marks on his chest.

But she didn’t seem to remember. Besides, his could still be covered, but hers couldn’t.

“Oh, stop it. I should have bite your face instead and see how you’ll go out to meet people.”

“How about you bite me now?” He really put his face in front of her.

He really thought that she wouldn’t dare to bite him. Olive squeezed his face and put his soft part into her mouth.

“Close your eyes.”

Alan jumped away from her, “You seriously want to bite.”

“If not?” Olive snorted with her hands on her waist.

“How can you just bite just because you say so? No way.” Alan said and wanted to run away.

Olive naturally chased after him, “Stop there.”
