Chapter 521: Late at Night's Whispers

Mrs. Steele answered, "Not long ago, Alan was sitting in the living room with a few photos with him, looking at them repeatedly. I took a lot and saw the jade pendant in it. I thought it was you who took the photo for him. So, I asked and just knew that the jade pendant in the photo is the Geve's keepsake. So that was how it's revealed and I knew it."

"You mean, Alan also already knew." Although she had already thought of this point just now, she was still stunned that the fact her own man didn't mention a word these days after her mom said it.

"Duh? He told me to pretend I don't know things and let you make your own decision. But you're the child who is raised by me and your dad. How could we not understand you? You're not the kind of person who dislikes the poor and loves the rich. You won't abandon us after acknowledging them, will you? I often hear that old man Geve's health isn't good and is a cancer patient. We don't know how long he gets to live. You don't want him to leave with regrets. Your life will also have flaws, right?"

Olive was very touched by her mom's words. She hugged her mom and said, "Mom, thank you. You and dad are the best parents in the world. I'm grateful to you and love you forever."

"Silly girl." Mrs. Steele fondly stroked her hair.

Chloe shuddered with goosebumps, "What about me?"

Olive turned around and kneaded her face, "Of course I love you to death."

Chloe swatted her hands. "Don't talk about death. That's bad luck."

Olive faked a smile, "What bad luck? This is my loyal vow. I won't say this easily."

"Damn you. Go away." Chloe rolled her eyes.

Mrs. Steele had long used to this kind of rude but intimate argument between the two children.

"What are you guys talking? So lively." Mr. Steele just brought back Annie who was tired from playing outside. As soon as he entered home, he heard the noise of his two daughters.

Chloe laughed, "We're talking about Annie has another grandparents."

"But I want to sleep now. How?" Olive began to play around.

But she didn't expect that Alan would easily agree, "Sure. Get some sleep. If you don't sleep, the baby wants to sleep now. You can't rest this late anymore next time."

As he said that, he reached out to turn of the lamp.

The room instantly went dark and they couldn't see each other, only could feel each other. She smelled the scent of the shower gel remaining on his body after taking a shower and mixed with his unique masculine breath.

He was truly calm and didn't ask anything. But Olive couldn't stand it anymore and stretched out her hands to push him. "Hey!"

"What's wrong?" Alan raised the corners of his lips into a smile.

"You really don't want to ask me?"

“If you don’t want to say it, I won’t ask. You can tell me after you want to.”

“Fine!” Olive pouted and blew raspberry.

Alan caught her disappointing tone. He sighed and smiled. He put her head on his arm. “Tell me. What’s your problem? And your husband will solve it for you.”

Chapter 523: Baby Boy or Baby Girl?

Olive suddenly felt that this woman's Chinese had become more fluent. She could express in one sentence without having to cut it into several sentences.

She calmly smiled, "I won't bother your family's meal."

"What do you mean bother? Alan is going too and I'm afraid that he's already on the road. Let's go!" Susan couldn't help but pulled her.

Olive didn't have a choice and could only casually tidy up her desk. After she turned off the computer, she walked out of the office with Susan.

"Does Uncle Norton need something for me?"

"My dad loves to be lively. It isn't like you don't know it. He just loves a crowd, especially you two."

Susan was a sensible person. Of course, knowing to get the plan in motion, she needed to gain these two people's trusts.

From a perspective that couldn't be seen by Olive, a sinister glint flashed in Susan's eyes. How much she wanted to kick out this woman. But this woman had a deep-rooted position in Norton Geve's heart. Norton Geve trusted this woman, otherwise she wouldn't be promoted again and again in just six months until she took the position of a director. He even gave her a share.

She didn't know whether this kind of trust was because of Alan Hoyle stood behind Olive Steele or Norton Geve himself had a strong believe in her. He even dared to hurriedly hand over the Angel Hotel to an outside to manage when he thought he was running out of time.

But no matter what, according to the current situation, it was not a good appearance for her.

The moment they were downstairs and looked up, she saw a black car park under the shade of trees. Alan was standing outside the car door, holding a phone and preparing to make a call.

The moment Susan saw him, her eyes brightened up. She put on a smile and walked faster than Olive. "Alan, you're making me jealous of Olive. I've said that I'll bring Olive to you safely, but you're still unrest and even come to pick her up in person."

Alan simply smiled, "You've just arrived in Luo City and you're not very familiar with Alan Hoyle poked her on the forehead resignedly, "Well! There's nothing I can do with you."

Lory Ted looked at the young couple, feeling funny. It would be better if Susan could marry a good man who really loved her.

Lory Ted brought a small dish of marinated diced radish from the kitchen, "Taste this and see if your appetite will improve."

As soon as Olive Steele saw this, she became delighted, "Auntie, I really like eating marinated diced radish. I will definitely be able to eat more with this."

Lory Ted smiled and said, "If you like sour food, you will give birth to a boy."

Susan was curious when she heard this statement for the first time, "Really? So when you were pregnant, did you like to eat the sour or the spicy?"

Lory Ted thought about it for a while, "it seemed that I wasn't too picky, and I even ate more than usual."

Alan Hoyle said to Olive Steele, "I will feel more at ease if you can have a good appetite like auntie."

"It won't always be like this. It will be okay in a while." Having the experience of being pregnant, Olive Steele was not worried. Morning sickness was normal. She even felt that this was a kind of interaction between the baby and her.

Alan Hoyle asked, "Why?"

Alan Hoyle was still nonchalant, "Did I let her leave Angel?"

"Then why did you talk so much nonsense? I really hate to be ambiguous." Norton Geve simply put down his chopsticks and stared at him.

"It's very simple, I just want my wife to be at ease at home from now on, until she gives birth to a baby. Of course, if possible, I also really hope that she will return to my company."

He once thought that as long as the time was right, he would let her work by his side. He didn't want her work too hard.

But now, he was afraid that hope dashed to pieces. It seemed that Olive had been destined to be bound to Angel, and her responsibility could not be discarded easily.

He said this because he wanted to see Susan's reaction. He found there was a light of joy in a flash in her eyes.

She wanted to take Angel as her own. Shit, this woman and the gang behind her had not been qualified enough. No one can win him by playing tricks.

Susan seemed to sense that a touch of profound gaze passed over her. Perhaps it was out of her guilty conscience, thus, she became timorous.

But she also understood that the departure of Olive Steele would do more harm than good.

As soon as this woman left, even just a year, it would be a perfect opportunity for her to control Angel.

But the main purpose of her coming to Luo city was not just to deal with Geve family. So even if she wanted to drive Olive Steele away so much, she still had to retain her.

"Brother Hoyle, you can't drive Sister Olive away just because I came back. Don't get me embarrassed. Sister Olive Steele is also the shareholder of

"If I'm right, he is your friend, right?" Olive Steele feigned, but she didn't expect that Susan was so honest and readily admitted.

"Yes! We have known each other for more than ten years. I believe in his abilities and good conduct. And when I returned to the United States this time, I also talked to him. If we can have a smooth cooperation, he is willing to give up his part of the shares."

"So, Susan, tell me, are you offering fuel in snowy weather, or fishing in troubled waters?" Olive Steele's tone was a little hard, so Susan's face changed, but Olive quickly turned her tone into a playful one, and she blinked ambiguously at Norton, "Or, you like him? If this is the case, I think I and Uncle Geve may both need to reconsider."

"Sister Olive, don't pull my leg." Susan groaned and said to Alan Hoyle, "Brother Hoyle, your wife really talk nonsense."

"It's your own expression that is ambiguous. You can't blame my girl."

Norton Geve and his wife looked at each other. There was still confusion in each other's eyes.

Why didn't they find the ambiguity?

Although they were not sure, they preferred to believe them.

Norton Geve said, "It's not a shame to like someone, so why cover up? It doesn't matter if you bring a foreigner back, as long as he is willing to come to Los Angeles and settle down."

Susan stomped her feet under the table. "Dad, don't make a fuss. It's not like that."

"So what's the matter?" Lory Ted followed.

"Just an ordinary friend, it's nothing, don't guess, put away the gossip, okay?" Susan was very upset.

But not long after the meal, the servant walked in, "Miss, someone is looking for you outside, and he said he is your American boyfriend."

"Boyfriend?"

"Why did you break up?"

"Susan wants to settle in China, and I hope she can stay in the United States. After all, there is my business there. So, we have our differences..."

As soon as Norton Geve heard this, he was anxious, for fear of her daughter being taken away. "Young man, you can fall in love with my daughter. I don't mind your race, but you must come to China. Susan must live in Luo city."

William seemed to have made up his determination, "Uncle, I know, you are just reunited with your daughter, and you don't want her to leave. Susan has no other relatives in the United States. She hopes to be by your side. Here, she is not alone. During Susan's absence, I feel very lonely. So, I have decided, I am willing to live in China."

He said so sincerely that Norton Geve and lory Ted were quickly moved, and Susan seemed a little disbelieved, "What you said is true?"

William held her hand. "I won't lie to you."

Chapter 528 She Suddenly Changed Her Attitude

In this world, no one could give her such a sense of security except for her man, Alan.

However, even Alan could not imagine that his thoughtful protection measures still had some mistakes later.

After having dinner with the Geve family, William politely declined the Geve couple's invitation to stay with them, saying that he had already booked a room at the hotel and would rent a suitable one in a few days.

The appropriate distance should be maintained. If he moved into his wife's home, he would be looked down on. What's more, the current Susan still seemed to have objection to him.

"Susan, you go and see William off." Norton said, gesturing with his eyes.

Susan seemed a little reluctant, "Since he could come to our home by his own, he can also find the hotel himself, and why do I have to see him off? Are you still afraid that he will get lost?"

Norton glared at her, "Hey, how could you say so? He took the trouble of traveling a long distance to see you, from which I can see that he is so sincere. Do not be so rude, OK?"

William also walked to Susan and took her hand, "Susan, could you please go out with me out for a walk, and there are still some words that I want to say to you."

"What is that? Why can't you say it here?" Susan deliberately asked. Her hand was still not pulled out, because he held it tightly.

William has not said anything and Norton said it for him, "What else can be said? Of course lover's honeyed words."

Honestly, as a parent, especially a father who had experienced the pain of separation with his own daughter for more than twenty years, he really wanted to keep Susan with him. He didn't know how long he still could live, and one day maybe his illness would recur. The main thing was that he really wanted to have someone to live with his wife so that she would not be alone. So, he was so reluctant to find his daughter an in-law so far away.

Chapter 529 What Had Happened

William came after her, "Susan, what's wrong? What happened?"

"Someone knows about my real information, but I don't know who that person is and what he or she wants." Susan tried to call back, only to find that the phone had been turned off. She knew that it was a time bomb that she had to remove.

The moment she received the call, she was conscious and recorded the other person's voice, but after she had someone analyze it, she came to the conclusion that the voice itself was electronically synthesized, not a real person's voice at all.

That person seemed to be veiled in mystery.

Mrs. Steele could never have imagined that when Mrs. Hoyle came again, she would be carrying a bag of fresh ingredients that she had just purchased from the supermarket. On the bag, there was a very eye-catching supermarket Logo logo.

"Mrs. Hoyle, what are you doing?"

"I've come to make food for my future grandson, can't I? Let me use your kitchen for a while, and I know that you won't care, right? Oh, by the way, where is your kitchen? "

The corners of Mrs. Steele's mouth twitched. As a woman who always called herself a noble and luxurious lady, Mrs. Hoyle actually was so cheeky. She seemed to have forgotten how embarrassed she was the day when she was driven out of the Steele family. And now, she just walked into the kitchen and started to prepare for cooking casually, acting as if this was her own house.

"What's wrong with her?" Chloe couldn't quite believe that this old lady had changed her personality, guessing that maybe she wanted to do something bad in this way.

It's easy to change rivers and mountains but hard to change a person's nature. Chloe had learned this trick from her ex-mother-in-law and had learned it well, so she could easily find that Mrs. Hoyle was using the same way.

For example, in front of the son and outsiders, she would like to act like a kind and soft lady who treated her daughter-in-law so well, but secretly, she would make you fall into the cesspool. As long as you dared to retort, others would only think that you were embarrassing your mother-in-law, which was usually hard to explain. The public usually would not think if the mother-in-law was wrong even though she was trying to break up her son and daughter-in-law because in their opinions, mothers-in-law were always right.

At this moment, the old lady finally acted a bit like a kind and detailed grandmother.

Olive quietly pulled the corner of Alan's shirt and asked softly, "What did you and your mother talk about?"

It was still unaccustomed for Olive to see such a sudden change.

Alan was very calm and didn't answer her, but just asked, "Don't you like that?"

Of course it was good, but Olive was just afraid that if the old lady suddenly got back to what she had used to be, she would feel let down.

Annie was not in a hurry to eat the chicken leg, and she just ran to the water fountain, took a cup, first brewed a cup of herbal tea to Mrs. Hoyle, "Grandma, this is for you, and it can clear the heat and relieve the summer heat."

The little girl's warm behavior immediately made the old lady smile, "My granddaughter is so good, which is completely different from some young people. I have been here for most of the day, but there was no one serving me any tea or food."

Although Mrs. Hoyle didn't directly say anyone's name, Chloe was not stupid, and she knew that this old lady meant her. She sat down on the sofa opposite the old witch and crossed her legs, not caring what Mrs. Hoyle said or did at all.

She wanted to show what this old witch hated most to anger her.

"I can't help it, and there are just some elders that don't even respect themselves, so why should I respect them?"
