Chapter 531 Let Me Marry You, OK?

Chloe's face was red, but it was not because she was shy but because she was so angry. She then gnashed her teeth in anger and said, "Aoba, are you courting death?"

"If I can die with a beauty, I am willing." Aoba said with a playful smile.

Chloe slapped him in the face, "Go away. Don't take me with you if you want to die."

"I am just joking, and how could I want to die? If I die at a young age, you'll be a widow, and I can't let you live such a boring and miserable life." Aoba put his hand on her shoulder.

Chloe leaned forward and shook off his hand, "Don't touch me, and I'm not married to you! If you're not careful and die, I'm still a delicate flower waiting for someone to come and pick. If you are dead, I will immediately find a handsome boy to fall in love."

"How dare you!" Aoba became unhappy at once, and his voice was thus louder. This woman's heart was the most poisonous.

When it came to the voice, Chloe would not lose to others, "Why don't I dare to do it? Anyway, you are no longer alive at that time, and do you think that you can still control me?"

"It seems that I still have to destroy you, this beautiful flower while I'm still alive, or you will be taken away by others. Hey beauty, let's get a marriage license, and I'll give you my whole body and heart as a gift for free." Aoba suddenly showed his softness.

"You are proposing?" Chloe narrowed her eyes.

"Yeah." Aoba nodded repeatedly, "Will you say yes?"

"No flowers and ring, I'm not feeling it." Chloe deliberately teased him.

Aoba pulled over to the side of the road, got out of the car and, as if by magic, took a bouquet of bright roses from the tailgate. He opened the car door for her, knelt on one knee and showed her a delicate ring box. When opening it, Chloe saw the big and shining ring in front of her eyes.

"Have feelings now?" He had just bought the flowers, and he had the ring with him, waiting for the right moment.

Chapter 532 Undo the knot in her mind

Chloe Malan had her own principles, which may make people think she was hypocritical and ridiculous, but it's a matter of her dignity.

She took the key from his hand, opened the door and got into the car, but didn't wait for him. She just stretched her head out of the lowered car window, and said triumphantly, "I think you have a lot of food, you can take a walk to digest, I will go for a drive first."

Of course he understood that it was difficult for him to find her again. He chased out a hundred meters in vain and shouted, "Woman, don't let me catch you!"

Chloe Malan didn't actually want this on purpose, she just suddenly felt upset. What she had to admit was that she was in love with this boy who was three years younger than her, and wanted to stabilize the relationship. However, his mother was incompatible with her. She couldn't give in like Olive Steele.

By the sea, the moonlight covered the beach, and the white waves were beating against the rock reef. Chloe Malan threw away her shoes and walked barefoot, letting the water from the high tide overflow her insteps, she was so upset that she shouted hoarsely at the sea several times.

The cry quickly dissipated into the sea and was submerged in the sound of waves crashing on the shore.

"Ah....."

Some people said that when you were unhappy, you can shout at the sky of nothingness. She had yelled, but she can't undo the knot in her mind.

Aoba Hoyle quietly appeared behind her, "Stop screaming, your voice is going to be broken."

Chloe Malan was taken aback for a moment, then turned around and saw a vague figure, "How do you know I am here."

Chapter 533 Be obedient

"Go away! For shame!" Chloe Malan despised.

"All right, except for driving me away, I will listen to your all arrangements tonight."

Chloe Malan hummed slightly, reaching out to rub his hair as if stroking an obedient child, "That's more like it."

"Then, what are we going to do next?" Such a wilderness, she should drive here alone, and was not afraid of danger.

Chloe Malan took out the car key and shook it in front of him, "If you want to leave here, you have to get back in the car first, right?"

"Of course."

Aoba Hoyle hurriedly grabbed the car key from her. Although he wanted to make her happy, he had to keep the general direction and he couldn't let her take a wild ride. She drove fast and fiercely.

Opening the door of the passenger seat, Chloe Malan did not get in the car. She said, "You get on the car first."

Aoba Hoyle hid the car key behind him, for fear that she might grab it, "It's good for me to be a driver for you. If you want to go some place, just show me the way by the side."

"I won't grab it with you." Chloe Malan pointed to the driver's seat, "You go there."

Upon hearing this, Aoba Hoyle felt more relieved, but at the same time he became alert again, always feeling that she was trying to tease him again. It's a pity that the moonlight was too unclear to Aoba Hoyle felt speechless, "Can we change the game?" "Anyway, I'm in a bad mood right now. You should show your sincerity to make me happy." While saying this, Chloe Malan had found a good place to squat and watch. "Hey, woman, are you serious?" Chloe Malan said threateningly, "Otherwise?" "Find another way, a different game to play?" Aoba Hoyle wanted to discuss with her in a flattering tone. "No, turn off the air-conditioning in the car." Chloe Malan was absolutely determined. She took the phone away and glanced at the time display on it, "Okay, I'm going to start timing, you should be ready. " "Are you really my beloved wife?" "Strictly speaking, I am not your wife yet." Chloe Malan reminded him of a fact. Well, if she can really be happy. It was actually not an easy task to make a stable car shake. In order to amuse the woman, he laid down the seat flat. The space in the car was limited, so he could only jump up and down with his waist up, and finally creating a little effect that attracted the attention of passersby. "Because I have kept my integrity for you for almost two months, and I am concerned about you, can you give me some benefits?" He pretended to be pitiful.

Chloe Malan was in a good mood, and finally laughed, "Really obedient, I will give you an unforgettable night."

A blazing fire met dry wood, but at this moment, in another place, Mrs. Hoyle was struggling to calm down.

The dinner, because of her participation, was much more boring than usual, but it was over peacefully after all.

She wasn't pick about the food, and didn't trouble Olive Steele. After the meal, she also accompanied Annie to do some manual homework.

Such a change made Mrs. Steele unable to adapt for a while, and she quietly pulled Alan Hoyle to the balcony corner, "Your mother, is she okay? Why did she suddenly change her temper?"

Alan Hoyle smiled slightly, "Don't worry, it will only get better in the future. My mom has indeed done something too much, so please forgive her."

"Don't mention the previous things, as long as she can treat Olive Steele and her children well in the future, I have no opinion."

When Mrs. Hoyle left the Wen's house, she said to Olive Steele, "You have a strong reaction to pregnancy and your body can't bear it, so you quit that job. Alan can afford you and your children ."

Although these words were a bit unpleasant, but Olive Steele heard her concern. Even though the old lady only cared about the child in her belly, at least the child can recall a little affection from her.

The knock on the door interrupted her thoughts. She habitually asked Doctor Wood to open the door. There was no movement for a long time. She suddenly remembered that Doctor Wood had taken a few days off because of something happened in his family.

She had to get up and open the door by herself, and saw Annie holding breakfast, looking at her with big watery eyes and a sweet smile.

"Grandma, dad asked me to bring it up to you. Did I disturb your sleep?"

The child's smile made the old lady feel happy a lot. She took the breakfast from the little guy, "No, grandma woke up a long time ago, but just lay in bed and didn't get up."

"Grandma, are you sick? See the doctor sooner if you are sick."

Thoughtful words warmed the old lady's heart. She put her breakfast on the table, turned around and picked up the little guy behind her and sat down on a chair next to her.

"Grandma is not sick, it's just that there is no one in this house, I don't want to get up, so..."

Annie reached out her hand, touched the old lady's forehead, and said like a little adult, "Well, no fever, grandma didn't lie to me."

The old lady smiled, "Is it possible that you can treat an illness?"

"No, but I know that when you have a fever, your forehead will be so hot. Grandma, you should have breakfast first, otherwise, it won't taste good when it gets cold. I am here with you, so you will not feel lonely."

Olive sneered in her heart, as Susan already had some doubts about her, so how could Susan trust her? But Olive hasn't changed her face at all. "Susan, I'm only doing this to protect Angel Holiday Hotel from being used by malicious people."

This time, the implication of her words made Susan look a little pale. "Sister Olive, do you think I'm up to something against Angel Holiday Hotel? If you don't want to give up power, you can tell me directly, while you don't have to play jokes on me so deliberately."

They talked so loudly that Norton, who has just arrived at the door, heard Susan's last words very clearly.

"Susan, why do you say that?"

"Dad, Olive just insulted me, as she said I wanted to do something bad to Angel Holiday Hotel." When Susan met Mr. Gove, she pretended to be wronged.

Olive was speechless, looking at the ceiling. Was Susan starting to make mischief?

"How can that be? There must have been a misunderstanding in your communication." Norton was busy being a peacemaker, while he could not understand how the two of them could quarrel in the blink of an eye tell me why she didn't approve of my investment." Susan said to him in a tone of discontent.

"I don't want to say it again. Uncle Geve, if you trust me, you'll leave the decision of this matter to me." What Olive said sounded forced.

Norton frowned, as he heard something unusual. "Olive, I believe in you so much, otherwise I wouldn't dare give you full control of Angel Holiday Hotel without a consultant, so what do you think?"

Chapter 539: The hidden truth

As soon as he finished speaking, the video was cut off by him. She was only a pawn for him, and she knew it.

As she recently overheard in a song on the street. "I am like a pawn, and whether I advance or retreat is up to you. I am not your general but just a small soldier. I'm like a pawn, and I can't choose whether to come or go. Even if I can't come back, you never hesitate, while I am always under your control."

She didn't even know whether she was about to be discarded by him as a pawn.

The next day, Susan apologized for an angry remark she made to Olive in the office.

Olive said that she didn't mind, and she told Susan that William was already appointed. He was supposed to be the assistant manager of the catering department, and she would welcome him in at any time.

Nothing happened in the next few days as Susan kept to her duty, and she never mentioned the investment again, while Olive didn't give her a chance to manage the core business of Angel Holiday Hotel.

Don't harm others but never relax vigilance against evildoers. Olive couldn't afford to be careless, especially when someone's up to no good.

But on this very day, Olive received a phone call from Xenia.

Dave was planning two weddings, and Olive remembered that it was the time when they were going back to Luo City after holding their wedding in Haikou, the city where Xenia's parents live. Of course, they also needed to hold another wedding in Luo City.

Getting married was a wonderful thing, so Olive couldn't help but smile. "Well, Xenia, how do you feel about being a bride?"

But on the phone, Xenia was almost crying. "Sister Olive, I don't know Mr. Hoyle's phone number, so could you tell him to come to the Martial Club right now?"

"Dave, calm down and stop fighting." Xenia tried to persuade Dave one more time.

But it was clearly a faint sound in the ear of a man who had lost his mind.

Olive pulled Xenia aside to keep Xenia away from the center of the field. "Xenia, don't worry, as things between men are better left to the men themselves."

Olive told Xenia not to worry, but even Olive was slightly uneasy when she saw Dave becoming like this, as she always felt like something bad was going to happen.

After Alan briefly learned what had happened, he took a few steps forward, and he was within an arm's reach of Dave. "I overrated you when I said you were rich in limbs and simple in mind. I now realize that you are an idiot, as you've been taken advantage of, but you're still being rude."

"Yeah, I'm an idiot, and that's why I used to believe your bullshit." Dave laughed at himself, reached out, and attacked Alan. "But Alan, has it ever occurred to you that even if you can shade the sky with one hand, the truth will come to light sooner or later?"

"I should like to know who broke the news to you."

"What's the matter? Do you want to pay someone to keep his mouth shut? It's too late."

Dave's fist almost hit Alan in the face, and Alan wasn't like Ivy, who put up with Dave during the fight, so Alan didn't try to avoid Dave.

Since Dave thought fists could solve problems, they're going to fight first. Anyway, a man didn't listen to anyone when he lost his mind.
