

Chapter 26 My choice is always him

Lavinia was crushed on the sofa by Evans, regardless of Lavinia's dizziness or whether her head still hurt.

Heartache and jealousy had already blinded his reason. Lavinia believed that if she fainted now, Evans would be able to kill her.

She tried so hard to wake herself up that she did not hesitate to pinch her thigh, and some places had already begun to leach blood.

"Evans, calm down!"

Lavinia couldn't fight back. She pushed hard, and Evans's body still didn't move.

The mad man was frantically trying to kiss Lavinia.

She refused to obey and even opened her mouth and took a bite in Evans's neck artery position.

Instead of insulting Evans in the rented house, Lavinia would do something to fight back. Then, at least there would be a chance to live.

After Lavinia bit Evans, he stretched out his foot and pedaled it to Lavinia's lower abdomen. Lavinia immediately squatted on the ground with pain, and her face was much paler than before.

"What the hell is going on with you, Evans?"

Lavinia asked laboriously, enduring the pain in her abdomen and head.

She just didn't understand how a reasonable person before suddenly became like this.

Evans was not stupid. He recognized the tone of disgust in Lavinia's mouth.

"Why am I mad? You broke up with me. It's okay. What kind of man are you looking for outside? Why do you have to have sex with Chris? Do you know why The John Family has become what it is today? It was all because of Chris Konev. He let us live this suck life. Now, can you understand why I came to you?"

Evans was also sitting on a dusty bench, and he had not seen him for a few days. He had experienced more alterations than the previous days.

He was no longer that gentleman anymore.

"Stay with me, Lavinia. I promise you I can give you everything I can. What can Chris give you? Do you think Chris wants to fall in love with you? He's just playing with you. Wealthy gentlemen like them have already arranged marriage by their families, and you are just his plaything. When he gets bored with you, you will be kicked off. At that time, you are nothing, do you understand?"

Evans knew too well how men play. He used to be an exception. Because he had Lavinia in his heart, he never philandered outside. So he could clean himself up for Lavinia.

Men with such determination as him had gone out to play, let alone other men.

Evans decided that Chris's mind for Lavinia was not simple. However, Evans was furious when he heard that Lavinia was willing to follow Chris even as a mistress.

Lavinia finally knew that why Evans was so angry. But, unfortunately, it turned out that he knew everything.

What she didn't know was that Chris was the culprit of Evans's bankruptcy.

"Yeah, I'm with Chris Konev. I became his plaything. Like many games played by rich people, I slept with Chris and did what all lovers would do. So I am not as good as you think. We have broken up and can't go back anymore. No matter what Chris will be, my choice is always him, not you."

"My choice is always him, not you."

.....

This sentence deeply stung Evans's heart.

After six years of deep love, he finally broke up with Lavinia.

Evans's love for Lavinia ended. But, he never thought that the person he loved most would become the person he hated most in the future.

"Lavinia, take care of yourself!"

After saying that, Evans left the small rental house in Lavinia.

Lavinia, who had been holding on to prevent himself from fainting, fainted directly after seeing Evans leave.

Two days later.

Lavinia thought she would never wake up again.

The high fever could have the chance to burn her to death, and the injury to her head may let Lavinia bleed to death.

Evans didn't notice that after Lavinia's head was hit, a small hole had already been cut out of sight, and blood flowed out slowly. If he were careless, a slight injury would kill her.

Such a severe injury was supposed to be enough to make Lavinia suffer a significant loss, but when she woke up, she didn't find anything unusual in her body.

Lavinia looked around and found that she was not in her place.

The place was kind of familiar to her, as well as the smell of the room. So then she looked around a little bit.

She saw a tired but still exquisite face.

This man was surprised for half a minute when Lavinia woke up and then became angry again.

"Lavinia, how dare you!"

Chris gnashed his teeth to yell at her.

If this woman weren't covered in injuries, he wanted to fuck her right now.

"Why am I here? Didn't we break up?"

Why did she return to the villa in the north suburb?

Chris could know what she was thinking right now. But, as a little girl, it is not so easy for her to escape from him.

"You got a fever and injured, and you still have the smell of other men on your body. Do you want me to check this matter myself, or do you take the initiative to tell me what happened?"

When Chris found Lavinia, he immediately checked whether Lavinia had been raped.

Fortunately, she was only injured. Chris held Lavinia, let the driver speed back to the villa in the north suburb, and then let the private doctor cure her. Finally, after two busy days, Lavinia woke up.

During her coma, Chris's efforts were most clear to people around him except Lavinia.

"Forget about this matter. It is meaningless to continue tracing anyway."

It's about the feud between Chris and Evans. They would get hurt if Chris continued to find out the truth.

Lavinia didn't want to have to hurt anybody.

"Whenever it comes to Evans, you want to get away with it."

Reward

10

Comments

5