

Chapter 42 She almost died of ectopic pregnancy

The anesthetic was almost over, and a sudden pain made Lavinia frowned.

She couldn't remember when she was injured.

"Silly girl, how can I have such a silly sister as you!"

Erik, a tough guy with clank and iron bones, shed tears in front of his sister for the first time.

"Who is that man? I'm going to kill this son of bitch!"

Erik scooped the chicken soup that had already been prepared in the thermos bucket into a small bowl for Lavinia to drink.

"The doctor said that you should make up after giving birth. Although I have no experience, I will take care of you."

Lavinia didn't dare to let his brother continue and quickly interrupted, "Brother, what are you talking about? What miscarriage? Don't I have a fever?"

After hearing those words, Lavinia felt something was wrong.

If I just had a fever, my stomach would not hurt. However, when Lavinia touched her stomach again, she found that that was a gauze on her body.

Lavinia suddenly became severe.

The left hand was hung with an intravenous drip, and the right hand was subconsciously placed on her lower abdomen.

If Lavinia guessed right, she was pregnant and miscarriage.

But she fainted and knew nothing.

"Fortunately, the doctor checked in time and did not cause ectopic pregnancy bleeding. I just heard the doctor say that it is perfect for you to save your life. As for the children, you will have them in the future. So you should relax first."

Erik thought that Lavinia knew about the child and was afraid that she would give up the child, so she said something to relieve her, but now it seemed obviously different from what he thought.

"I am pregnant, ectopic pregnancy, miscarriage, and the child is not saved?"

Questions were asked one after another, and Lavinia was as incredible as Erik initially and felt that it was simply a fantasy.

Just think about it carefully. She and Chris only didn't take safety measures at the top of the villa in the north suburb. And she got pregnant. Alas!

After laughing, Lavinia's tears came out.

"Brother, I didn't expect to have children. But, since I didn't keep it, let's pretend that nothing happened. I'm fine."

Lavinia avoided the essential points. She knew that Erik wanted to know the father, but she didn't even reveal the wind.

But if she didn't say it, Erik would guess.

"Lavinia, tell me honestly that the last time I saw you at the villa in the north suburb, it must not be an accident. So was him the man?"

That man naturally referred to Chris. After Erik knew that her sister was there, he also inquired about it in many ways.

Chris was a man they never wanted to know. Erik didn't collect information and get to see that man until his sister had an intersection with that man.

"Brother, can you not mention him? I don't want to mention the past. Let's make good money in the future and treat my mother well. Then, when I leave the hospital, I can work and study, and our family will live well."

To raise enough money in the fastest time, Lavinia thought of taking a slant and using some shortcuts. She did get the money, and her mother didn't lack medical expenses, but now she has trapped herself and lost her first child.

Until now, Lavinia didn't know whether the choice she made was right or wrong.

But Lavinia did have a heartbreaking this time. She didn't even feel the feeling of the child in her stomach.

Was it over before it started? Just like this relationship with Chris, it had ended before it started.

"Lavinia, I'm trying to find a way for my mother's illness. Your main task is to study and get a diploma before looking for a job. I shouldn't have promised to let you think about those bad ideas!"

If Erik knew that Lavinia had chosen this method to raise money for his mother, he would not agree with her to pay even if he sold his kidney.

Lavinia was his sister. Why did God make such an arrangement cruelly?

So it turned out that the man was Chris. He would kill Chris.

Erik said on the surface that he would not care about the past and live well in the future, but he had already made up his mind in his heart.

Chris sat in the office of a high-rise building, in an ashtray in front of the French window. The ashtray was covered with a layer, and the whole office was full of choking smoke.

There was no message on his cell phone. Was Lavinia still with that man? Were they chatting all night happily?

Monstrous jealousy had been rolling in his heart for several times until Chris almost drowned me in it.

"Sir, a person who claimed to be Miss Lavinia's brother was looking for you. Unfortunately, he didn't make an appointment and said that you would naturally meet him by calling."

After staying in The Konev Group for so many years, some so many people tried their best to meet Chris. They all claimed they were essential to Manager Chris.

But all those people came with flattering smiles. No one was as gentle and handsome as Erik, but with a pair of eyes that seemed to kill people.

If they weren't worried that this handsome man would do something impulsive at the front desk, they would definitely let the security guard take Erik away.

Chris didn't expect Erik to find him.

Chris would let the guard drove him away if he heard of those words before.

But Erik was looking for it now.It must have something to do with Lavinia.

Even if there was vinegar,Chris still asked the front desk to bring people up on the phone.

Erik endured all the way until he saw Chris in the president's office.

He had already pinched his fist directly to Chris's face.Fortunately,Chris was agile.When he saw his fist swinging,he dodged and caught Erik's fist with one hand,which made Erik unable to attack him again.

"Chris,you bullying bastard.I'm gonna kill you today."

Erik struggled hard on Chris's hand.As Chris's palm tightened,Erik was blushed,and he gradually became unbearable.

"Where is Lavinia now?"

Chris didn't want to attack Erik either.He just wants Erik to calm down a little bit.

"Lavinia is in the hospital.Don't you know that she almost died?How dare you ask!"

Erik was still angry.But Erik had already seen the skills,Chris.He would never have the chance to hit this man.

"Which hospital?"

Chris used to focus on the key points.For example,when he heard that Lavinia was in the hospital again,he only had one thought in his mind.How could she be in the hospital?

Chapter 42 She almost died of ectopic pregnancy

13:30

Reward
10

Husband Insane lust

Comments
4

55.8%