

Chapter 57 I need my wife to help me

'My dad called you?'

She was stunned. What did Bob mean by calling him?

'Why did he call you suddenly?'

Nicole stared at him and couldn't help asking, but just after the question, she heard him laugh.

She pressed the corners of her lips, not sure what his smile meant. She stared at him, waiting for his answer.

'I think your dad loves your sister quite a bit. I thought she was nothing. Who knows that in your dad's heart, she is also very important.'

His eyebrows twitched, Bob probably knew that Nicole would not agree to let Erin be the spokesperson, so he came to him.

She frowned and waited patiently for his next words.

'Your dad called to tell me about the spokesperson. Let me persuade you. I guess he knew that you would not agree, so he wanted me to persuade you.'

Shawn said that the expression in the bottom of her eyes wandered, and there was a trace of dark in the bottom of her eyes. He was looking for him, but he did not agree.

Sure enough, when Shawn had just finished saying this, Nicole suddenly pulled down a face.

'Is he looking for you to talk about this, so, did you agree to it later?'

Erin was really got something. Now she knew to go find daddy.

He looked at the face that Nicole pulled down, and gently played with her chin.

'Of course not, knowing that you will be angry, would I still risk agreeing?'

His words swept away the dissatisfaction in her heart. She subconsciously looked at him and let out a cry.

'Do you care if I am angry?'

'Of course, if I agree, won't it affect the relationship between our husband and wife?'

'But your dad shouldn't just let it go. It looks like he will talk to you alone and talk about it.'

There was a glimmer of light in his eyes. He understood what Nicole did, Erin was indeed unworthy to be the spokesperson.

He constricted his eyes, and rubbed his hands gently on her hair.

'Just do whatever you want, I will support you.'

Her eyes were in a trance. Seeing Shawn seemed to be thinking about something else, she immediately got up from his legs, looking at him who wanted to say something else.

But she found that she didn't understand the thoughts in his eyes, and her eyes once again flashed a strange color.

'Where are we going to do?'

Shawn came here to pick herself up, shouldn't he just pick herself up from get off work? What's more, it's not time for get off work.

Sure enough, when she finished asking this, Shawn pulled out of his thoughts, and he shifted his eyes to her.

'Accompany me to socialize. If there is no woman by my side, it is estimated that some women will be crowded over there.'

Chapter 57 I need my wife to help me

'I need my wife to help me.'

Chapter 58 Just wait her up

He smiled meaningfully.

As soon as he finished speaking, the driver came back. Nicole glanced at the driver in front, and then retracted her gaze. She leaned directly on his shoulder. Her tone was a bit strong.

'I sit next to you, and I see who dares to discharge you.'

Hearing this, Shawn laughed, but he hoped so.

'Let's go.'

His eyes swept forward. His tone was filled with relaxing.

'Have you figured out how to refuse your dad? I don't think you can refuse.'

According to her degree of compromise with Bob, and Bob's attitude, the person who loses will definitely be Nicole.

'The result is not what you think. If I can't refuse, I will still refuse.'

Her heart was full of anger, and he was really right.

Not only Shawn felt that way, but she also subconsciously thought that way.

She constricted her eyes, closed her eyes and leaned on his shoulder, thinking about how to reject Bob in her mind.

After thinking about this for about ten minutes, she fell asleep leaning on his shoulder before he got there. She was sleeping really groggy.

Shawn's eyes fell on her body. After seeing that she was really asleep, his eyes were filled with a strange color. He gently reached out and touched her forehead.

Who knew that she hadn't really moved yet?

His eyes shifted to the driver's side, and a warm voice reminded: 'Be careful.'

Worried that if the driver came to a sudden brake, the woman might fly directly off his shoulder, he couldn't help but warn the driver.

The driver hurriedly answered.

But in this way, it took almost an hour to get there after a half-hour drive.

They were late for this reason.

Nicole hadn't woken up when they arrived at the club's parking lot, and Shawn didn't know how tired this woman was.

'Mr. Shawn, it's time...'

When the driver saw that he was not driving and they were still late, he couldn't help but remind him.

He knew that he was late now, but he still didn't mean to get out of the car in a hurry.

'Wait until she wakes up...'

Shawn's tone was faint, but unfortunately, he had just finished speaking when he saw her eyelashes move.

But his sight stayed on her face.

Her frowned quietly and slowly opened her eyes.

The expression in her eyes flickered, and when she opened her eyes and looked around, she saw he was staring at her.

Nicole's frowned brows subconsciously loosened, and she looked at him with a question: 'Is it there?'

'Not only did we arrive, we were also late.'

Shawn smiled, speaking without urgency.

'Then don't get off the car quickly?'

She gritted her teeth and was completely awakened by his words. She turned around and pushed the car door, but got out of the car first.

Nicole was more anxious than him, but Shawn was calm and unhurried now, as if he was not at all worried about the bad consequences of being late.

'Aren't you coming out?'

Seeing Shawn still sitting inside, Nicole couldn't help but remind him.

When he heard this, he got up and went out.

After getting off the car, Shawn naturally stretched out her hand, and protected her in his arms.

'Aren't we late now, then hurry up. Aren't you here to socialize?'

'What's the hurry, those people are still flirting with the lover they brought with them now, it is boring to go so early.'

Shawn snorted and explained the reason why he was not in a hurry.