

Chapter 73 On the Eve of Marriage

A woman who seemed to be in her early thirties told Lavinia that it would be useless to help them take care of their children in the future. Lavinia was confused when she heard those words.

Besides, why didn't Lavinia remember that she just promised Vivian that she would fucking get married?

"Son, just now, you promised me to get married and have children first. So if you go back on your word, I will continue to cry until you promise!"

Lavinia suddenly remembered, just now. When Chris was not around, Vivian cried directly in front of Lavinia to force marriage and told about the difficulties of bringing Chris. To block Vivian's mouth, she compromised in a hurry. Who knew that such a compromise was taken seriously by Vivian!

"I...I just..."

Lavinia wanted to say that she had made a mistake just now and that she didn't really want to marry Chris at once. But when she talked about it and looked at Chris's expectant eyes, the words she wanted to refuse suddenly got stuck in her throat, and she couldn't repeat it.

"See, the little girl is embarrassed to say anything. Chris, you are embarrassed to mention marriage. I can understand it. Since it has been agreed, let's make an appointment to see Lavinia's mother and then give the gifts. Let's buy what we need. When you are free, you should get the certificate first. We can't let other people look down on our daughter-in-law."

All these things were mentioned in detail, and Lavinia felt valued for the first time. It was precise because of this that she no longer rejected resistance and even had some expectations.

"Lavinia, my mother has never been a mother-in-law in her life. She is a little too nervous. Don't take it to heart. If you don't want to get married so early, we can think about it first. Then, when you are willing, we will discuss marriage."

Although he felt disappointed, Chris was willing to give Lavinia enough time. He was less than thirty and could afford to wait.

No sooner had Chris finished speaking than Lavinia covered her mouth and ran to the bathroom.

Such a fast action was really only subconscious. She held the sink and vomited for a long time until the bile was almost spat out and then bowed a handful of clear water and splashed it on her face so that she could calm down quickly.

"We have eaten the same things in the past two days. Didn't you have some snacks secretly, did you?"

Chris comforted Lavinia by patting her back and thought it would make her comfortable. But he didn't expect that Lavinia vomited again.

"Chris, is Lavinia pregnant?"

Vivian, of course, was not so good at seeing whether Lavinia was pregnant. She just relied on women's experience in having children. When she was pregnant with Chris, she vomited like this, and she knew best how uncomfortable it was.

"How is that possible? Forget it. I'd better ask Hawn to give her a physical examination."

After saying that, his mobile phone rang.

Hawn happened to be calling Chris to say something.

"Chris, I have to tell you something. You must hold on when you hear it."

Hawn also just got the report and finished reading the analysis. After reading the information, he now has mixed feelings in his heart. He was afraid to tell the other party the truth. On the other hand, Chris would really take the time to give Hawn a good lesson.

"Fart quickly. I also have questions to ask you."

Chris was in a hurry to ask Hawn questions. He didn't care about Hawn's words at all.

"When I checked Miss. Lavinia's body last time. I also found that there were poison residues in the past. Strangely, the last physical examination found that there were no residues. All her physical examinations were within the indicators. Another accident was that our examination report showed that your girlfriend has been pregnant for more than a month."

For more than a month, if it didn't happen to meet the physical examination, it happened to be found out. Hawn didn't believe that Lavinia's body could still make such a big miracle.

"You mean, it's been more than a month? Hawn, come to the north suburban villa quickly. I want to know an accurate answer. You'd better not let me down again."

Chris's hand with the phone was shaking. The blow two months ago didn't digest it so quickly for him. Suddenly hearing this good news, Chris felt that the credibility was still too small.

"If you don't believe our medical team, isn't the money you give us every year for nothing?"

Hawn's test results had never gone wrong, and he was pretty confident in their technology and equipment.

"I can tell you very responsibly that the last test result is invalid, and the latest one shall prevail. So, congratulations, you are going to be a father."

Despite Lavinia's nausea, Chris hugged Lavinia and kissed her. Vivian was in front of them, and they didn't want to avoid it at all.

"Lavinia, I originally wanted you to wait. Now it seems that we don't have to wait anymore. Let's go and ask Mom to agree with us to get the certificate. You are going to be a mother.."

Lavinia was not unsuspecting of her physical abnormality but not thinking about her pregnancy. Now Lavinia stood there as soon as Chris said it.

"Then what should I do? Do you really want to get married?"

With all the children, there seemed to be no other way but to get married.

Abortion? No way, not to mention Chris's disagreement, even Lavinia was unwilling to abort the child again.

The accident of the last child made her scared. The child has just arrived, and she couldn't wait to protect the child with her life.

"Well, but I still have to explain that we didn't get married because of the children, just because I loved you."

Chris didn't want Lavinia to have a psychological burden, thinking he said he was married because of the children. The young couple was still immersed in the joy of being parents. Vivian had taken out her mobile phone and announced this great good news on social media.

Since Lavinia became pregnant, Chris left his job entirely to the exceptional help while accompanying his wife to have a checkup and build a card.

Yes, with Chris's ongoing efforts, Judy finally compromised and agreed to The Konev Family's request.

Judy didn't know what kind of husband her woman had found until she promised. She thought the family conditions were passable until she saw the bride price sent by her in-laws.

On the first day of the wedding, Lavinia stayed with Judy. Then, on the last night at her mother's house, Judy shared a bed with Lavinia.

Mother and daughter who haven't slept together for many years have a lot to say. When they thought that they would get married the next day, and their throats choked up.

Chapter 73 On the Eve of Marriage

Reward
10

Comments
2

18:17

Husband Insane lust

97.1%