

Irresistible 1061

Chapter 1061 Impersonating

Sylvia's POV:

I took the tray from Maya and placed it on the table. "Have you been waiting at the door for a long time? Next time, you can just knock at the door."

"I just arrived." Maya's lips curved up into a gentle smile, just like before.

Rufus nonchalantly sat at the table and sipped on a glass of water without looking at the noodles on the table.

I took Maya's hand and led her to a seat next to me. Pretending to be surprised, I picked up the spoon to eat the soup. "You've made the chicken noodle soup! I haven't eaten this in so long."

Chapter 1062 A Strange Pack

Crystal's POV:

My heart skipped a beat. My eyes widened with surprise. I couldn't believe that something had happened to Rufus.

"What happened? How did you lose contact with him?" I grabbed Laura's hand and asked in a frantic voice.

"I don't exactly know what happened. The news only reported that Rufus is missing and we haven't been able to establish contact with him by any means." Laura's face was drawn. She was so agitated that she didn't know what to do.

I guided her into the palace and said in a soothing voice, "Don't worry. I'll go and get Rufus back."

Chapter 1063 I Want To See Your Alpha

Crystal's POV:

I took a casual walk around the city. As I did, I asked several passersby and found out that none of them knew anything about the arrival of the lycan king.

I headed to the residence of the Alpha, where I came across a male wolf garbed in a soldier's uniform. I stopped him and asked. "Is the Alpha's residence around here?"

"Yes," the soldier answered cautiously as he looked me up and down. "Are you not a naive here?"

Chapter 1064 The Letter Opener

Crystal's POV:

The Alpha of the Cherry Bay Pack was called Sorrell Estrada. He was unable to attend the parade because he was ill, so the Beta of the pack had come in his stead.

Sure enough, Sorrell did appear to be a seriously ill person. His face was as pale as a sheet, and there was barely any color in his lips.

I picked up the tea cup I was served, but did not drink its contents. I sat there, smiling as I spouted halfhearted praises for the development of the Cherry Bay Pack.

Chapter 1065 A Dead Man

Crystal's POV:

"What's the matter?" Sorrell's face remained devoid of any color. Beneath him, his foot was completely impaled by the letter opener, but there was no blood. Not even a single drop.

I said nothing more. I merely took a couple of steps forward and braced myself. When I was sure that he was distracted, I lunged at him.

Chapter 1066 Rufus Was Injured

Crystal's POV:

The vampire moved swiftly and I followed closely behind him. His body slithered as quickly as a black shadow. He briskly entered a forest, rushing into the dense woods.

It was getting darker now, and visibility was dropping. The vampire ran through the trees, and soon disappeared under the cover of the darkness.

Chapter 1067 Falling Off The Cliff

Crystal's POV:

In just a short amount of time, the situation became increasingly grave. Rufus' mobility was severely hampered, while the two vampires who were attacking him were only marginally injured. They not only had extraordinary strength, but also displayed excellent teamwork, as if they had received extended training to fight against Rufus.

Rufus' wounds had seriously affected him, and the bandage wrapped around his chest was now stained with blood. The two vampires seemed to outperform him.

Chapter 1068 Treatment

Crystal's POV:

I looked down the moment I jumped off the cliff and felt somehow relieved. Fortunately, a lake was waiting for us down there. I didn't know how deep it was, but I figured it was better than literally falling into pieces.

I reached out, hoping to grab the corner of Rufus' clothes, but he fell so fast before I even got to prepare myself. I wasn't ready to take the leap. Rufus came into contact with the water with a loud splash and immediately passed out. He was unconscious as he sank.

I took a deep breath. It was now or never. I then landed into the lake as well and felt the water around me move away in a huge splash before engulfing me once again.

Chapter 1069 Crazy In The Cave

Crystal's POV:

After licking, Rufus' wounds showed signs of faster healing; the lesions stopped bleeding and were eventually closing. I rose to get some water, but Rufus, despite being unconscious, managed to slink his hand to my wrist, pulling me back. He muttered something under his breath, and then reached for the back of my head, yanking me for a kiss on the lips.

I was wide-eyed, stunned by what he did. I wondered what was going on.

Rufus' kiss was becoming wilder. His kisses were beginning to asphyxiate me, and I was becoming numb. But he was unyielding.

I groaned and tried to push Rufus away, but he was undeniably much stronger than me. He turned over, and now he was on top of me, pressing me on the ground as he intended to continue kissing me. To my horror, I found that his eyes were open, sternly fixed on me.

Chapter 1070 He Was Blindfolded

Crystal's POV:

Rufus was blindfolded. Although he was only driven by instincts, he still continued filling me to the brim. At this moment, he appeared to be oblivious to the wound on his chest. He grabbed my waist and pinned it firmly, thrusting into my core so wildly.

The intense passion and desire eroded and burned us.

Rufus then gently pressed me under his body, knelt on his knee on the cold ground, and shrugged his buttocks as he moved in and out of my body slowly.
