

Irresistible 1151

Chapter 1151 A Moment Of Solace

Lucy's POV:

Wrapped in a blanket, I sat on the balcony and watched the snow fall from the sky as night fell. My thoughts were all over the place.

It was yet another winter without Kyle by my side.

When springtime arrived and the air warmed up, I wondered if I would finally feel better.

With that, I straightened up and drank some wine. I had to think on my feet. Apparently, Rufus had called a doctor urgently earlier, but after that, nothing else happened. I thought that Beryl should have survived.

Chapter 1152 Better Lovers

Lucy's POV:

My ears had always been one of my most sensitive spots. The warmth of Rosa's tongue traveled all the way down to my chest, and I sighed in contentment as the rest of my body turned soft.

"Relax, honey," she murmured in my ear as she licked her way to my brows.

When the tip of her tongue grazed the hideous scar on my face, I shivered. I couldn't help feeling repulsed with myself. Every time Rosa kissed my scar, I always feared that she would recoil in fright and disgust.

Chapter 1153 No Mask On

Lucy's POV:

I didn't expect Crystal to show up at this time!

So I rushed to put on my clothes, feeling embarrassed. Rosa was calmer than I was. As if nothing had happened, she even helped me fix my hair and then sprung from bed.

I glared at Crystal while she eyed me and Rosa in surprise.

"What are you doing here?" I asked Crystal directly. She really thought this was a place where people could just walk in easily. Obviously, she didn't take me seriously at all!

Crystal sneered, "Didn't expect to catch you in such a mood."

Chapter 1154 Forsaken Lover

Crystal's POV:

Panic flashed across Lucy's face, but it was gone in the next second. She stared at me and moved her lips, though no word came out of her mouth.

For a brief moment, I thought she had forgotten to speak altogether.

She was just as foolish as they came, but she had developed a penchant for playing tricks.

Chapter 1155 Kill Her

Crystal's POV:

The brown-haired she-wolf stopped struggling and stared at Lucy blankly. It seemed that she also knew what Lucy meant.

"Crystal, I really don't know where your son is. There must be some misunderstanding. Why would I take your son? I have a son myself. I know how important a child is to their mother." Lucy looked at me and started sobbing. She looked pathetic and repulsive as tears poured down her jutting features.

If she had even a shred of decency, she would not have said that.

Chapter 1156 Watch Her Die

Crystal's POV:

Lucy choked on the water. She coughed and hacked as she struggled.

When she was about to suffocate, I grabbed her hair and yanked her out of the water. "You're still not gonna tell me where my son is?"

Lucy coughed for several times. Her eyes were half closed, and her hair was dripping and clinging to her cheeks. But even the feeling of death did not soften Lucy at all. She still refused to tell me where my son was. "I don't know what you are talking about. If you want to kill me, just do it."

Furious, I said coldly, "Aren't you afraid of death?"

Chapter 1157 The Groom Confessed

Crystal's POV:

Half of Lucy's body lay in the bathtub. She moved faintly and was about to die.

As I observed the situation numbly, I inwardly screamed that I would kill her. Just then, a vision of my son's cold body flashed in front of my eyes again.

I couldn't help shuddering violently. My teeth chattered and I almost went insane.

Chapter 1158 Arron Is With The Trafficker

Crystal's POV:

I got in Rufus' car and it drove slowly away from the imperial palace. I felt strange and uneasy, so I frequently turned my head to look at Rufus who was resting with his eyes closed.

Rufus seemed to have noticed my gaze, so he rubbed my hair. He had behaved intimately towards me like this more than once in the past two days.

There were questions on my mind, but I kept quiet. The thought of my son sprang to mind.

Chapter 1159 We Can't Tell You That

Crystal's POV:

The car pulled up in front of a suburban factory building that was three stories tall. Several iron pails and abandoned cars littered on the open ground. There were no other buildings around, only mountains and woods. The mountain road leading here was narrow and steep, making it difficult for others to find.

My heart twitched. Without Rufus, I couldn't imagine what would have happened.

Chapter 1160 You Can't Defeat Them

Crystal's POV:

The she-wolf's words stunned me. As I looked around the other human traffickers, I witnessed how their faces softened with a hint of sadness.

"It's not that we don't want to tell you, but that we can't. At this point, we have no other choice. We only wish to die if doing so will ensure the protection of our loved ones, especially our children." As the she-wolf spoke, tears slowly trickled down her face while her eyes were filled with exhaustion and despair.