

It's Too Late To Get A Divorce by Coreal White Chapter 104

Chapter 104

Alita also returned to her room and took a shower, getting rid of the smell that Jaydon left on her.

She was shocked when she came out of the room and saw the man leaning against her bed. Then, she scolded angrily, "Jaydon, are you crazy? Who allowed you to enter my room? Get out immediately."

She held the towel on her body tightly, afraid that Jaydon, the big bad wolf, would pounce on her again.

Jaydon turned around and looked at her. He raised the camera in his hand and smiled leisurely. "I'm here to see how our photo is."

"Just put the camera down because it's Karen's. I need to return it to her later," Alita said anxiously as she stared at the camera Jaydon was holding, not knowing what he was up to. www.n0veL@ORtm.com

"Don't be nervous. I'm just taking a look." Jaydon smiled casually and pointed the camera at her. "Come. Let me take a photo of beautiful Miss Thompson coming out of the shower."

"You are insane. Stop filming." Alita frowned and glared at him.

With a click, Jaydon pressed the shutter. "You have a good figure and perfect skin, but your expression doesn't look too good. Smile. Don't keep pulling a long face."

"Can you stop being so childish? Put down the camera and get out!" Alita clenched her fists. She was furious, but there was nothing she could do.

"You want the camera? Here." Jaydon handed the camera forward and said, "Come and get it yourself."

'Does he think I'm stupid? When I walk over, he will take the opportunity to grab me. Does he think I don't know his little trick?' Alita thought to herself.

"Put it on the bed and get out," Alita said coldly.

Jaydon picked up the camera, lifted the cover at the back, and took the memory card inside.

"You... What are you doing?" Alita asked.

"I think the photo is not bad. I plan to save it on my phone and send it to all my friends. That's a good idea, isn't it?" Looking at Alita's frightened expression, Jaydon smiled especially brightly.

Alita's face instantly turned pale. "Put it back, Jaydon. Do you hear me?"

"No!" Jaydon smiled evilly. He placed the memory card in the side pocket of his jacket, placed the camera on the bed, and got up to leave.

Alita was anxious. She could not let him take the memory card away, so she pounced on him. Once the photo was released, she wouldn't have a peaceful day.

"Well," Jaydon grunted. "Miss Thompson, you pounced on me so hurriedly and touched me, making me at a loss what to do. I'm not a holy man Ww@.fo\(v\)ELw@rm.comELw@rm.com) desires."

Alita stopped. Seeing her current posture, she realized how bold she was. She paused for a moment and continued to search. She could not care about that now.

There was nothing in his pocket. That was weird because she had seen him put it there.

"Are you sure I put it in my pocket? Let me tell you secretly. I moved it." Jaydon lay there leisurely. Ww.N0\(v\)ELWorm.COMELWorm.COM)

"Bastard, where's the memory card?" Alita grabbed his collar and asked anxiously.

"It's down there. Go and get it if you dare," Jaydon said with a smile.

Alita was stunned for a moment. She blushed and scolded, "Despicable."

"Take out the card!" Alita grabbed his neck and roared.

"No." Jaydon shook his head firmly.

"Are you going to take it out or not? If not, I'm going to strangle you to death." Alita was furious.

"I'm not taking it. I have told you where it is. Go and get it yourself if you can. Also, if you're like this now, I can sue you for harassment," Jaydon said.

Alita held her breath and stared at his smug face. She let go of his neck and said, "Alright, I'll take it then. Do you think I'm afraid?"

There was a long confrontation between them... At around 10 pm, Alita's stomach growled.

She quietly went downstairs and remembered that there were still some ingredients in the kitchen. She cooked some food for herself and sat at the table outside to eat slowly.

"You are finally hungry," Jaydon said.

Alita didn't even look up. "Mr. Lewis, I've thought about it. I'm not doing your business anymore. I've calculated. The losses are too great. It's not worth it."

"But you're already involved in it. If you break the contract now, won't your losses be even greater? At that time, the company will fall apart." Jaydon had expected her to fall out with him.

"Whatever. Anyway, you won't let me go. At most, I won't gamble anymore. If you want to destroy the company I've worked so hard to build, do it. I won't play with you anymore." Alita's emotions were a little out of control. She threw her fork on the table and stood up to leave.

Jaydon stood up and stopped her. "Don't be angry, okay?"

Alita pushed him away and said, "Do you think I'm a three-year-old girl? Do you think you can coax me with several words after slapping me? Do you have any idea how many people you'll hurt because you do whatever you want? I'm not angry. I hate. I hate you for messing around with me. Can't you let me live well? I don't have high expectations. I only want a life without you, Jaydon."

Her heart ached. She took a few steps forward, but he grabbed her again.

"You only want a life without me, right?" Jaydon looked at her in pain. He said, "But Alita, I can't do without you because I must hate you every minute. I won't let you have an easy time. I won't let you off. Don't even think about escaping. I'll come after you even if you escape to hell."

"Go ahead if you want to. You're such a person anyway. Jaydon Lewis will always be selfish and vicious. I've lived with you for 14 years. I understand your nature better than anyone else. I'll get rid of you and stay far away from you." Alita shook off his hand and walked forward quickly.

Jaydon's heart suddenly ached so much that he felt suffocated. His green eyes were deep and dark. He turned around and strode over, pulling Alita, who had already walked to the pool.

"Let go." Alita shook his hand. She accidentally missed her left footing and fell into the pool. Jaydon still held her wrist, so he fell into the pool with her because of the gravity.

But even when they were in the water, he still refused to let go of her.

"Jaydon, you scoundrel." Alita took two sips of water. Her nose was so sour that her eyes were about to fall out.

She watched as he became so cruel because of his anger. She slowly calmed down, stretched out her cold fingers from the water, and caressed his face. She smiled numbly. "Jaydon, you know what? There were many opportunities for you to let me belong to you, but you hurt my heart and pushed me into the abyss of desperation. Over and over again. Until the day of the divorce. I finally gave up. We've already tortured each other for too long. I've been happy this year. Let me go like this. I'll let you torture. me in my next life. But please let me live quietly in this life, okay?"

"No, I won't. You're happy, but I'm not. You've been in my heart for 14 years. I'm already used to it, so I won't let you leave." Jaydon hugged her and leaned against her stubbornly and weakly. He muttered, "Honey, I miss you. I miss you and hate you every day and night. Tell me, what should I do?"

Alita's heart softened and ached even more. She wanted to ask if he loved her for real. But what was the point now? "Jaydon, forget about me. Even if you realize that you love me after the divorce, it's useless. Marry Evelyn and live your life. Let's give each other our blessings and slowly forget each other."
