Chapter 1201

In Berlin in winter, the temperature is usually below zero. However, compared with the cold Russia, it is much warmer here. People in the city are in a hurry.

The war has broken out for three months, but it has not had much impact on ordinary people in Germany. Their lives are still going on in an orderly manner. However, with a large number of young men enlisted in the army, the number of young men that can be seen in the country has been greatly reduced. Many factories can only expand the scale of female workers to ensure production efficiency.

The current Germany is not the Germany in the last world war. During the last world war, Germany was blocked at the beginning of the war, and only the materials stored before the war could be used. Therefore, we had to control the living materials as a last resort. Although it didn't take long, after the German navy defeated the British navy, Germany's overseas trade lines were re-established. But it still left a deep impression on the people.

But this time, Germany seems to be in a much better position. Germany is now the world hegemon. The whole of Europe, Africa and most of Asia are under the rule of Germany. The powerful German navy patrols the world's major oceans, ensuring that Germany can obtain all the supplies it needs from its vast colonies. Therefore, even if the war broke out, the supply of materials in Germany did not become tense, but the price of goods rose slightly.

Of course, this is only temporary. Now Germany, or the Allied Powers, are only at war with the Burus family. Once the scale of the war expands and more and more countries participate, the pressure on Germany will also increase. At that time, perhaps even Germany's powerful navy will not be able to fully ensure the safety of maritime trade lines. In that case, it will be very difficult for Germany to obtain enough supplies.

Therefore, before the outbreak of the war, Germany did not stop storing various war materials. In the case that these war materials can not be used, these materials should not be used as much as possible, and these materials should be used as much as possible at the last critical moment. Emperor Qin Tian knew very well that this world war would probably last longer than the last one. If Germany wants to win this world war, I am afraid it will pay a higher price. Therefore, if Germany wants to win this world war, it must plan carefully, and there is no room for sloppy.

The other important ministers in Germany, under the subtle influence of Qin Tian, also attached great importance to this world war. They know the importance of this war to Germany and the entire people. Once it fails, Germany's long-term preparations will be in vain. You don't need to think about it. After other countries defeat Germany, they will definitely perish. Therefore, no matter how high the price is, they must win this war.

The people of Germany, most of them support this war. Although they all know that where there is war, there will be death. Perhaps their father, brother, son or other relatives and friends will lose their lives in the war. But for the benefit of the country and the nation, they all think that this should be done. The life of the German people is much better now than it was more than 20 years ago. After Germany became the hegemon of the world and owned the most extensive and rich colonies in the world, it used the wealth obtained from these colonies to increase the construction of public infrastructure and social welfare, and greatly improved the welfare of the people. It is precisely because of this that the German people also cherish their current life very much. They all know that if Germany is defeated in the war, the good days they have now will leave them.

What's more, Germany's declaration of war against Russia this time was completely forced. Who dared Bu Russia to invade the German protectorate? As Germany became the hegemon of the world, the self-esteem and self-confidence of the German people continued to expand. Bu Russia's invasion of the Ukrainian Kingdom is simply slapping all the Germans in the face, which naturally cannot be accepted by them. Even if it is at the cost of their lives, the Russians must pay a heavy price for it. In addition, Qin Tian, the emperor of the empire, already existed like a **** in the hearts of the people. His will, the people of the empire will naturally implement it unconditionally.

It is precisely because of the combination of these reasons that the German people support this war so much.

Fortunately, the performance of the German army on the battlefield did not disappoint them. Less than three months after the war broke out, the German army had already wiped out more than three million Russian troops on the Russian battlefield. And also wiped out the Russian Navy and severely damaged the Russian Air Force. Such a victory made all Germans cheer for it. In their view, Bu Russia must have been severely damaged after losing so many troops. Then, it seems that it is not very far away from Germany's complete defeat of Bu Russia.

Although there are many enemies in Germany, the German people still believe that under the leadership of the great German Emperor, Germany will be able to defeat these enemies one after another. The final victory must also belong to the German Empire.

In the square outside the German Imperial Palace, people spontaneously celebrate the victory of the German army almost every day. The Supreme Command of the German Empire will report the victory of the German army on the frontline battlefield to all the people of the empire through television and radio, let them know that the German army is winning step by step on the battlefield, and will do everything possible to win this war full strength.

On the morning of January 2, 1940, tens of thousands of people were celebrating the German protectorate on the square in front of the Imperial Palace. The Polish and Belarusian troops defeated the Russian winter offensive on the front line and wiped out more than half a million Russian troops.

Of course, the specific numbers are exaggerated a lot, but it makes the German hit cheer for it.

"Long live the German Empire! Well done to the Kingdom of Poland and the Kingdom of Belarus!"

Such slogans and cheers resounded throughout the square.

Many German people did not expect the Polish Army and the Belarusian Army to perform so well on the battlefield, which made them even more optimistic about this war. After all, even the protectorate of Germany is so capable of fighting, let alone the German army known as the world's number one. In such a guilty situation, what can the Russians use to resist the army of Germany and the entire Allied Powers. The German people are even optimistic that perhaps in 1940, Germany will be able to completely defeat Russia and end the war on the European battlefield.

Chapter 1202

"Your Majesty, this place is too dangerous, please leave!" Qin Tian's bodyguard, Major General Xi Mengde, looked worried.

Qin Tian nodded without being stubborn, and left the office window.

Major General Shimonde, the head of the guard, hastily lowered the curtains.

Although, the defense of the Imperial Palace and even the entire Berlin has risen several levels after the outbreak of the war, ensuring the safety of the imperial emperor Qin Tian. Although the commanding heights around the palace are already under the control of the imperial guards. There are also a large number of security forces and agents in Berlin, searching for any traces of potential enemies.

However, no amount of caution can be overstated at this critical moment.

Everyone knows Qin Tian's position in the German Empire. Even the prince Friedrich is almost 29 years old, and he has begun to learn to handle the government affairs of the empire. However, no matter in terms of ability or reputation, Friedrich obviously cannot compare with Qin Tian. Therefore, Qin Tian is still an indispensable leader of the German Empire. If there is something wrong with him, it will be a fatal blow to Germany and even the ongoing war.

Perhaps it is precisely because of this reason that Germany's hostile countries are trying to assassinate Qin Tian. Even in the palace, it has been attacked many times. Qin Tian's office was often threatened by sniper rifles. Especially after Bu Russia suffered heavy losses on the battlefield, Joseph even asked Bu Russia's NKVD to dispatch agents to assassinate Qin Tian. In Joseph's view, if Qin Tian could be killed, perhaps the crisis in Bu'e could be resolved.

It's just that, as the emperor of the world, if he was so easy to assassinate, he probably would have died countless times. Bu Russia's intelligence organization in Germany has organized no less than ten assassinations of Qin Tian. However, in the end, it still failed to succeed. On the contrary, many elite Russian agents were wiped out. The intelligence network that Bu Russia spent many years building in Russia was also under the attack of the German security agencies, and it fell apart. Although it wasn't completely destroyed, it was in a mess and couldn't play much role.

"Have the ministers arrived?" Leaving the window, although Qin Tian felt a little regretful, he knew that Major General Xi Mengde was doing it for his own good.

"It's already here, and His Royal Highness the Crown Prince has also arrived." Major General Xi Mengde replied.

Qin Tian nodded, then left the office and went to the conference room.

Although, it is winter now, and the weather is very cold. However, although Germany's large-scale military operations have stopped, it does not mean that Germany's strikes against Bu Russia have also stopped. Because of the weather, the ground troops could not be dispatched. However, other troops will not miss this good opportunity. The German High Command also hopes to take advantage of this opportunity to further damage the war potential of Bu Russia and prepare for the coming spring. After all, the German military also regards 1940 as the most critical year.

When Qin Tian entered the meeting room, the military and political ministers of the empire stood up to say hello.

"Everyone, please sit down!" Qin Tian glanced at everyone and took his seat.

After Qin Tian took his seat, the others sat down. The imperial crown prince Friedrich sat next to Qin Tian, and on both sides of the long table were the imperial military and the ministers of the cabinet.

"Everyone, it's a pity that the Russian winter offensive is over. We only wiped out hundreds of thousands of Russians, far from our expected goal. It seems that Joseph and other Russian generals also You're not a fool!" Qin Tian looked regretful. Originally, he thought that at least he could take this opportunity to solve the problem of millions of Russian troops. But now it seems that he is still too optimistic.

"Yes, Your Majesty. According to what we have learned, Zhukov, who was in charge of commanding this winter offensive, persuaded Joseph to give up the winter offensive under tremendous pressure." Chief of the General Staff Marshal Manstein said.

Qin Tian nodded, he knew that Zhukov was the most famous commander of the Russian army in another time and space. Even gold will always shine, and in this time and space, Zhukov's performance seems to be also very good. Moreover, it also received Joseph's attention. If it were an ordinary person, I'm afraid they wouldn't have the courage to persuade Joseph at all. Qin Tian knew that Joseph's temper was not very good.

"Zhukov is a very talented person, we must pay more attention to him. If possible, we should try to eliminate him on the battlefield, life or death!" Qin Tian said.

"Yes, Your Majesty." Marshal Manstein nodded solemnly. Seeing that Qin Tian valued Zhukov so much, he also knew that Zhukov was indeed a talented person. However, he is an enemy of Germany. If he is allowed to live, it will be a huge threat to Germany.

"Everyone, it has been almost three months since the war broke out. I don't deny that we have achieved great success during these three months. The total number of Russian troops wiped out is three million. At the same time It also eliminated the Russian Navy and severely damaged the Russian Air Force. But, don't be complacent about it. You are different from ordinary German people. You should know how powerful the enemy of the Empire is this time. Even with the Empire's Military strength, if you are not careful, you will still fail!" Qin Tian said solemnly.

Qin Tian doesn't want the generals of the empire to get carried away by the time the war is fought. In that case, it may not be easy for Germany to win this war. He doesn't want Germany to fail in future wars because of this reason.

"Yes, Your Majesty!" Everyone replied.

"Gentlemen, although we have wiped out 3 million Russian troops. However, according to the information we have, if Russia carries out extreme mobilization, they can still arm 12 million people. Therefore, we still need to continue to attack , to attack them, eliminate the Russians' vitality and war potential, and prepare for their complete defeat." Qin Tian said.

"Your Majesty, when spring comes, our large-scale offensive will begin. If all goes well, it will be enough to eliminate the six million Russian troops this year and wipe out their main force in one fell swoop!" Marshal Manstein continued.

"Don't forget, the islanders and the Americans are still eyeing us. Moreover, the islanders will probably go to war with us soon. Even if the islanders are unwilling to go to war so early, the Americans will not let them continue to wait. It's gone." Qin Tian reminded.

Chapter 1203

There are four main enemies of Germany in this war, namely Bu Russia, the United States, the island country and the United Kingdom. Among them, the United States is undoubtedly the most powerful, and it is also the main enemy competing with Germany for world hegemony. It has always been regarded as the most important opponent by the emperor Qin Tian. Only by defeating the United States can Germany's hegemony remain stable.

And Bu Russia is undoubtedly ranked after the United States. However, Bu Russia's geographical location is close to Germany, the extreme mobilization can reach a huge military strength of 15 million troops, and the vast depth of the country makes Bu Russia also an extremely difficult country to deal with. If Germany wants to defeat Bu Russia, it also needs to do its best and invest a lot of power. Otherwise, it would not be easy for Germany to defeat a big country like Bu Russia. In another time and space, isn't the German state of the head of state just because of being deeply trapped in the Russian battlefield, which eventually led to the collapse of the mighty empire? Therefore, Qin Tian will not make the same mistake as the head of state this time. In the case that Germany has the most powerful navy in the world, as long as the navy is not defeated, the security of Germany will not be greatly affected. In this way, Germany can have enough time to give priority to the destruction of Bu Russia. After the destruction of Bu Russia, Germany was able to mobilize its troops to deal with other countries.

Compared with Bu Russia, the overall strength of the island country is undoubtedly slightly weaker. However, the island country now has a population of 70 to 80 million, so that if they carry out extreme mobilization, they can arm more than 6 million troops. In addition, the islanders have always been fierce in war, and their fighting will is tenacious. This time, it has received the power support of the United States, making the military strength of the island country even stronger. Therefore, the threat of the island nation should not be underestimated either. When Germany is doing its best to defeat Bu Russia, the island countries will inevitably launch attacks on Germany's colonies in the South China Sea and the Pacific Ocean. The strategy of the German Supreme Command is still to use a small number of troops to cooperate with the navy and air force to deal with the island countries in the South China Sea and the Pacific Ocean. Even if some colonies are lost, I don't care. As long as it can be delayed for a longer time until Germany defeats Bu Russia, it will be able to free up its hands to deal with them.

As for Britain, the world hegemon before the last world war. Although there is still some background, it is far from being comparable to that before the last world war. The current British government is just huddled in Canada, lingering under the protection of the Americans. Even so, they have to share their achievements in scientific research with the United States in exchange for protection from the United States. In terms of military strength, the British Army can arm more than one million people at most, and the strength of the British Navy and Air Force is not strong. It can be said that among the many powerful countries, Britain has completely declined. Unless this time the anti-German alliance can win, defeat Germany, and let the British regain their homeland. In this case, with the help of tens of millions of native citizens and some colonies that may be recovered, Britain may have a chance to rise again. But even in that case, I am afraid that they will miss the world hegemony. Of course, that would be much better than the current situation in the UK.

"Your Majesty, according to the information we have obtained, the island nation's military mobilization has indeed begun. A large number of young men are being recruited into the army, and divisions have been established one by one. Their naval ships are also undergoing maintenance, according to the progress It will be completed soon. We all think that this may be a harbinger of the island nation's participation in the war!" Marshal Manstein said.

Qin Tian nodded: "Bu Russia is being beaten so badly by us now, the Americans are hiding behind and are unwilling to participate in the war first. Then, they can only order other countries. Island countries have always been supported by the United States, has become a dog raised by the Americans. Under such circumstances, of course they have to follow the instructions of the Americans and start a war against us. However, are we ready in Southeast Asia, Australia and the Pacific Ocean?"

"Your Majesty, the four armies of the Imperial Army are ready. We have deployed heavy troops in Southeast Asia and Australia. We have also recruited local aborigines and formed a group of colonial troops. Even if they are attacked by heavy troops from island countries, they can still It will last for a long time. At least with the support of the navy and air force, we can hold on to some strategic locations until the victory is determined on the Russian battlefield!" Marshal Manstein said.

"The Pacific Fleet and the Indian Ocean Fleet, are you ready for war? If you can severely damage the navy of the island country, or defeat them, then the navy of the island country will not dare to act rashly." Qin Tian said.

"Your Majesty, both the Pacific Fleet and the Indian Ocean Fleet are ready for battle. The Pacific Fleet has now left its home port and is heading for Australia. Once the war starts, they will cooperate with the Pacific Fleet to fight. Looking for fighters in the Pacific to defeat the island navy's plan Opportunity. The navy will do its best to defeat the navy of the island country. Even if the navy of the island country is very powerful, if the Pacific Fleet and the Indian Ocean Fleet join forces, they will still be no weaker than them. We will still have a great chance of winning!" Secretary of the Navy Raeder said the Marshal.

Qin Tian nodded, although the German Navy still has a strategic reserve force, that is, the Mediterranean Fleet that can be sent to fight in the Pacific Ocean. However, now is not the time. The powerful U.S. navy is almost all assembled in the Atlantic Ocean, which puts tremendous pressure on the German home fleet and the Atlantic Fleet. If the Mediterranean Fleet goes to the Pacific Ocean, it will definitely reassure the US Navy a lot. Although, the German Navy's home fleet plus the Atlantic Fleet, several "Lord-class" aircraft carriers that have already been built, also have the strength to fight the US Navy. But overall, the risks are high. The security of the Atlantic Ocean, at least the control of the Eastern Atlantic Ocean, is very important to Germany. Only by mastering the command of the sea here can the security of Germany and even Europe as a whole be ensured. Therefore, there is absolutely no problem here. Therefore, as a reserve, the Mediterranean Fleet cannot be easily transferred unless it is absolutely necessary.

Qin Tian only hopes that the Pacific Fleet and the Indian Ocean Fleet can display sufficient combat effectiveness this time. In this case, it may be possible to succeed. After all, the four "Constellationclass" aircraft carriers of the Pacific Fleet are not weak, and the "William the Great-class" aircraft carriers of the Indian Ocean Fleet are no worse than the aircraft carriers of the island navy. In terms of the number of aircraft carried by the aircraft carrier and the performance of the carrier-based aircraft, the German Navy has an advantage. Therefore, the German Navy's Pacific Fleet and Indian Ocean Fleet may not have no chance of winning.

Chapter 1204

"The two aviation clusters deployed by the Imperial Air Force in Nanyang and Australia must also be prepared for combat. Although the aviation power of the island country is not weak, but the representative ones are only Type Zero carrier-based fighter jets. Our BF-109 The fighter jets, as well as the carrier-based BF-109 fighters, are no worse than the Type Zero carrier-based fighters, let alone the more powerful FW-190 fighter jets. Moreover, our engineers have found a way to deal with the Type Zero carrier-based fighters. There is a solution. I believe that our pilots can deal with this kind of fighter with super low-altitude dogfighting performance. This will give us a great advantage when dealing with the carrier-based aircraft forces of the island navy!" Qin God said.

The island nation's most famous fighter in World War II was undoubtedly the Type Zero carrier-based fighter. Although this kind of fighter is not very fast, it has excellent low-altitude dogfighting performance and has a very long range. This made them beat the American F4F fighter jets into dogs in the early days of the Pacific War in World War II in another time and space. So much so that many pilots of the U.S. Naval Air Force dare not take off to fight again. This situation was not changed until the F4U fighter jets entered service and the Americans also found a way to deal with the Zero-type carrier-based fighter jets.

The advantages of Zero fighters are mainly in low-altitude dogfighting. They are easy to deal with as long as you don't engage in dogfights with them. For example, the most classic tactic against Zero fighters is undoubtedly to use speed and climb advantages to conduct dive attacks from high altitude. After completing an attack, use the advantages of speed and climb to get rid of the pursuit of Zero fighter jets, and continue to dive and attack after reaching high altitude. If the Zero fighters keep chasing, their body structure is not strong enough, which will cause them to fall apart. After all, in order to achieve ultra-long range, the Zero fighter is as light as possible in terms of materials, so that its strength is not strong. This makes the Zero fighter very likely to disintegrate in the air if it dives too fast. And, once hit, it is likely to be destroyed. Unlike the German fighter planes, a certain amount of armor is installed on key parts to resist low-intensity attacks. Of course, these defects of the Zero fighter are due to the insufficient engine performance of the island country. Otherwise, these deficiencies are fixable.

For example, the engine used by the Zero fighter is only 950 horsepower, while the engine of the FW-190 fighter is as high as 1550 horsepower, and the engine of the BF-109 fighter is also as high as 1100 horsepower. The carrier-based fighter needs to further improve the structural strength of the airframe, so it needs a more powerful engine so that the fighter can have a greater speed.

Almost all American fighter planes are equipped with powerful engines. They even believe that as long as the power is strong, even a brick can fly into the sky. This can be seen from the appearance of the U.S. fighter jets, and they have taken this point of view to the extreme.

"Yes, Your Majesty. The 5th Aviation Group and the 6th Aviation Group of the Imperial Air Force are ready to fight! Once the islanders really dare to attack us, we will make them pay an unbearable price!" Al Field Marshal Bert Kesselring said.

Qin Tian nodded. After he became the German emperor, or before he became the German crown prince, he paid special attention to the development of the air force. This has enabled the German Air Force to be equipped with so many advanced fighters, and it is also completely at the leading level in the world.

"By the way, Marshal Kesselring, how is the preparation for the strategic bombing of Russia?" Qin Tian asked.

To defeat Russia, it is not only necessary to destroy their army on the battlefield, but also to destroy their industrial production capacity. Especially military production. If the capabilities of Bu Russia can be destroyed, it will be relatively easier for Germany to defeat Bu Russia. After all, without enough weapons and equipment, should those Russian soldiers be allowed to deal with the German army with bare hands? In that case, I am afraid that it will only be crushed by the German army. Therefore, Qin Tian has always attached great importance to the development of the strategic air force.

"Your Majesty, after several months of preparation, we are almost ready to launch a strategic bombing campaign against Russia. We have built a large number of airfields in Poland, Belarus, and Ukraine where strategic bombers can take off. Now, those airfields are ready for use Yes. In terms of long-range fighter jets, BF-110 fighter jets have also accumulated enough numbers to provide **** for our strategic bombers." Marshal Albert Kesselring said.

Before, the Luftwaffe did not have enough strategic bombers and at the same time did not have enough long-range fighters. In addition, related supporting facilities such as the airport are not yet ready. This has delayed the German Air Force's strategic bombing of Russia.

Qin Tian nodded: "When can the strategic bombing start? How big a scale can we deploy to bomb Russia?"

"Your Majesty, we will be ready within a week at the latest. This time, we will dispatch 1,200 long-range strategic bombers to carry out strategic bombing against Bu Russia. Among them, 900 H-11 heavy long-range bombers and 300 H- 21 heavy long-range bombers." Marshal Albert Kesselring said.

"It seems that we still don't have enough long-range strategic bombers!" Qin Tian said.

"Your Majesty, the current Strategic Air Force has only 1,200 H-11 heavy long-range bombers and 300 H- 21 heavy long-range bombers. The production of H-11 heavy long-range bombers has been discontinued, and the production of H-21 long-range bombers is now in progress. The production is expected to reach one hundred per month. In addition, the more advanced H-31 heavy long-range bomber is also under development. It is expected to be mass-produced in the next year at the latest." Marshal Albert Kesselring replied .

Although the cost of a heavy long-range bomber is very high, this kind of bomber has a long range and a large ammunition load, making it an indispensable main force for strategic bombing. Therefore, Germany is still desperately manufacturing this huge weapon of war.

"The scale of our heavy strategic bombers must be guaranteed to be at least 3,000. Only in this way can it be barely enough." Qin Tian said.

"Yes, Your Majesty!" Marshal Albert Kesselring nodded.

If the number requested by Qin Tian is to be reached, the Luftwaffe will need to further purchase more heavy long-range bombers. Based on the current gap, it will take one year and three months to satisfy the loss. If the losses during the war are deducted, then Germany needs to produce more heavy long-range bombers. To solve this problem, Marshal Albert Kesselring knew that he must find a way to further increase the production of heavy long-range bombers.

Chapter 1205

"Marshal Albert Kesselring, I authorize the Imperial Air Force to, from the beginning of the war, seize the time and seize every opportunity to carry out strategic bombing of Bu Russia. We will bomb Russia's big cities, industrial bases, important transportation nodes and Blow up all the railway lines! Let Bu Russia lose its ability to manufacture weapons and equipment and develop industries! Let them no longer have the strength to fight us in this war. In this way, let us be able to fight before next winter at the latest , Completely destroy Bu'e!" Qin Tian said.

"Yes, Your Majesty!" Marshal Albert Kesselring replied excitedly. Although, he knew that with the current strength of the Imperial Air Force, especially the strength of the strategic air force, it was still very difficult to realize Qin Tian's request. However, from Qin Tian's order, he could feel Qin Tian's importance and support for the strategic air force. He firmly believed that as the strategic power of the Luftwaffe grew stronger, they would soon have enough strength to fulfill Qin Tian's request.

After Qin Tian's order was issued, the strategic forces of the Luftwaffe immediately began to operate. A series of long-range fighter jets and heavy bombers moved to airports in Belarus and Ukraine. Next, strikes against important cities in Bu Russia will mainly take off from these airports. As the German army further advanced to the depths of Bu Russia, the take-off airport of the strategic air force could also further advance to the hinterland of Bu Russia. That way, they'll be able to drop bombs further afield. After all, in order to guard against German bombing, Bu Russia has long planned to move many important factories to the vicinity of the Ural Mountains and even the West Siberia Plain.

It's just that what the Russian government doesn't know is that the locations of these factories have been leaked a long time ago, and they have been targeted by the Luftwaffe. In the next strategic strike, the Luftwaffe will gradually destroy all these important factories in Russia to further attack the war potential of Russia.

The German Air Force Command set up a strategic strike office, with the new Air Force Marshal Edward Milch as the commander, responsible for formulating a strategic strike plan against Russia.

After the imperial meeting, Marshal Albert Kesselring made a special trip to the Strategic Strike Office to discuss with Marshal Edward Milch a strategic strike plan against Russia.

"Marshal Milch, His Majesty has issued an order to launch a strategic strike against Bu Russia in a week. This will be an excellent opportunity for the Imperial Air Force to prove our capabilities. I hope that we will be able to In the strategic attack, everyone will be impressed!" said Marshal Albert Kesselring.

The German Air Force was established the latest, and the record it has achieved is currently no other record except for the air strikes against the Russian Air Force at the beginning of the war. This makes the status of the Luftwaffe controversial. In particular, the construction of a huge strategic strike force requires a large amount of military expenditure. Some people in the army and navy have long said something about this. Even with the support of Emperor Qin Tian, those discussions were all suppressed. But the Luftwaffe is also holding back their energy. They need to use the results to prove to everyone that they are not wasting money. In the war, they can also show great strength, which can give Germany a greater advantage in the war, and even win the war in advance.

Marshal Edward Milch nodded: "Your Excellency, a week of preparation time is enough. The only thing to worry about is probably being intercepted by the Russians. Although the Russian Air Force was hit hard by us before, it took only a few months. , regained a lot of strength. Although the performance of the Russian Air Force's I-16 combat and I-15 fighters is still not enough, they have obtained a batch of P-40 fighters from the Americans. Although the performance of these fighters is still It's bad, but it will also pose a considerable threat to our bombers. Moreover, the number of our **** fighter jets is still not enough."

The German Air Force's long-range fighter is specially used to **** heavy long-range bombers, numbered BF-110 fighter. However, unlike the twin-engine BF-110 fighter jets of the head of state in another time and space, the BF-110 fighter jets of the Luftwaffe in this time and space are single-engine fighters, and they use powerful fighter jets with a power of 1,600 horsepower. . In addition, a large amount of aviation aluminum is used on the fighter plane to reduce the weight of the fighter plane and ensure that it can carry a large amount of aviation fuel to further increase the range. At the same time, the speed of the fighter jet has reached 720 kilometers per hour, which is faster than the BF-109 fighter jet. Climb rate and dive performance are also outstanding. Although in terms of combat effectiveness, it cannot be compared with the FW-190 fighter. But the combat performance is still very powerful. At least, from the current point of view, no country's fighter jets can confront it, except for Germany's own fighter jets. Because of the use of a large number of new materials, the cost of the BF-110 fighter is very high, even more expensive than the FW-190 fighter. But it is precisely because of this that the maximum range of the BF-110 fighter jet can reach 2,800 kilometers (carrying auxiliary fuel tanks). Of course, although it is not as good as the Zero fighter's perverted 3,300 kilometers, it is already a little better than the P-51 fighter. For the German Air Force, this range is barely enough. As long as it takes off from the front-line airport, it is completely possible to **** the H-11 bombers and H-21 bombers taking off from the rear airport.

With the advancement of technology, the range of Germany's long-range fighters will definitely be further improved. At that time, it will almost be able to provide full **** for heavy bombers.

Now the Luftwaffe only has 600 BF-110 fighter jets in total. This is only made up by working overtime and occupying part of the productivity of the FW-190 fighter jets.

"I will greet the aircraft factory and let them further increase the production of BF-110 fighters. If we wait a few more months, we will not lack long-range fighters. In addition, after spring comes, the Army will Launch a large-scale offensive. Tactical fighter jets will also be dispatched with all their strength to compete for air supremacy. At that time, the Russian air force will definitely suffer further heavy losses. When we carry out strategic bombing, the threat we encounter will be much smaller. "Marshal Albert Kesselring said.

Marshal Edward Milch nodded. Although the current **** force is somewhat insufficient, the heavy bomber not only has a solid body structure, but is also equipped with powerful self-defense firepower. Coupled with the protection of long-range fighters, it is barely enough.

"Marshal Milch, has the attack target been selected this time?" Marshal Albert Kesselring asked.

"Your Excellency, Kazan and Nizhny Novgorod have been preliminarily identified. There are aircraft factories in Russia in these two places. And according to our information, the aircraft factory in Kazan is preparing to mass-produce an advanced fighter jet. Code-named Yak-1 fighter, although there is still a certain gap in performance compared with our BF-109 fighter, it can already pose a certain threat to our BF-109 fighter." Marshal Edward Milch said.

"Oh?" Marshal Albert Kesselring couldn't help but frowned.

At the beginning of the war, the Luftwaffe almost crushed the Russian Air Force, so that now the sky in the theater is completely dominated by the fighters of the Luftwaffe. The fighter planes of the Russian Air Force did not dare to go to the theater at all. Because once it enters, it will be shot down in all likelihood. It is precisely because of this that the Luftwaffe was able to unscrupulously attack the ground targets of the Russian army and cover the army's operations.

If the Russian Air Force has relatively advanced fighter jets, it is conceivable that they will definitely challenge the German Air Force frantically. After all, after losing air supremacy, the constraints on them are too great. Even if it can't take back the air supremacy from the Germans, it can at least pose a threat to the Luftwaffe and facilitate the actions of their ground forces.

"Since this is the case, then we have to pay attention. Marshal Milch, I have a suggestion." Marshal Albert Kesselring said.

"Your Excellency, please speak."

"The target of the bombing this time should be determined to be Kazan! Destroy all the factories related to Bu Russia and all aircraft manufacturing here! In this way, we can at least deal a big blow to Bu Russia's aircraft manufacturing capabilities. At the same time, Kazan can also be completely destroyed. Only in this way can others see our strength. In addition, the escorting long-range fighter jets can also be used together to provide more comprehensive protection for the bomber force!" Albert? Marshal Kesselring suggested.

Marshal Edward Milch thought for a while, then nodded: "Just follow the advice of Your Excellency the Minister! We dispatched 900 H-11 bombers and 300 H-21 bombers, enough to blow up the entire Kazan."

Kazan is only 1,200 kilometers away from the airport where the heavy bombers of the Luftwaffe are parked, and it is completely within the strike radius of the H-11 and H-21 bombers. Among them, the H-11 bomber can carry bombs weighing up to four tons to Kazan for bombing, and then return to the airport. The H-21 bomber can carry six tons of bombs to Kazan for bombing, and then return to the airport. In this case, 1,200 heavy bombers would be enough to drop 5,400 tons of aerial bombs on Kazan at one time. These bombs are enough to blow up the city of Kazan into ruins. If all of them are put into the factories of Bu Russia in Kazan, these factories can be easily razed to the ground.

It is conceivable that once Kazan is destroyed by the Luftwaffe with heavy bombers, this will cause serious damage to the Russian aviation industry. Next, Bu Russia wants to continue to compete with the Luftwaffe for air supremacy, so this possibility is almost impossible.

Time passed bit by bit, and the heavy bombers and long-range fighter jets of the Luftwaffe all completed the transition before January 6. Materials such as aviation bombs and aviation fuel have also all arrived at the front line. The bomber unit of the Luftwaffe is ready to attack.

Of course, it is winter now, and whether the bomber unit can attack depends on whether the weather conditions allow it.

In this regard, the Luftwaffe specially convened a group of meteorologists to conduct research. The final conclusion is that starting from January 8th, there will be two days of blue sky, and then there will be heavy snowfall for several days in a row.

Therefore, after discussions between Marshal Albert Kesselring and Marshal Edward Milch, the time for the attack was set for the morning of January 8.

After asking the emperor Qin Tian for instructions, Qin Tian agreed.

After the order was issued, the strategic forces of the Luftwaffe began to get busy. Pilots need to be familiar with the route, and ground crews must seize the time to refuel and add ammunition to these bombers. After ensuring that the order is issued, these fighters can take off. The long-range fighters escorting these bombers have also moved to the front-line airport. Their task was to provide protection for these bombers. In order to be able to avoid being intercepted by Russian Air Force fighter planes before the heavy bomber unit of the Luftwaffe launched a bombing.

Although the performance of the Russian Air Force's fighter jets is not very good, no matter how bad the fighter jets are, they are more flexible than these huge bombers. If attacked by enemy fighter jets, the bomber itself will be at a very disadvantage.

At two o'clock in the morning on January 8, the heavy snow stopped. Ground crews had already started clearing the runway when the snow had just started to shrink. The snow was cleared and then salted to ensure that the runway would not freeze again.

At 6 o'clock in the morning, before the sky was bright, the bombers of the Luftwaffe began to take off.

The H-21 bomber took the lead. These three hundred H-21 bombers took off from three airports in Belarus. H-11 bombers then took off from airfields in Belarus and Ukraine.

A total of 1,200 heavy bombers climbed to an altitude of tens of thousands of meters before flying smoothly. In order to increase the range, these aircrafts all adopt an economical cruising speed of 380 kilometers per hour. In this case, it will take a little over three hours to fly from the airport to Kazan.

After these heavy bombers took off, the long-range fighter jets of the Luftwaffe also took off one after another. These long-range fighters all carry auxiliary fuel tanks. They climbed above the bomber fleet and monitored the surroundings. Once they found an enemy plane approaching, they would attack, shoot down or expel the enemy plane to ensure the safety of their own bombers.

In order to enhance the strength of the escort, Marshal Edward Milch even dispatched 240 FW-190 fighter jets from the 2nd Aviation Group and the 3rd Aviation Group to join the **** formation. Although, the FW-190 fighter jet has a range of only one thousand kilometers and cannot fly to Kazan. But if they encounter Russian fighter planes after crossing the border, they can attack them first to prevent the BF-110 fighter jets from abandoning the auxiliary fuel tank during the battle, thereby shortening the voyage. Improve the **** force of this bombing as much as possible.

Fighters plus bombers, a total of more than 1,900 fighters are flying in the air. Although divided into several echelons, each echelon is undoubtedly an extremely large fleet. At least, this is enough to scare Bu Russia enough.

Chapter 1207

The top German Air Force attaches great importance to this strategic bombing. Marshal Albert Kesselring has been guarding the office, waiting for the result of this bombing. This is the first round of strategic bombing launched by the Luftwaffe during the war. If successful, it will greatly promote the influence and status of the Luftwaffe. Even for him, it is of great benefit.

Although, Albert Kesselring Field Marshal is already the Air Marshal. However, he also wanted to be promoted again. It would be great if he could be promoted to Marshal of the Empire. Marshal Albert Kesselring believed that if the Imperial Air Force could make enough contributions in this war, then he would be able to get his wish.

"Your Excellency Marshal, the fleet has already taken off. It will soon fly over our control area and enter the Russian control area." A major general officer reported to Marshal Albert Kesselring.

"Well! Are the escorting fighter planes ready?" Marshal Albert Kesselring asked.

"In addition to 500 long-range fighters, Marshal Milch also dispatched a FW-190 fighter brigade from the 2nd Aviation Group and the 3rd Aviation Group to be responsible for the initial escort." The major general reported.

"From this point of view, there shouldn't be any major problems. After the bombing is over, report the results to me!" Marshal Albert Kesselring said.

"Yes, Marshal." The major general immediately left the office.

"Attention, attention, we are about to enter the Russian-controlled area. The bomber is kept at an altitude of 10,000 meters. The fighter jets pay attention to the surrounding area and are responsible for covering!" The voice of the commander in charge of directing this operation came from the headset.

The huge fleet is flying at an altitude of 10,000 meters. Although they are above the clouds, the huge noise can still be transmitted to the ground. In particular, the routes passed by some fleets are not covered by clouds, which allows Russian soldiers on the ground to easily spot the huge fleet flying overhead.

At 8 o'clock in the morning, a hundred H-21 bombers took off from an airport in Belarus and escorted by more than 30 BF-110 fighter jets and 20 FW-190 fighter jets, flew over the outskirts of Tula. The Russian soldiers stationed here were awakened by the noise.

Some Russian soldiers raised their heads and looked at the overwhelming aircraft fleet in horror, all of them were terrified.

"My God! What a huge plane! What a huge fleet! All of them are German planes. Where are they going, are they going to Moscow?" A Russian officer put down the binoculars in his hand and murmured. This scene was too difficult for him to accept. Through the telescope in his hand, he could clearly see how huge those planes were. A fleet of hundreds of such huge fighter planes almost covered the sky.

"Come on, call your superiors immediately. We found a huge German Air Force fleet flying over our heads. I suspect that these Germans are heading for Moscow." The officer ordered.

So, the news was immediately reported to the General Staff.

The Russian army not only discovered this aircraft group, but other aircraft groups of the Luftwaffe were more or less discovered by Russian soldiers on the ground after flying into the Russian-controlled area. As a result, a large amount of news has been aggregated up. For a while, after Shaposhnikov heard the news, his scalp went numb.

The Russian Air Force Commander General Astakhov and Chief of Staff General Zavoronkov also rushed to Shaposhnikov's office. They also learned that a large number of Luftwaffe fleets were coming. This worried them even more. If the Germans really dropped bombs in Moscow as they had guessed, the consequences would be very serious. I am afraid that the two of them will be dismissed immediately by the angry Joseph and sent to Siberia to dig potatoes.

"What's going on here? Is there any problem with Moscow's air defense?" Shaposhnikov asked viciously.

"Comrade Chief of Staff, according to the information we have received, the Germans dispatched thousands of large bombers to launch an air strike against us this time. But please rest assured, Comrade Chief of Staff, the airports around Moscow are ready. Our fighter jets are about to take off, and the Germans will never let the bombs drop on Moscow!" Admiral Astakhov assured.

"Remember your promise, you must not let the German bombs fall on Moscow. Otherwise, you can't afford the consequences!" Shaposhnikov said with a black face.

"Yes, Comrade Chief of Staff." Both Astakhov and Zavoronkov replied.

"Woo!"

The shrill air defense sirens sounded over Moscow, and countless people watched all this in horror. Many even ran to the air-raid shelter in a panic.

Although the German Air Force has not launched an air strike on Moscow before, this does not prevent the Russian side from knowing the strength of the German Air Force. Especially since Moscow is still the capital of Russia, they have to strengthen their air defense preparations here.

A large number of air-raid shelters flooded the city to ensure that people could hide inside when they were attacked by German air raids. At the same time, there are still many air defense positions inside and outside the city. A large number of anti-aircraft guns and anti-aircraft machine guns are deployed on these air defense positions. Once the Luftwaffe really dared to launch an air strike on Moscow, the intensive anti-aircraft firepower on the ground would be enough to cause the Luftwaffe to pay heavy losses.

"The air defense siren sounded?" Shaposhnikov's face suddenly became very ugly.

Because, this means that if you want to hide it, you can't hide it anymore. Joseph must have known about it already. In addition, the whole of Moscow must be in chaos.

Indeed, as Shaposhnikov expected, the whole of Moscow was in a panic. There were people fleeing to the air-raid shelters with their families. In previous exercises, people living in Moscow knew how to avoid enemy air strikes. It's just that experiencing this for the first time made those people panic.

In the Kremlin, Joseph, who was handling official business in the office, was surrounded by several secretaries and headed for the sturdy air-raid shelter. In order to ensure Joseph's safety, a strong anti-blasting hole was also specially dug inside the Kremlin. However, in such a situation, even Joseph felt a little panic in his heart. Although he is the supreme leader of Bu Russia, if the German aerial bombs fall, it doesn't matter who he is. Once hit, it will also be blown to pieces.

Chapter 1208

"Damn it, are the Germans going to bomb Moscow? One day, I will definitely flatten Berlin!" Hiding in the air-raid shelter, Joseph's face was livid, and his hands were tightly clenched into fists.

Moscow is the capital of Bu Russia, if it is bombed by the Germans, it will undoubtedly embarrass the whole of Bu Russia. Joseph himself also felt very shameless.

At the same time, Joseph became more and more dissatisfied with the performance of the Russian Air Force. How much he hopes that the Russian Air Force can take off fighter planes to intercept them when they discover the German Air Force's invasion, instead of just sounding the air defense alarm and letting them hide in the air-raid shelter. However, Joseph also knew that there was no way to do this. Who made the Russian Air Force too weak to compare with the German Air Force. Otherwise, it wouldn't be like this.

Hiding in the air-raid shelter, waiting for the bombing of the Germans, this is undoubtedly a torment for anyone.

However, Joseph waited for a long time, but there was no explosion above his head, which made him a little puzzled.

"What's going on? Didn't it say that the Germans dispatched a large number of bombers to bomb Moscow? Why hasn't there been any movement?" Joseph asked.

Joseph even wondered if this was a mistake. The Germans didn't send out bombers at all, but those guys became frightened birds, and they were frightened enough by a little trouble.

"Comrade Joseph, the General Staff reported that the German plane did not come to Moscow, but continued to fly east." After a while, a staff member came to report.

Joseph's face suddenly became very ugly. Instead of bombing Moscow, the Germans went elsewhere. This also means that the Germans can attack Moscow at any time. It's just that this time the Germans regarded other cities as more important goals than Moscow. This feeling is as if Buer has been slaughtered by the Germans. This made Joseph very dissatisfied.

"Asshole! The Germans must have bombed the factories we moved to the east. They are going to attack our war potential!" Joseph is not a fool, and he can easily guess the target of the Luftwaffe. However, this made him even more angry. The current Bu Russia is already at a disadvantage in the confrontation with Germany. If those important factories are destroyed, this will greatly traumatize the military production capacity of Bu Russia, which will be very detrimental to the next war.

"Give the Air Force an order. No matter what method they use, they must intercept the German bombers and not let them destroy our factory!" Joseph gave the order.

Although he knows that with the current strength of the Russian Air Force, it may be difficult to resist the bombing of the Germans. However, in order to ensure the safety of the rear factory, he must ask the Air Force to do its best to intercept it. Otherwise, once the Germans destroy their factories, it will be very difficult for Bu Russia to win this war. Even, it will become very difficult to continue.

"Yes, Comrade Joseph." The secretary immediately conveyed Joseph's order.

The Russian Air Force Command, Admiral Astakhov and Admiral Zavoronkov, are struggling. They were relieved that the Luftwaffe did not bomb Moscow. Because this somehow saved Buer's face, and wouldn't make Joseph lose his temper. However, instead of choosing Moscow as a bombing target, the Germans continued flying east. Obviously, they are going to attack the important cities behind Bu Russia! To some extent, this kind of tactics of the Germans is undoubtedly more harmful to Bu Russia.

"Comrade Commander, an order from the Kremlin!" A staff officer handed the telegram to General Astakhov.

Admiral Astakhov sighed after reading the telegram.

"Comrade Commander, does Comrade Joseph have any instructions?" Admiral Zavoronkov asked.

"Comrade Zavoronkov, Comrade Joseph asked us to take off with all our fighters to intercept the German bombers." Admiral Astakhov said helplessly.

After hearing this, Admiral Zavoronkov didn't know what to say.

"Order the air force airports along the way to take off fighter planes immediately! No matter what, the Germans dispatched such a huge fleet, if they are allowed to bomb, we will suffer heavy losses. They must be intercepted." Astaho General Husband said.

"However, this will make us suffer even more losses." Admiral Zavoronkov reminded. At the beginning of the war, the Russian Air Force suffered heavy losses. Even after a few months, it has not recovered. Although, they got quite a few fighter jets from the Americans. But the loss of those elite pilots is not so easy to make up for. Besides, whether it is their I-16 fighter jets, or I-15 fighter jets, or the P-40 fighter jets aided by the Americans, I am afraid that they are not the opponents of the advanced German fighter jets. Sending fighter planes to intercept is just to die.

"I know, but we have no other choice. Otherwise, Comrade Joseph will not let us go!" General Astakhov said.

Admiral Zavoronkov nodded: "I hope our pilots can defeat the Germans!"

Subsequently, the Russian Air Force Command issued an order requiring the German fleet to pass through the airports along the route and immediately take off fighter jets to intercept the Luftwaffe fleet.

After receiving the order, the airports of the Russian Air Force sounded the alarm. The pilots rushed to their fighter planes, took off with the help of the ground crew, and prepared to fight.

P-40 fighter jets and I-16 fighter jets began to take off, preparing to intercept the Luftwaffe fleet.

It's just that there is a vast area behind Russia and there are many airports. Even though the Russian Air Force still has a lot of fighters, the number of fighters that can be dispatched at this time is not too many. Moreover, whether it is a P-40 fighter or an I-16 fighter, there is no way to deal with the German fleet flying above 10,000 meters.

Because the ceiling of the P-40 fighter is only 8,840 meters, the ceiling of the I-16 fighter is even worse, only 8,200 meters. The flying altitude of the German fleet reached tens of thousands of meters. This also means that they simply cannot reach the Luftwaffe fleet.

Of course, when the bombers of the Luftwaffe drop bombs, they will lower their altitude. At that time, it will become the target of these Russian Air Force fighter jets. It's just that if they want to attack the bombers of the Luftwaffe, they must first defeat the long-range fighters of the Luftwaffe escorted by them.

"Damn, the German planes are flying too high, we can't reach them at all!" A pilot of the Russian Air Force said helplessly. Although he had already driven the plane to an altitude of 8,000 meters, he was still a long way from the bomber fleet of the Luftwaffe.

"Try again and see if you can go up a further distance. If you go up to more than a thousand meters, maybe you can use a machine gun to attack the bottom of the German bomber!" An officer said.

"Comrade Major, if you continue to take the risk of ascending, the engine may stop, and I will fall!" the pilot said in horror. He didn't want to try such a dangerous move. If he is not careful, he may fall directly.

"Execute the order!" The major officer said coldly.

They were flying P-40 fighter jets assisted by the Americans, with radio communication equipment on them, so that the commander's orders could be conveyed to the ears of every pilot. If it is their I-16 fighter jets, they have to rely on signal flares to transmit orders.

It's just that even the American P-40 fighter jets are still powerless against the German Air Force's bomber fleet above 10,000 meters.

Despite reluctance, the Russian pilot continued to drive the plane up. He looked at the altimeter worriedly, fearing that the engine of the fighter plane would fail due to the high altitude.

When the altitude reached 9,000 meters, the engine suddenly made an abnormal sound. Then even the propeller stopped spinning. After losing power, the plane plummeted to the ground at once.

"Damn, my engine stopped!" The pilot yelled in horror.

In order to survive, the pilot chose to parachute to escape. The plane fell to the ground and became a pile of scrap metal.

Other pilots of the Russian Air Force, seeing this situation, immediately descended and did not dare to go up again. They don't want their plane to be crashed too.

Seeing such a situation, the pilots of the Russian Air Force could only follow the German Air Force fleet below. Wanting to intercept the Luftwaffe fleet is simply a dream.

This situation was quickly reported to the Russian Air Force Command.

General Astakhov and General Zavoronkov both wanted to cry when they learned of this situation. Because the P-40 fighter is already the best fighter they have equipped. Even the P-40 fighter jets have nothing to do with the Luftwaffe's fleet. Is there any way to intercept the Luftwaffe's bomber fleet?

"Comrade Commander, what should we do now?" Admiral Zavoronkov asked.

"It would be great if our Yak-1 fighter jets could serve." Admiral Astakhov said.

The maximum ceiling of the Yak-1 fighter can reach 10,000 meters, which undoubtedly poses a certain threat to the bomber fleet of the Luftwaffe. Unfortunately, mass production of the Yak-1 Combat has only just begun.

"Order the fighter jets to take off and wait for the opportunity. Once the German bomber group starts to descend, attack them! Minimize the German bombing damage to us as much as possible!" Admiral Astakhov ordered.

"Yes, Comrade Commander." Admiral Zavoronkov nodded.

At this moment, a staff officer hurried in.

"Report, now we can determine the attack target of the German fleet. It is very likely that they want to bomb Kazan!" the staff officer said.

"What?" Astakhov and Zavoronkov both exclaimed.

Kazan is undoubtedly a very important industrial city for Bu Russia. Especially for the Russian Air Force, it is undoubtedly crucial. Because most of the parts factories and assembly factories of the Yak-1 fighter are located there. If those factories are destroyed, the service of the Yak-1 fighter jet may have to be further postponed.

"Damn, the Germans want to destroy our air force so that we can no longer threaten them!" Admiral Astakhov cursed.

But even if they understood the intention of the Luftwaffe, there was still nothing they could do.

"Order all our fighters, at all costs, to intercept the German bomber fleet!" Admiral Astakhov ordered. Now, they can only pin their hopes on their own fighter jets.

Although when the German fleet was flying at an altitude of 10,000 meters, their P-40 fighter jets and I-16 fighter jets had no way to take these bombers. But it is impossible for the bomber fleet of the Luftwaffe to stay at an altitude of tens of thousands of meters. Otherwise, dropping bombs at such a high altitude would not be accurate at all. Therefore, when the bomb is dropped, it will definitely drop in height. And that is undoubtedly the opportunity for the fighter pilots of the Russian Air Force. If grasped well, combined with ground anti-aircraft firepower, it should be able to cause considerable casualties to the Luftwaffe's bomber fleet. With any luck, they might even be able to keep their Yak-1 fighter factory.

At 8 o'clock in the morning, the bomber fleet of the Luftwaffe was only an hour away from Kazan. However, the pilots discovered that a large number of Russian fighter jets were following behind the fleet. Obviously, these Russian fighter jets are waiting for an opportunity. This is undoubtedly a great threat to the bomber fleet of the Luftwaffe.

"Hmph! Do these Russians still want to attack us while we are bombing? They don't know what to do!" said German Air Force Lieutenant General Otto Desloch, who was in charge of commanding this operation, coldly.

"When can the auxiliary fuel tanks of the **** fighter jets be thrown away?" Lieutenant General Otto Desloch asked.

"General, in fifteen minutes, the fuel in the drop tank will run out!"

"Very well, after fifteen minutes, get ready to fight and get rid of the Russian fighter jets following us!" Lieutenant General Otto Desloch ordered.

The fighting performance of the BF-110 fighter is no worse than that of the BF-109 fighter. Even a little stronger in some performance. Of course, the real combat power cannot be compared with the FW-190 fighter, but the range is more than twice that of the FW-190 fighter. Therefore, they became the long-range **** fighters of the Luftwaffe.

However, before the battle, the auxiliary fuel tank must be thrown away. Otherwise, it will seriously affect the performance of the fighter.

At this moment, there are more than 300 fighter jets of the Russian Air Force following the German bomber fleet. These aircraft are almost all P-40 fighter jets. The I-16 fighter jet has a short range, and it will not play a big role in such a long-distance raid. Moreover, the maximum speed and other performance are far inferior to the P-40 fighter. Therefore, in order to intercept the bomber fleet of the Luftwaffe this time, the Russian Air Force dispatched almost all P-40 fighter jets.

Chapter 1210

"Attention all **** fighter wings, the 1st and 2nd wing, launch an attack on those Russians, kill them! The rest of the **** fighters, continue to protect the bomber fleet!" Lieutenant General Otto Desloch ordered.

"Yes, General!" replied the captain of the long-range fighters of the 1st and 2nd Wings.

These **** fighters have used up all the fuel in the auxiliary fuel tanks, and began to throw away the auxiliary fuel tanks one after another, ready to fight.

Five minutes later, the order to attack was issued. These fighter jets began to swoop down from an altitude of more than 10,000 meters, and attacked the Russian Air Force fleet below the fleet.

"Boom boom boom!"

The weapons of the BF-110 fighter jet are very powerful. There are two 20mm cannons installed on the nose, and a 20mm cannon and a 12.7mm machine gun on each wing. This kind of firepower can not only easily shred enemy fighter jets, but also destroy heavy bombers.

The Russian Air Force, which followed the Luftwaffe's bomber fleet, obviously did not expect the Luftwaffe to suddenly attack them. Dozens of P-40 fighter jets were torn apart and disintegrated in the air. Even many pilots were killed before they even had time to parachute.

"Damn, the German attack, disperse!" The commander of the Russian Air Force shouted in horror.

The remaining Russian fighter planes scattered in a hurry, trying to escape. However, how could the fighter pilots of the Luftwaffe let them go? If these Russian fighter planes are not destroyed, they will pose a great threat to the German Air Force's bomber fleet. Only by getting rid of them, the Luftwaffe bombers will be less threatened when they drop bombs.

"Boom boom boom!"

A BF-110 fighter bit a P-40 fighter, and the pilot decisively pressed the launch button. Several cannon shells flew out. The shell hit the P-40 fighter jet, blowing out its tail.

The P-40 fighter jet, dragging thick smoke, fell to the ground. Although the pilot escaped by parachuting, the plane was crashed.

The BF-110 fighter jets have a maximum speed of more than 700 kilometers. For the P-40 fighter jets, which have a maximum speed of only more than 500 kilometers, they cannot escape at all. So that these P-40 fighters were easily shot down after being chased by the German BF-110 fighters.

"Damn, the German plane is too fast, I can't catch up at all!" A Russian pilot said in horror. He watched helplessly as the German BF-110 fighter jet destroyed his lead plane. And the plane he was flying could only follow behind and eat ashes.

"Climb! He's still climbing! Damn, that German **** is climbing too fast!"

Subsequently, the Russian pilot found that the German plane disappeared from his front.

"Asshole, he's gone, where did he go?" the Russian pilot yelled in horror. He suddenly had a bad feeling, as if he was being targeted by some danger.

"Ivan, the German plane is behind him, dodge it!" The voice of a comrade-in-arms came from the headset.

Ivan hurriedly drove the P-40 fighter jet into a roll, trying to throw off the enemy plane.

However, he later found that no matter what he did, he couldn't get rid of the enemy plane.

"Da da da!"

The BF-110 fighter jet opened fire, and a shuttle machine gun bullet hit the wing of the P-40 fighter jet fighter, knocking out half of the left wing. This immediately made the P-40 fighter lose its balance and fell to the ground.

The battle in the sky is almost completely one-sided. The P-40 fighter jets driven by the pilots of the Russian Air Force had no power to fight back in front of the BF-110 fighter jets of the Luftwaffe, as if they were being slaughtered.

"God! Those Russians are really good. Their planes are not good, and their pilot skills are not good. They are not our opponents at all!" said a captain of the Luftwaffe.

"These Russians have simply increased the results for us. If this continues, we will soon have many ace pilots."

The pilots of the German Air Force seem to enjoy the massacre of the Russian Air Force. They were flying planes, chasing these fighters of the Russian Air Force wantonly, and then destroying them. Of course, these pilots were not evil enough to attack the parachuting Russian pilots. Otherwise, it will deal a greater blow to the Russian Air Force.

"Okay guys, don't waste time. We're half an hour away to Kazan. Get rid of those Bu-Russian fighters, and then you have to provide cover for the bombers and suppress the Russian ground Anti-aircraft fire!" Lieutenant General Otto Desloch's order sounded in the headset.

"Understood, General!" The pilots replied one after another.

This suddenly made it even more difficult for the pilots of the Russian Air Force who were already very difficult to support. Under the attack of the **** fighter jets of the Luftwaffe, the P-40 fighter jets of the Russian Air Force were destroyed one after another.

"Retreat, we can't fight anymore, we are no match for the Germans! If we continue to fight, we will all be killed by the Germans!" said a Russian Air Force officer.

"Comrade Lieutenant Colonel, we can't escape. German planes are all around!"

From the beginning of the battle to the present, it took only ten minutes. However, within these ten minutes, the Russian Air Force was hit hard again. More than three hundred P-40 fighters, at least half were shot down. The remaining half are still facing the pursuit of fighter jets of the Luftwaffe. Almost every few seconds, a P-40 fighter jet is shot down.

The losses they caused to the Luftwaffe during the battle were minimal. So far, only a few BF-110 fighter jets have been shot down. These were mainly hit by stray bullets in melee, and almost none were actually shot down by fighter jets of the Russian Air Force in air combat.

However, although the pilots of the Luftwaffe who were shot down parachuted. But they probably won't be able to survive. After all, this is the hinterland of Bu Russia, and there are Russians everywhere. Even if those pilots escaped by parachuting, they would fall into the hands of the Russians. Naturally, one can imagine how the Russians who suffered heavy losses will treat them.

Of course, if the Russians dare to do that, Germany will definitely counterattack accordingly. At that time, it will be very difficult to say whether those Russian pilots who parachuted can escape through this.

When the German bomber fleet flew over Kazan, the battle was over. More than 300 P-40 fighter jets, except for a very few escaped, were all shot down. The Russian Air Force suffered heavy losses once again.
