Chapter 1211

"Attention all wings, fly over the target in ten minutes. The bombers began to lower their altitude and prepare to drop bombs. Escort fighter formations, prepare to suppress the ground anti-aircraft firepower, and cover the bombers dropping bombs!" Lieutenant General Otto Desloch ordered.

There is almost no need to guess, the Russian air defense forces on the ground must be ready for battle. It took the German fleet three hours to reach Kazan, and the Russians could not fail to guess their target. But even so, Lieutenant General Otto Desloch is confident that he can destroy all the important factories in this city in one fell swoop.

According to the information obtained before, the Russian Air Force's factories producing Yak-1 fighter jets and their spare parts factories are all concentrated in the southwest of Kazan. This also made this area a key bombing target of the Luftwaffe.

"Quick! Quick! Prepare to attack. The German planes are coming!" The Russian air defense soldiers in Kazan, urged by the officer, ran into the anti-aircraft artillery positions. A series of anti-aircraft guns and anti-aircraft machine guns, as well as aimed at the sky, waiting for the Luftwaffe fleet to appear.

These anti-aircraft guns are mostly 40mm anti-aircraft guns and 20mm anti-aircraft guns, which pose no threat to German bombers at high altitudes. However, once these bombers descended, they were able to destroy them. Even if the heavy bombers of the Luftwaffe are very strong, they will definitely not be able to withstand these anti-aircraft guns.

However, the bombers of the Luftwaffe did not launch an attack immediately, but let the **** fighters attack first.

The Russian air defense forces on the ground opened fire immediately after seeing a large number of German fighter planes swooping down.

"Boom boom boom! Da da da!"

Anti-aircraft guns and anti-aircraft machine guns fired crazily, shells exploded in the air, leaving clouds of black smoke. The tracer bullets fired by anti-aircraft machine guns left traces in the air, as if forming a dense anti-aircraft fire net.

However, for those high-speed flying BF-110 fighter jets, such an attack density is nothing at all. Often it was the Russian anti-aircraft guns and anti-aircraft machine guns that chased these fighters, but could barely hit them. The situation may seem dangerous, but it is actually very safe.

"These idiots!" The pilots of the German Air Force couldn't help laughing when they saw that the Russian air defense positions on the ground were exposed.

This is mainly the reason why these Russian air defense forces encountered such a situation for the first time. If they have experience, they will know that compared to these fighters, those bombers are the deadly threat to them. Therefore, when facing these fighter jets, they should exercise restraint as much as possible, and wait until the bombers lower their altitude before launching an attack. In that case, it is entirely possible to cause greater casualties to the bomber fleet of the Luftwaffe. However, these experiences can only be obtained after paying the price of blood.

"Suppression of Russian air defense positions!"

The officers of the German **** fighter force issued an order.

These BF-110 fighter jets of the Luftwaffe began to attack the exposed Russian air defense positions.

"Da da da!"

A BF-110 fighter jet dived down from a high altitude and strafed an air defense position of the Russian army. Dense bullets poured on this air defense position, and many Russian air defense soldiers were killed.

"Boom boom boom!"

The machine gun bullets poured into the Russian air defense positions, and the Russian soldiers were torn to pieces, and even the anti-aircraft guns and anti-aircraft machine guns were destroyed.

Under the attack of the German Air Force's **** fighter jets, the Russian air defense forces suffered heavy casualties. Many air defense positions were misfired.

After Lieutenant General Otto Desloch saw this situation, he decisively issued an order for the bombers to launch an attack.

The German bomber fleet in the sky began to descend.

The first to attack was the H-11 heavy bomber. These heavy bombers took the wing as a unit and gradually descended from a height of tens of thousands of meters to a height of only two kilometers above the ground. According to the plan, they flew over the factory located in the southwest of Kazan.

The magazine was opened, and aerial bombs roared and smashed to the ground one after another.

"Boom! Boom! Boom!"

Intensive explosions sounded, flames shot up into the sky, and smoke and dust scattered. The factory buildings were destroyed in the explosion, and the machinery and equipment inside were naturally lost.

Countless Russian workers escaped from the factory buildings and fled in all directions. However, during the large-scale bombing by the Luftwaffe, their lives seemed so fragile, and they wanted to escape safely, but found that it was impossible. Most of these workers were killed in the explosion.

The bomber fleet of the German Air Force bombed in an orderly manner according to the plan. After a wing dropped its bombs, the bombers immediately climbed to an altitude of tens of thousands of meters before returning to Germany. After all, at this altitude, the fighter planes of the Russian Air Force posed no threat to them, and they could safely withdraw to Germany.

"It's over, our factory is over! Those Yak-1 fighter jets are being assembled! Without these planes, what can we use to fight the Germans?" The person in charge of the factory saw their factory destroyed, and seemed to be crying Blood.

The Yak-1 fighter jet has become the hope of the Russian Air Force. Although the performance is still not comparable to the advanced fighter jets of the Luftwaffe, at least they have a certain amount of power to fight back. But now, the Germans acted first and directly destroyed their factories. Although the factory can still be rebuilt and those destroyed parts can be re-produced, it will undoubtedly take time. What's more, the Germans could bomb Kazan, and no doubt they could also bomb other cities. For the Russian Air Force, this will continue to cause losses.

"Boom! Boom! Boom!"

Under the intensive bombing of thousands of bombers by the Luftwaffe, almost all the factories around Kazan were destroyed. Even most of the city was not spared from the bombing.

Although, during the bombing process, several bombers were shot down by ground anti-aircraft fire. However, such a small loss is nothing compared to the losses they caused to Buer. Although many bombers were hit by the anti-aircraft firepower on the ground, the trauma was not serious, and they were still able to return.

After all, these heavy bombers weigh up to 20 to 30 tons, and the body structure is strong. For them, minor trauma will not cause fatal injuries. Precisely because of this, this is why the fighter jets of the Luftwaffe must be equipped with cannons. Only machine guns can destroy these heavy bombers. In the case of aviation machine guns, the threat it poses is very limited.

Chapter 1212

The first attack of the Luftwaffe's strategic bomber unit undoubtedly demonstrated extremely powerful attack power. Kazan, an important industrial city, was almost destroyed. The aircraft factory, which was the key target of the Luftwaffe, was completely destroyed. This directly caused a huge blow to the aircraft production capacity of the Russian Air Force.

When the bombers of the Luftwaffe dropped their bombs and swaggered away, only the Russians on the ground were left to clean up the mess with a heavy heart. They knew that the bombing by the Luftwaffe had caused them huge losses. But what they don't know is that this is just the beginning. Immediately afterwards, the Luftwaffe's strategic bomber unit, which has tasted the sweetness, will continue to attack large cities in Russia one after another, destroying all the factories in these cities, and further attacking the war potential of Bu Russia, allowing them to fight in the future. In the midst of the war, it cannot persist.

Modern wars are fought on the basis of comprehensive national power. Industrial strength is undoubtedly the most important part of comprehensive national strength. Once the industry is destroyed, it is impossible for Bu Russia to persist in the war. Even if they still have an army of tens of millions, they have no bullets, no shells, or even guns. What can they use to resist the German attack? You can't really let the soldiers fight with bare hands against the Germans who are armed to the teeth! In that case, Bu Russia will not last long in the war, and will be completely defeated soon.

Even if the Americans will not sit back and watch Russia fail, they will continue to provide support to Russia. But unfortunately, the transport capacity of the Trans-Siberian Railway simply cannot meet the consumption of tens of millions of Russian troops.

The Kremlin, Joseph's office. After deciding that the Luftwaffe's bombing target was not Moscow, Joseph left the bomb shelter. However, his face was still very ugly. Because he knows that since the Germans can bomb Russia's hinterland cities, it means that as long as the Germans are willing, they can bomb Moscow at any time. It is possible to fall. This feeling made Joseph a little nervous. He didn't want to be attacked by the Germans one day while he was still asleep. In that case, the consequences would undoubtedly be very serious.

At 10:30 in the morning, Shaposhnikov, General Astakhov and General Zavoronkov entered Joseph's office.

"Comrade Joseph, the German air raid is over." Shaposhnikov reported.

Joseph put down the document in his hand, and glanced at Shaposhnikov and the others. This look made the three of them feel a biting cold, and they could feel the suppressed anger in Joseph's heart. If it breaks out, they will all suffer.

"How is the situation in Kazan?" Joseph asked coldly.

"Comrade Joseph, Kazan was bombed by more than a thousand heavy bombers from the Germans, and most of the city was destroyed by the Germans. Our aircraft factory in Kazan was also completely destroyed. Those Jacques that had just begun to assemble -1 fighter jets, all destroyed!" Admiral Astakhov reported.

"Bastard!" Joseph couldn't help cursing. Although he had expected such a result a long time ago, after Qing Er heard that the loss was so great, he still couldn't suppress the anger in his heart.

Shaposhnikov and the others fell silent for a moment, without saying a word.

"Is there any way to prevent the bombing of the Germans?" Joseph asked.

"Comrade Joseph, we may allow the Americans to support us with a batch of radars. If there are radars, we will be able to detect the German fleet first, and then take precautions." Admiral Zavoronkov said.

"Radar? I will let the People's Committee of Foreign Affairs contact the Americans. Can the radar be avoided from being bombed by the Germans?" Joseph then asked.

"Comrade Joseph, I'm afraid this will be very difficult. We currently have no way to intercept the German bomber fleet. The German bomber fleet is flying at an altitude of tens of thousands of meters. The fighter jets we are equipped with now, whether they are P Neither the -40 fighters nor our own I-16 fighters can fly to such altitudes. Unless the Yak-1 fighters are in service, there is no way to intercept them. Also, the Germans have **** fighters for these bombers. These fighters are very capable In the previous battles, we have lost more than 300 P-40 fighter jets. It can be seen that these P-40 fighter jets are completely vulnerable to the German **** fighter jets." Astaho General Husband said.

Joseph's face couldn't help but become even uglier. He had read the report and knew that the performance of the P-40 fighter jet was a little more advanced than the I-16 fighter jet of the Russian Air Force. But even the P-40 fighter jets are vulnerable, let alone the I-16 fighter jets. Even if they fly to the sky to fight, they will probably only be killed by the Germans.

"If our Yak-1 fighter jets are reorganized, when will they be able to serve?" Joseph asked.

"Comrade Joseph, it is necessary to re-produce the corresponding parts and other preparations. It is estimated that it will take more than half a year!" Admiral Zavoronkov said.

Before, in order to speed up the production of aircraft, they deliberately placed the parts factories of the Yak-1 fighter jets around the assembly plant. No one thought that this would facilitate the German Air Force and give them a pot.

"Six months? No, it's too long. Three months, I need to see our Yak-1 fighter jets flying in the sky in three months to fight against the Germans!" Joseph gave the order unreasonably.

Admirals Astakhov and Zavoronkov knew that this task was very difficult to complete. However, facing Joseph's strength, they had no choice but to accept it.

"Comrade Joseph, the Germans' large-scale bombing has already begun, and I am worried that their bombing will continue. By then, many of our factories may be bombed by their heavy bombers. War will be very unfavorable," Shaposhnikov said.

"Is there any way to deal with it?" Joseph asked.

"From the current point of view, I am afraid that we will continue to move the factory to the east. Yekaterinburg and Chelyabinsk to the east of the Ural Mountains. In this case, we may be able to escape the bombing of the Germans."

Although Joseph felt very aggrieved by running away like this, he had no choice but to accept this suggestion when there was no other way.

Chapter 1213

"Report, the fleet has been bombed and is returning!" A general entered the office and reported to Marshal Albert Kesselring and Marshal Edward Milch.

Since the departure of the fleet, the two of them have been waiting for the results in the office. After all, this was the first round of strategic bombing launched by the Luftwaffe. They are all very much looking forward to the results of this strategic bombing. Whether the expected results can be achieved, how much will be lost, will the gains outweigh the losses, and so on.

"Has the target been destroyed?" Marshal Edward Milch asked.

"The Russian aircraft factory in Kazan has been destroyed. Most of the Kazan city area has become a ruin. After assessment, the targets there have been completely destroyed. The Russians have been unable to reuse the aircraft in a short period of time." The factory is gone," said the general.

Marshal Albert Kesselring nodded with satisfaction: "In this case, if the Russian Yak-1 fighter wants to enter service, I am afraid that it will have to be postponed for a while. And we can use this time to continue Launch a strategic bombing campaign against Burundi and Russia to attack their industrial strength and weaken their war potential."

The Russian Yak-1 fighter is the only fighter that can pose a threat to Germany's strategic bombers. The ceilings of other fighter jets are all below 9,000 meters, and they cannot threaten the German heavy bomber fleet at an altitude of 10,000 meters. In this case, the risk factor is undoubtedly much lower when conducting strategic bombing.

"How about our loss?" Marshal Albert Kesselring then asked.

"Your Excellency Marshal, in this round of bombing, we lost seven H-11 heavy bombers and two H-21 heavy bombers, as well as 12 BF-110 fighter jets. In addition, during the battle, our **** fighter jets also shot down More than 300 P-40 fighter jets from the Russians." The general continued.

"Although the loss is not small, the result is greater. This time the strategic bombing was a complete success!" Marshal Albert Kesselring said.

"Yes, Your Excellency. With the loss of nine heavy bombers and 12 long-range fighters, the Russian aircraft factory was destroyed, and more than 300 fighters were also eliminated. This exchange ratio is already very good. said Marshal Edward Milch.

Not to mention, after this round of bombing, Bu Russia's latest Yak-1 fighter jet will have to be postponed, and the benefits arising from this will undoubtedly be very large.

"Let the pilots take a good rest and continue to launch strategic bombings against Bu Russia tomorrow. Try to use our strategic bombers to weaken the war potential of Bu Russia to the lowest point. In this way, we will defeat them more easily!" Al Field Marshal Bert Kesselring said.

Since strategic bombing can achieve such great results at the smallest cost. Then, strategic bombing will naturally continue. The more severely the industrial strength of Bu Russia is destroyed, the more beneficial it will be for Germany to defeat Bu Russia.

"Marshal Milch, let's go to the palace. His Majesty the Emperor must be waiting for our news." Marshal Albert Kesselring smiled. The Luftwaffe was established too late, and there were no impressive records. This makes them always at a disadvantage among the three major military services of land, sea and air. But this time, the Luftwaffe seems to have found a way to use their great strength. In this battle, they will rely on this tactic to attack the enemy and gain more military exploits.

Marshal Edward Milch nodded repeatedly, and after arranging other matters, he and Marshal Albert Kesselring drove to the Imperial Palace to meet Kaiser Qin Tian.

"Marshals, it seems that the strategic bombing has succeeded!" Qin Tian saw Marshals Albert Kesselring and Marshal Edward Milch walking into his office with smiles on their faces, and he already guessed the result. .

"Yes, Your Majesty. We have completely destroyed the Bu Russia factory in Kazan, and half of Kazan City has been blown up. In addition, the escorting fighter jets also shot down more than 300 P-40 fighter jets. This battle , We have won a complete victory!" Marshal Albert Kesselring said.

"Very good, this is a very good start." Qin Tian nodded in satisfaction.

The German Air Force has finally developed into a strategic air force. Relying on this powerful air force, the possibility of Germany defeating those powerful enemies in this battle is undoubtedly higher.

At least it will not make its homeland a place for strategic bombing by the Americans like Germany in another time and space. The outcome of the war will be changed once again.

"What about our losses?" Qin Tian asked.

"Nine heavy bombers were lost, including seven H-11 heavy bombers and two H-21 heavy bombers, all of which were shot down by ground anti-aircraft fire during the bombing. In addition, the escorting BF-110 fighter jets lost 12." Marshal Edward Milch said,

Qin Tian nodded, compared to the results obtained, such a loss is indeed not that big. Therefore, it can be seen that Germany's strategic bombing is undoubtedly very cost-effective.

"Do your best to rescue those pilots!" Qin Tian said.

On that day, Qin Tian also knew that those pilots were probably close to death. Bu Russia, who suffered heavy losses, will definitely vent his anger on those pilots. In this cruel war, the so-called "Geneva Convention" and human rights have no effect at all.

"Yes, Your Majesty." Marshal Albert Kesselring and Marshal Edward Milch nodded.

"I will let the intelligence department find a way to help the Air Force rescue those pilots." Qin Tian continued.

But even so, Marshal Albert Kesselring and Edward Milch did not have much hope for this report. After all, the place where they were shot down was far away from the combat zone and belonged to the hinterland of Bu Russia. Not even special forces can penetrate that far.

"The strategic bombing of Bu Russia will continue. Until we completely destroy Bu Russia!" Qin Tian said.

As long as the Luftwaffe's strategic bombing can continue to destroy Russian factories, especially those military industrial enterprises, Germany's advantages in the war will become greater and greater. In this way, Germany will be able to defeat Bu Russia at a lower cost in the next war and win the victory in the European battlefield.

"Yes, Your Majesty." Marshal Albert Kesselring and Marshal Edward Milch replied.

The next day, the German Air Force once again dispatched thousands of heavy bombers to destroy Nizhny Novgorod.

From here on, German strategic bombing will continue as long as the weather permits.

Chapter 1214

Washington, America.

The Russian representative in the United States has just conveyed the request from the Russian side to the United States. This time, Bu Russia hopes that the United States can provide Bu Russia with a batch of air defense warning radars, large-caliber anti-aircraft guns, fighter jets more advanced than P-40 fighter jets, and so on.

U.S. Secretary of State Hull did not immediately respond to the request made by the Russian representative, but told him that he would report to the president.

"Your Excellency, representatives of Bu-Russia claimed that they were being bombed by the Germans on a large scale. The Germans dispatched a large number of strategic bombers to bomb the rear cities of Bu-Russia. Many factories were destroyed by the bombing of the Germans, including many An important arsenal. Facing the Germans' long-distance drive, the Russian Air Force has no choice but to ask us for help again." Hull said.

President Roosevelt frowned tightly, and Germany's attacks on Bu Russia became more and more violent. This made Bu Russia almost unable to hold on under the attack of Germany, and kept asking the United States for help. Although the United States is rich and powerful, they also need to prepare for war! If this continues, even they may not be able to hold on.

"Is the German strategic bombing very powerful?" President Roosevelt asked.

"Yes, Your Excellency. From the information we have received, it seems that the Germans are really using this method to attack Bu Russia. For each strategic bombing, the Germans will dispatch thousands of heavy bombers, hundreds of Escorted by long-range fighter jets, they directly bombed important cities in the hinterland of Bu Russia. Under such bombing by the Germans, almost all the cities of Bu Russia could be destroyed." said General Arnold, commander of the U.S. Army Air Corps .

"As more and more cities are destroyed by the German strategic bombing, the military strength of Bu Russia will continue to be weakened. At that time, the war potential of Bu Russia will inevitably drop to the lowest point. If Bu Russia finally If they are reduced to the point where they have no way to maintain their war consumption and can only rely on our blood transfusion, I am afraid they will not be able to last much time in the war. At that time, it will be easy for the Germans to defeat Bu Russia. This is for us It is also very unfavorable." Admiral George Marshall also said.

"It seems that the Germans' application of aircraft, especially heavy bombers, has once again come ahead of us!" President Roosevelt said.

Admiral Marshall and Admiral Arnold nodded again and again, although unwilling to admit it, this is the fact. The U.S. Army Air Force is also equipped with a lot of B-17 fighter jets, and the more powerful B-24 bomber is about to go into mass production. But they didn't know that heavy bombers could be used in this way. Judging from the strategic bombing effect of the Luftwaffe, these heavy bombers are undoubtedly very powerful in strategic bombing.

"So, do we have a way to target this kind of strategic bombing against the Germans?" President Roosevelt asked.

Since the German Air Force can carry out strategic bombing against Russia, it seems to mean that they can also carry out strategic bombing against the United States.

"Your Excellency, it is very difficult for the Germans to carry out strategic bombing on us. After all, we are separated from Germany by the Atlantic Ocean. The German heavy bombers do not have the ability to bomb the United States across the Atlantic Ocean. Even if they can barely fly to the United States There is no way to fly back to the mainland. There are no airfields around the United States that can be used by Germany. Therefore, it is impossible for the Germans to launch a strategic bombing against us." Admiral Arnold explained.

This explanation made President Roosevelt breathe a sigh of relief. He was also really afraid that the United States would be strategically bombed by Germany. In that case, the consequences would be more serious.

"So, can we also carry out strategic bombing of Germany?" President Roosevelt asked. If the U.S. Army Air Force can also carry out strategic bombing of the German mainland, then their confidence in defeating Germany may be greater.

"Your Excellency, this is also very difficult. Although our B-17 bomber is also a heavy bomber. But we did not produce many such heavy bombers before. Judging from the use of the Germans, heavy bombers need to be used in large numbers to be able to play the best role. Therefore, next we have to further increase the order of heavy bombers. In addition, the maximum range of the B-17 bomber is only more than 2,900 kilometers. If there is no safe air force around Germany base, we simply have no way to launch a strategic bombing of the Germans." Admiral Arnold said.

"Maybe we can use the Russian airport. If we officially declare war on Germany, we can send a large number of heavy bombers to Bu Russia and use their airport to bomb the German mainland!" Admiral George Marshall said.

President Roosevelt couldn't help but shine, this is undoubtedly a good way to attack Germany.

"Your Excellency, the Germans have a strong fighter force. Even if they can use the airport in Bu Russia to launch air strikes on the German mainland, they will definitely be intercepted by German fighter jets. At that time, whether they can break through the German fighter jets interception is still very hard to say." Admiral Arnold did not report much hope for this. After all, the fighter jets that the Germans are now equipped with are too advanced in performance. The main P-40 fighter jets of the U.S. Army Air Forces were completely killed by German fighter jets.

"Even if the effect will not be too great, as long as we can drop the bombs on the German mainland and on the heads of the Germans, this will be a rare victory. This will be a huge blow to the morale of other countries that oppose Germany." Great motivation. Even, we may be able to use Russia's air force bases to attack German oil fields in the Middle East. Bu Russia's own aircraft, the range is too short. But if it is our heavy bomber, it may be able to Got it," said President Roosevelt.

Before the Russians formed the Caucasus Front Army, trying to take the Middle East, or destroy Germany's oil fields in the Middle East, but ended in failure. If the United States can destroy Germany's oil fields in the Middle East after entering the war, it will also be very helpful for them to win the war.

Admiral Marshall and Admiral Arnold nodded again and again. They both knew that President Roosevelt might be interested in strategic bombing. After the United States enters the war, maybe they will really be asked to do that.

"From now on, increase the production of heavy bombers. I hope that after the war breaks out, we will have enough heavy bombers to deal with the Germans!" President Roosevelt said.

"Yes, Mr. President."

Chapter 1215

The industrial strength of the United States, although surpassed by Germany, which has integrated more than half of Europe, is still very strong. Once the industrial strength of the entire United States begins to serve the war, it will be very amazing when it breaks out.

As the time for the United States to enter the war is approaching, the entire United States is about to enter a wartime state. At that time, everything will serve to win the war. This will make the military strength of the United States continue to rise.

"Your Excellency, the German strategic bombing is causing further blows to Bu Russia. Judging from the current situation, Bu Russia has no way to deal with Germany's strategic attack. We must find a way to help Bu Russia, no it can make them fail. Otherwise, Germany will win the European battlefield, which will be very detrimental to us!" Secretary of State Hull reminded.

President Roosevelt nodded. Although Bu Russia did not perform very well in this war, they had at least four million more fierce German troops. If the servant army dispatched by Germany is included, more than three million people have to be added to this number. Once Bu Russia is defeated and destroyed by Germany, Germany will be able to release millions of troops. No matter which battlefield these troops are put into, it will be very detrimental to the United States. Therefore, the U.S. government undoubtedly hopes that Bu Russia can persevere. In that case, at least they will not be under so much pressure on the future battlefield.

"Is there any way to help Bu Russia?" President Roosevelt asked. He certainly hopes that Bu Russia can hold on under the fierce German attack. For this reason, the US government should naturally provide more support and assistance to Bu Russia.

"The Russian government hopes that we will provide them with a batch of air defense early warning radars so that they can be detected in advance when the Germans launch a bombing. Radar for actual combat. We can provide them with a batch. In this way, at least we can buy more reaction time for the Russian side!" Admiral Arnold said.

"How is our radar in terms of performance?" President Roosevelt asked suddenly. He had never paid attention to this aspect before.

"The performance of our radar is not bad. The search range of the large-scale air-to-air radar used by the ground and the navy can reach more than 200 kilometers. However, Germany is still at the forefront of this field. According to what we got Intelligence, the Germans have started research in this area after the end of the last world war. After more than 20 years of research and development, their achievements in this area far exceed ours. However, we are also rising Catching up. Especially our scientists are cooperating with British scientists, making our progress in this field very fast." Admiral Arnold continued.

When the British government fled to Canada, it also took away many outstanding scientists. Coupled with the background of the United Kingdom itself, they still have unique achievements in technology. At least, it is much stronger than the United States. After the comprehensive cooperation between the UK and the US, the field of science and technology is also the focus of cooperation. This has enabled the United States to achieve rapid development in the high-tech field in these years. But even so, compared with Germany, there is still a big gap.

"It seems that we are far behind the Germans in many aspects! This makes it even more difficult for us to defeat Germany!" President Roosevelt sighed.

Other senior American officials and generals nodded repeatedly. It has only been more than three months since the war broke out, and the new weapons used by Germany in the war are dazzling. This has also made other countries deeply aware of the gap with Germany. Especially in the field of aviation, the new German fighters are completely capable of hitting other countries. It is undoubtedly very difficult to compete with Germany in this regard.

"Gentlemen, our enemy is very strong. However, we must not be discouraged. I believe that we will be able to defeat Germany. In the early days of this war, the Germans did have a great advantage. It has just begun. The final outcome is still hard to say. God will bless the American Republic, and we will definitely win!" President Roosevelt said.

Although the strength of Germany made him feel a lot of pressure, even so, he couldn't show no confidence. In that case, it will inevitably affect other people. Once everyone is discouraged, how can they fight the Germans? Just admit defeat.

Of course, if the United States admits defeat, this battle may be over. But unfortunately, it is impossible for the Americans to admit defeat. As a powerful country second only to Germany, the Germans regard the United States as their great enemy. Kaiser Wilhelm III, in particular, believed that the United States would threaten Germany's hegemony. Therefore, if you don't completely defeat the United States, you will never let it go. And if the United States does not want to be dismembered by Germany, they can only stand up and resist. This makes the contradiction between the two countries impossible to reconcile at all.

War has become the best way to solve the problem. The winner decides everything. The loser is at the mercy of others.

"Yes, Your Excellency. Although the Germans are strong, we are not weak. Especially when their enemy is more than us, we are entirely likely to defeat them in future wars." Secretary of State Hull said.

"Your Excellency, Secretary of State, how should we respond to other requests from the Russian government?" President Roosevelt asked.

"The Russian government wants us to provide them with a batch of aircraft engines. This is not a problem. But the only thing to worry about is that the Russian imitation ability is very strong. At that time, they will definitely copy our technology." Admiral Arnold reminded.

President Roosevelt thought for a while, then nodded: "If we provide technology to the Russian government, some people will definitely be dissatisfied. But if they imitate it themselves, let them go. The role of Russia in this war is still too big to allow them to be easily defeated by the Germans. It is no big deal to let them take advantage of some small places."

"Yes, Your Excellency the President." Admiral Arnold said nothing more.

Although the performance of the current fighter jets of the United States is much inferior to that of Germany, they are still very strong in the field of engines. Especially after combining British technology, it is not much worse than Germany.

Chapter 1216

"Your Excellency, the Russian government also hopes that we can provide them with a batch of advanced fighter jets. Judging from the performance on the battlefield, the P-40 fighter jets are no match for the Germans at all." Secretary of State Hull continued.

Admiral Arnold's face is a bit ugly, the P-40 fighter is the well-deserved main fighter of the US Army Air Forces. Of course, the performance of the P-40 fighter jets is not as good as that of the Luftwaffe fighter jets, which is also well known.

"During the German Air Force's strategic bombing of Bu Russia, the Bu Russian Air Force dispatched P-40 fighter jets to intercept it. Unfortunately, the P-40 fighter jets were powerless against the German bomber fleet flying at an altitude of 10,000 meters. Then The **** fighter jets of the Luftwaffe launched an attack on the Russian Air Force, and our P-40 fighter jets performed very badly during the battle, and were almost at the point of being massacred by the Luftwaffe." Secretary of State Hull continued.

Admiral Arnold's complexion at the moment is as dark as the bottom of a pot. The P-40 fighter jets were easily slaughtered by the Luftwaffe on the Russian battlefield, which made him, the commander of the air force, very shameless. Because this seems to mean that once the U.S. Army Air Force fights against the German Air Force, the P-40 fighter jets driven by their pilots will also be easily slaughtered by the Germans.

"General Arnold, do we have more powerful fighters?" President Roosevelt asked.

"Your Excellency, the Air Force currently has two fighters undergoing test flights. One is a heavy fighter, code-named P-47. The other is a long-range fighter, code-named P-51. The performance of these two fighters is not comparable to The BF-109 fighter jets that the Germans are currently equipped with are inferior, and can even rival their FW-190 fighter jets. However, it will take time before they can be mass-produced." Admiral Arnold said.

President Roosevelt is obviously very interested in these two fighter jets. After all, I have learned that the performance of the P-40 fighter jet is very unbearable. If they can have fighter jets that can rival the advanced fighter jets of the Germans, they may not be so embarrassed in future wars.

"When will these two fighters be available for service?" President Roosevelt asked.

"Your Excellency, these two fighters have just begun test flights. It is expected that they will not be mass-produced until next year." Admiral Arnold said.

"Next year, no, it's too late!" President Roosevelt shook his head.

Because Germany was also very strong in this war, President Roosevelt has decided to join the war ahead of schedule. At the earliest, the United States may join the war in the second half of this year. At that time, the United States urgently needs an advanced fighter that can compete with Germany.

The reason for this urgency is because the U.S. government does not want to make the same mistakes as the last world war. In the last world war, the Americans tried to sit on the mountain and watch the tigers fight, and wait until Germany and Britain and France were both defeated before they came forward to clean up the mess, so as to obtain the greatest benefits at the smallest cost. But unfortunately, Germany's performance in the war exceeded their expectations, so that the United States was not ready for war, and Germany had already established the victory, which made the United States lose its pre-emptive conditions for participating in the war. In the end, I had to watch Germany win the World War and become the world's hegemon.

This time, it was the same. Although the United States secretly provided support to Bu Russia behind the scenes, and asked the island countries to join the war as soon as possible. But they also worried that the strong military power shown by Germany would soon defeat Bu Russia. Once Bu Russia is defeated and Germany dominates the entire European continent, I am afraid that no country can threaten Germany. At that time, the United States will be on the defensive during the war, passively waiting for Germany's attack. Germany can completely defeat other countries step by step, get rid of the helpers of the United States, and then launch an attack on the United States.

In the end, the United States, which is fighting alone, obviously cannot be the opponent of Germany, which controls most of the world. Therefore, if the United States wants to win this world war, it must participate in the war at the most suitable time. It is impossible to wait for Germany to enter the war after establishing a victory like the previous world war. In that case, they will only hand over the victory to the Germans.

Admiral Arnold immediately felt strong pressure: "Your Excellency, I understand. Next, I will ask them to conduct intensive test flights and serve as soon as possible."

Of course, this will increase the development cost of the aircraft. But it is related to the victory or defeat of the country in future wars, and no one will care about the cost. As long as the war can be won, no matter how much the price is paid, it is worth it.

"Gentlemen, is there anything we can do to support Bu Russia?" President Roosevelt asked.

Supporting Bu Russia and allowing Bu Russia to persist in the war is also very beneficial to the United States. Therefore, the U.S. government must do its best to allow Bu Russia to persist under the powerful German attack.

"Your Excellency, it is already January, and there is not much time left until the island country promised to join the war. We must urge the island country government to make them fulfill their promise! If the island country can attack Southeast Asia and Australia with all its strength, it can to a certain extent, the pressure on Bu Russia will be eased. At least, the Germans will be in a two-front battle." Hopkins consultant said.

President Roosevelt nodded: "Once again, I urge the islanders to remember what kind of promise they made. Before the end of this month, they must go to war against the Germans!"

"Yes, Your Excellency. I plan to go to the island country in three days and have a meeting with the island country government." Hopkins said.

Roosevelt has no objection to this, Hopkins is his most important adviser, and his visit to the island country will undoubtedly represent his attitude. I believe that on this issue, the government of the island country will no longer shirk. Because they have no way out.

"Your Excellency, the Russian Air Force has suffered heavy losses under the attack of the German Air Force. The number of pilots has also been severely reduced. Bu Russia hopes that we can send a group of pilots to reinforce them." Secretary of State Hull continued.

"Send pilots to fight? We haven't declared war on Germany now. If we send pilots directly to fight, I'm afraid it won't be very good." President Roosevelt frowned.

"Your Excellency, we can change the method, let some pilots retire, and then the Bu-Russian government will hire them. Let them go to Bu-Russia to fight. In this way, not only can we support Bu-Russia, but also allow our pilots to be on the battlefield. Have a deep understanding of the strength of the Luftwaffe and provide us with more information in this regard." Admiral George Marshall said.

President Roosevelt thought about it and approved the plan.

Chapter 1217

The heavy snow like goose feathers fluttered, and the whole earth was covered with thick snow. The road through the edge of the forest became very muddy due to being run over by truck tires. Snow water and mud mixed together, it was dark and dirty.

This is the Eastern European Plain, which originally belonged to Russia. However, when Germany went to war against Bu Russia and the Bu Russia army was severely damaged, they had to withdraw from the west of Bu Russia, making such a large area of territory a German-controlled area. At the same time, the Russians living in this area have also become subjugated slaves.

At the edge of the forest, less than 50 meters away from the road, the originally calm ground suddenly moved. A young man covered in thick snow got up from the ground. His body, head, even his eyebrows and beard were all covered with white snow, and his whole body completely merged with the surrounding snow. If you didn't look carefully, you wouldn't be able to tell the difference at all.

"Damn, why haven't the Germans come yet? If this continues, we will be frozen before the Germans come!" the young man said angrily.

In the snow not far from him, a head popped up. It was a middle-aged man hiding here.

"Okay, Ivan, the information says that a German convoy will definitely pass by this morning. We just have to wait patiently." The middle-aged man said.

"Yes, Uncle Vasily." The young man named Ivan said.

More and more people came out of the snow. These people were guerrillas operating in the forest. In order to fight against the German army, it caused more casualties to the Germans. Bu Russia specially sent people to organize a large number of guerrillas in the occupied areas. Most of these guerrillas are composed of rout soldiers and ordinary people. They lack weapons, especially heavy weapons such as machine guns, and their combat effectiveness is not strong. However, their special attacks on transportation lines or supply points forced the German army and its allies to allocate a large number of troops to protect the transportation lines and at the same time encircle and suppress these guerrillas. Otherwise, the supply of the front line will be greatly affected.

Winter is coming, and the life of these guerrillas is getting more and more difficult. They hid in the mountains or in the forest. When there was no food, they could only attack around and attack the German supply line so that they could grab food or clothing for the winter. Otherwise, it would be impossible for them to survive the cold winter.

The German army also seized this opportunity and dispatched elite reconnaissance troops and special forces to encircle and suppress these guerrillas. Even if these guerrillas cannot be completely eliminated, at least their threat must be minimized. In this case, it will not have too much impact on the large-scale offensive after the arrival of spring.

Qin Tian didn't want his troops to attack Bu Russia, and the occupied area would be threatened by the vast Bu-Russian guerrillas. In that case, the strength of the German army will be greatly restrained. If you want to win the war, you may have to pay a higher price.

"Uncle Vasily, there is not much food in the village. After we robbed the German convoy, can we send some food to the village? Otherwise, people in the village will starve to death." Ivan said.

Vasily hesitated for a moment, and then said: "After the battle is over, I will report to the instructor comrade."

Not long after, a stumbling Russian ran out of the forest.

"Here we come, the Germans are coming. Seven trucks! We can pass here in 20 minutes at most!" The person who came was the scout of the guerrillas. He hid on a big tree in the forest and used a telescope to discover the German supply convoy ahead of time.

"Attention everyone, prepare to fight!" Vasily immediately gave the order.

The guerrillas lying in the snow were all focused and ready to fight. Although there are hundreds of people in this guerrilla team, almost all of them are rifles, except for one light machine gun. At most there are some grenades. If such a force fights recklessly with the German field troops, a single platoon of the German army can eliminate them all.

Time passed bit by bit, and soon a German convoy appeared on the road in the distance.

Seven trucks are driving on the muddy road with difficulty. These trucks are loaded with some food and clothing, which are transported to a military depot hundreds of kilometers away. A company of troops was stationed there, dedicated to protecting the supply lines.

In each truck, besides a driver, there are two soldiers.

The weather is cold, the temperature in the cab is a little higher, and the soldiers except the driver are a little drowsy. Perhaps these German soldiers did not expect that the Russians would ambush them in such cold weather.

"Boom!"

Suddenly, a truck driving at the front was blown up. This was a landmine buried by the guerrillas on the road.

The explosion woke up the Germans on other trucks, and they immediately opened the doors and got out of the trucks to prepare for battle.

"hit!"

Vasily gave the order to fire, and the guerrillas who had been ready for a long time began to shoot.

"Bang! Bang! Bang!"

The rifle started to fire, and the crisp gunshots spread far in the snow.

"Da da da!"

The guerrilla's only machine gun also fired.

Some German soldiers who were about to get off the car were hit on the spot and fell in the snow, dead dead. Blood flowed from their bodies, leaving a shocking red on the snow.

"Bang! Bang! Bang!"

The rest of the German soldiers, relying on trucks, started firing at the guerrillas. At the same time, ask your superiors for support.

"We are the No. 112 supply convoy. We have been attacked by Russian guerrillas. The location is ***, requesting reinforcements!" The signaler is in contact with other German troops.

"Come on! Kill those Russians!" Vasily ordered.

Hundreds of guerrillas lying on the ground bravely rushed to the road.

"Puff! Puff!"

The marksmanship of the German soldiers is obviously much better than that of these guerrillas. Many guerrillas were shot and fell to the ground.

These guerrillas, except for a small number of routs, are mostly farmers. Before joining the guerrillas, they did not undergo formal training, which made them rely more on courage when fighting. Of course, this also makes their casualties on the battlefield very large.

"Da da da!"

A light machine gun started to fire at these guerrillas frantically, causing the attacking guerrillas to suffer heavy casualties. But even so, those guerrillas still charged bravely.

Chapter 1218

"Damn it, this German convoy actually has machine guns?" Vasily's face was so dark that it seemed to be the bottom of the pot.

Watching the guerrillas stumbling towards the road, and then being shot by the Germans, his heart felt as if bleeding. These are their brave guerrillas! It is a pity that he was killed by the Germans like this.

"Uncle Vasily, what should we do? The Germans' firepower is too strong." Ivan's face was full of panic that could not be concealed.

He was just an ordinary farmer, when did he experience such a fierce battle. He was also frightened when he saw his comrades fall one by one.

"Ivan, take some people and go around to the other side of the road to attack the Germans." Vasily ordered.

"What? Uncle Vasily, you let me go?" Ivan was frightened. No matter how you look at it, this is a narrow escape!

"Why don't you let someone else go?" Ivan was obviously frightened.

"Coward! You guy, do you want to disobey the order? If you succeed, I can send a bag of wheat to Elena's house!" Vasily said.

Ivan hesitated for a moment, then nodded: "Okay, I'll take someone there right away. Uncle Vasily, remember what you said!"

Irina is Ivan's girlfriend in the village, and his parents have died in the war. Therefore, Elena and her family have become his only relatives.

Because of the war, every household in the village is short of food. If an extra sack of wheat can be obtained for Elena's family, maybe they can survive this cold winter. For this reason, Ivan is willing to risk his life.

The battle has entered a stalemate. Although the number of guerrillas is large, their combat effectiveness is too bad. In addition, the German army also had machine guns, which made the guerrillas suppressed on the icy snow. German soldiers, hiding behind trucks, are clearing these guerrillas with precise marksmanship. Although they are small in number, if they are lucky, they may really be able to clean up these guerrillas.

Of course, if you're lucky, you might be able to hold on until reinforcements arrive. In that case, they are saved.

On the other side, Ivan was leading some guerrillas, stumbling and running on the snow. In order not to let the German army find out, they had to make a big circle on the snow. This is a huge test for the physical strength of the guerrillas. Many people are already tired and out of breath.

"Hurry up, hurry up! The Germans are shooting our teammates." Ivan urged.

The longer it drags on, the worse it will be for the guerrillas. Once the German reinforcements arrive, the consequences will be even more serious. At that time, not only will they not be able to grab the supplies from the Germans, but they may even take them all in.

Ten minutes later, the guerrillas led by Ivan made a detour to the other side of the road.

Ivan lay on the ground, aiming the rifle in his hand at the German machine gunner who was firing. "boom!"

The gunshot sounded, the machine gunner was shot in the back of his heart, and the whole person fell to the ground without a sound.

The guerrillas led by Ivan also shot one after another.

The rear was attacked by the enemy, which made the German army a bit chaotic.

"Good job! Ivan and the others succeeded! Charge!" Vasily shouted happily.

The originally suppressed guerrillas jumped out of the snow and rushed towards the road.

Under the attack of the guerrillas on both sides, although these German soldiers were very heroic, they were still outnumbered.

"Surrender, I surrender!" Seeing that all his comrades around him were dead, a young German soldier quickly threw away his rifle and raised his hand to surrender.

Ivan walked up to the surrendered German soldier and looked at him with contempt.

"Bah! Damn Germans! You killed so many of us and want to surrender, it's too cheap for you, right?" Ivan stabbed the German soldier fiercely with the bayonet-tipped rifle in his hand.

The bayonet pierced the German soldier's chest, and the screams sounded immediately.

When Ivan pulled out the bayonet, blood spurted out, all over his face. However, Ivan didn't care.

Other guerrillas climbed into those trucks and moved out the supplies transported inside.

Bags of flour, and cans, and some winter clothes.

"Haha, a lot of food, enough for us to eat for several months."

"God! There are still cans of beef, these Germans are living too well, right?"

"Whoever has a cotton coat, give me one quickly. This **** weather is really too cold."

The guerrillas cleaned the battlefield with smiles on their faces. The supplies found in these trucks will be life-saving winter supplies for them.

"Okay, everyone, move these materials away quickly. Otherwise, it will be too late!" Vasily also showed a smile on his face.

Although, in this battle, the loss was a bit big. But somehow they won. After these materials are brought back, it is enough for the guerrillas to survive this winter. They can even use the captured weapons to recruit more people to further strengthen their strength.

Several sleds were pulled out of the forest, and the guerrillas moved the supplies from the trucks to the sleds and transported them to the stronghold deep in the forest.

Soon, all supplies were taken away. The guerrillas also quickly withdrew from the area.

The heavy snow covered all the traces they left very well, which made them not worry about being chased by the Germans to find them.

It was not until more than an hour later that the German reinforcements arrived here.

Two tracked armored combat vehicles and five half-tracked armored personnel carriers arrived at the site of the attack.

The German officers and soldiers wearing thick winter clothes got off the armored vehicles. A captain officer in the lead looked at the destroyed truck and the soldiers who had been killed with a livid face.

The guerrillas not only killed these soldiers, but even stripped them of their clothes, not even their underwear. It can be seen how clean these guerrillas have cleaned the battlefield.

"Sir, all the supplies have been removed by the Russians. Judging from the analysis of the situation, they have retreated into the forest. However, the heavy snow has covered all their traces, and there is no way to continue the pursuit." A The second lieutenant officer reported.

The captain officer nodded. He was very angry with the frozen and blue corpses of German soldiers. He wished he could kill all those Russian guerrillas.

Chapter 1219

"Call the battalion headquarters, we need reinforcements. The size of the Russian guerrillas will not be too small. Otherwise, they will not wipe out the entire transport team in a short time." The captain officer ordered.

They belong to the reconnaissance battalion of the 27th Infantry Division of the German Army's 3rd Army. This captain officer is the commander of the 2nd company of the battalion, named Franz. When the Russian partisans attacked the convoy, he happened to be leading people on a cruise not far from here. However, he arrived immediately after receiving the order for reinforcements. But I didn't expect it to be too late.

"Yes, sir!" The communications soldier immediately contacted the battalion headquarters, requesting reinforcements.

Soon, the signaler reported to Captain Franz.

"Sir, the battalion headquarters agreed to reinforce us. The other troops of our company are on their way. In addition, the 3rd company will also arrive, and it is expected to arrive tomorrow afternoon. In addition, a small group of the special forces of the group army, It will come tomorrow, too," said the signal soldier.

"The special forces of the group army? They will come too?" Captain Franz felt a little incredible.

You know, the special forces to which the group army belongs are the most elite troops in the whole group army. There are not many people, only more than three hundred people. But the commander was a colonel. The members of these special forces are all selected from the scouts of the subordinate ministries. They are equipped with the best weapons, but also receive the most rigorous training, making them truly the true king of soldiers.

However, the area where special forces operate is often the battlefield behind enemy lines. They spied on the enemy's intelligence, attacked the enemy's headquarters and important strongholds, or traffic nodes, etc., and strongly supported the frontal battlefield.

The guerrillas who encircled and suppressed the Russians before were all in charge of the reconnaissance troops. Now, there are special forces involved. It can be seen that the top German army is very dissatisfied with these increasingly active guerrillas. Began to make up my mind to use strong troops to get rid of them.

Captain Franz also signed up for the special forces, but unfortunately he was not selected. Therefore, he is still in the investigation team. But he was quite satisfied with being the company commander of the reconnaissance company. I don't think I'm worse than those special forces.

The next day, other German reinforcements arrived. At the same time, a team of special forces also arrived. There are only more than twenty special forces in this team. But the way they arrived on the battlefield made the other scouts very envious. Because they came by helicopter.

This is the first helicopter officially equipped by the German Army, code-named Cold Wind. Each helicopter can carry five soldiers in addition to the pilot and co-pilot. Moreover, in addition to a 12.7mm heavy machine gun installed in the front of the helicopter, rocket launchers are also installed on both sides. If the hatch is open, a 7.62mm heavy machine gun mounted there can also be used to pour firepower on the ground. It can be said that the firepower is very powerful. At the bottom of the helicopter and key parts such as the fuel tank, steel plates are also installed to resist the shooting of machine guns and further improve the survivability.

Of course, even so, these helicopters have been damaged a lot since they entered service. Except for a small number that were destroyed by ground fire on the battlefield, many were destroyed due to mechanical failure.

Because the helicopter's flying altitude is too low, if an accident occurs, the crew on it often has absolutely no way to survive. This also makes every flight of the helicopter crew risk their lives. But even so, helicopters have become the favorite means of transportation for special forces. They are very satisfied with this fast and concealed way of breaking in.

A major officer got off the helicopter, and Captain Franz and Captain Adam, the commander of the 3rd company, hurried up to meet him.

"Sir, Commander Franz of the 2nd Company of the Reconnaissance Battalion of the 27th Infantry Division (Commander of the 3rd Company Adam) reports to you!" Captain Franz and Captain Adam saluted.

The major officer returned a salute: "My name is Schultz, and you follow my command from now on."

Although the other party's arrogant attitude made Captain Franz and Captain Adam a little dissatisfied, they still obeyed the other party's orders. Because this is an order from their superiors, requiring them to fully cooperate with the special forces to encircle and suppress the Russian guerrillas.

"Yes, sir!" Captain Franz and Captain Adam both replied.

"Have you found anything now?" Major Schultz asked.

"Sir, those guerrillas should be hiding deep in the forest. However, this forest is too big, covering thousands of square kilometers. It is very difficult to find them, especially in the current weather. nasty," said Captain Franz.

Major Schultz nodded, on the plains of Eastern Europe, the forest is dense. Those guerrillas avoided the encirclement and suppression of the German army by establishing strongholds in the forest. After attacking the German supply line, he fled into the forest. It is undoubtedly very difficult to play hide-and-seek with the guerrillas in the forest in the cold winter. This also added a lot of trouble for the German army to encircle and suppress the guerrillas.

However, no matter how troublesome it is, these guerrillas must be cleaned up. Otherwise, they will be like blood-sucking worms, wiping out Germany's vital forces little by little. That would be very detrimental to Germany in this war.

"The size of this guerrilla group is at least more than one hundred people, or even around two hundred people. Their combat effectiveness is not strong. If we confront us head-on, we can easily eliminate them. However, the most troublesome thing now is that it is very difficult Find them." Captain Adam also said.

Major Schultz's eyes fell on the map.

"Is this village the only one near the forest?" Major Schultz asked.

"Yes, sir. This is the only village near the forest, and the other villages are far from the forest." Captain Franz said.

"Very well, then let's go to that village. I believe that we will be able to get the clues we want there." Major Schultz said.

As the village closest to the forest, there is no doubt that the village must have connections with the guerrillas in the forest. However, because there is no definite evidence, the German army has never attacked the village.

However, now the top German army is determined to clean up these guerrillas. Then, some of the previous concerns don't care about it at all. In order to wipe out those guerrillas, it seems acceptable to cause more casualties.

Captain Franz and Captain Adam both understood what Major Schultz meant. However, none of them objected.

Chapter 1220

Ipoka Village is an ordinary small village in western Russia. After the German army captured the vast area west of Smolensk, it became an occupied area. The Russians living here live very poorly. Although the German army did not plunder their food, the food harvest caused by the war made many Russians hungry and could only survive on wild vegetables.

Especially in the cold winter, many families are unable to sustain themselves, and have even run out of food. Under such circumstances, the guerrillas brought food to the village to recruit people, and many young people left with the guerrillas. Most of the rest in the village are old people and children.

This afternoon, the tranquility of Ipoka Village was shattered. On the outskirts of the village, a large number of German troops appeared. They surrounded the village. Even at the intersection, there are German armored combat vehicles and armored personnel carriers guarding.

The Russians in the village were terrified, they were worried that the vicious German army would attack them.

After all, in the propaganda of the Russian government and the guerrillas, the German army is the devil who does all kinds of evil, which makes many Russians very afraid of these German soldiers.

Driven by the German army, the people in the whole village were gathered together.

"Sir, we are all ordinary civilians!" An old man with a gray beard was all smiles.

"Who are you?" Major Schultz asked.

"I am the village head of the village. I don't know if the chief came to our village. What's the matter? There is no food in our village." The village head said. He was afraid that these Germans had come to rob them of food.

"No, no. We don't want your food. Or, if you cooperate, we can provide you with some food." Major Schultz said.

During the previous search, soldiers had already reported that many Russian families were almost unable to open their homes. And this gave Major Schultz a glimmer of hope. Perhaps, in this way, those guerrillas can be found out.

"Sir? What do you want from us?" asked the village chief. He believes that there will be no free lunch in the world. How could those Germans be so kind as to give them food?

"I know, you must know the news of the guerrillas in the forest. If you are willing to tell us the location of those guerrilla strongholds, then the food will be yours!" Major Schultz said.

The German soldiers carried out dozens of bags of flour.

When the Russians saw the flour, they couldn't help swallowing. They, who can't open the pot, are undoubtedly very eager for these flours. However, if you want them to betray the guerrillas, they still can't do it. Everyone's eyes fell on the village chief, as if it was up to him to make the decision.

"Sir, you are joking, we don't even know what guerrillas are? We are all good people!" The village chief laughed softly.

"It seems that you think there is too little flour. Let me decide. If you tell us about the guerrillas, I will send another 100 bags of flour within three days. These grains, it is enough for the people in your village to survive this winter." Major Schultz said.

However, the village chief and other villagers remained unmoved.

Seeing this situation, the smile on Major Schultz's face disappeared.

"Are you rejecting my kindness and unwilling to cooperate with us?" Major Schultz said coldly.

"Sir, we are really good citizens, and we don't know the news about the guerrillas!" The village chief still denied it.

"Come on, arrest them all!" Major Schultz ordered.

"what!"

The German army, like wolves and tigers, rushed towards the Russians. Horrified cries sounded immediately, and some Russians who wanted to resist were beaten. The **** of the gun hit their heads, and blood flowed profusely.

"Sir, we are all ordinary people, good citizens, you can't treat us like this!" the village head begged.

However, Major Schultz was unimpressed. The lives of these ordinary Russians were not taken seriously by him. His purpose is nothing more than to find out the hiding places of those guerrillas. If the Russians cooperate, they can let them go. However, since these people did not cooperate at all, he could only use the cruelest method.

The Russians in the village have all been arrested, and they will be interrogated one by one. The German army has plenty of ways to get news of those guerrillas out of their mouths.

Although, many Russians still refused to disclose the news of the guerrillas in the face of torture by the German army. However, not every Russian will be so strong.

Under the coercion and lure of the German army, some people who were not determined still confessed. Someone told the German Gaomi that there was a girl named Elena in the village, and her boyfriend was in the guerrillas.

Following this clue, Elena was arrested and brought to Major Schultz.

"Sir, he is Elena." Captain Franz said.

"Hello, beautiful girl. I want to know about your boyfriend Ivan. I know they are hiding in the forest. But I want to know where they are hiding. I hope you can tell me!" said Major Schultz.

"Bah!"

Major Schultz responded with a spit.

Major Schultz wiped the saliva off his face with a towel, and then his eyes turned cold.

"Come on, take her down!" Major Schultz ordered.

"Sir, what should we do now?" Captain Franz asked.

"Now that there are targets, I'm not afraid of them escaping again. At most, it's just a waste of time. Captain Franz, take your men to guard the village and be careful. Captain Adam's men, evacuate the village and set up defenses outside. We can wait until Miss Elena's lover comes to this village. At that time, we will naturally know the whereabouts of the guerrillas from his mouth." Major Schultz planned to come and wait for Elena. Wan Zi cast himself into the trap.

"Yes, sir!" Captain Franz immediately went to make arrangements.

Although, such an approach is a bit too despicable and shameless. But, this is war. As long as the purpose can be achieved, no one will care about the means.

"Sir, can that girl let the big guys play?" A special forces soldier asked.

"Of course! You can enjoy the women in the village. But don't kill that girl named Irina. After her lover arrives, we are still useful!" Grim smile.
