Chapter 1591

The Russian Air Force suffered heavy losses in the previous battles, and the main fighters and pilots were almost lost. Although the performance of the Yak-1 fighter jet produced by Russia itself is not bad. However, after a large number of factories were bombed, the production speed of Russian aircraft factories has dropped to only a few aircraft per month. This makes it difficult for the Russian Air Force to rebuild its strong combat power, let alone threaten Germany's huge bomber fleet. However, the Russian Air Force's air search radar is still in operation.

When the German Air Force fleet was only two hundred kilometers away from Chelyabinsk, it was discovered by the air search radar deployed in Chelyabinsk.

"Oh my God! I found the German fleet. There are so many planes, I don't know how many there are!" When the radar soldiers saw the densely packed light spots on the radar display screen, their scalps became numb.

"Damn it, the fleet that the Germans dispatched this time is too large. Look at the pilot, there are at least a thousand fighters!" An officer also looked nervous.

"Report to your superior immediately!" The officer at the radar station ordered.

When the news was sent to Marshal Shaposhnikov, Marshal Shaposhnikov immediately laughed. He knew that Andreyev foolishly rejected the conditions of the Germans, and the Germans would definitely not let it go. Well now, the Germans finally made their move. And it sent a large-scale fleet to retaliate so quickly.

"Comrade Marshal, is our air force going to take off to meet the enemy?" A general of the Russian Air Force asked.

"Idiot, how many fighter planes do we have? Even if we take off to meet the enemy, how effective will it be? It will probably be torn to pieces by the Germans. Pass this news to the members of the Politburo and let them decide for themselves!" Sha Marshal Boshnikov cursed.

Obviously, Marshal Shaposhnikov does not want to lose the power of the Air Force again. Facing the large-scale fleet of the German Air Force, if the remaining assets of the Russian Air Force dare to be dispatched, it will inevitably be a dead end.

"Yes, Comrade Marshal." The generals of the Russian Air Force immediately knew what to do.

The leaders of the Russian Provisional Government were all dumbfounded after receiving the report from the military. Although they expected it, they refused the Germans' conditions, which would anger the Germans. However, I did not expect that the Germans would react so strongly and would directly dispatch such a large fleet to retaliate against them.

"Bastard! How dare the Germans do this? Don't they worry that we will continue to fight them to the end? In that case, it will be equally detrimental to them!" Andreyev was furious.

"Comrade Andreev, what should we do now? According to the notification from the General Staff, the German fleet will arrive in the sky over Chelyabinsk in less than half an hour." Zhdanov and others A look of worry.

Andreyev was also very annoyed. Facing the huge fleet of the Luftwaffe, what could he do? He can't let him deal with those planes himself, can he?

"What about the Air Force? Why don't those guys take off to fight?" Andreyev asked.

"Comrade Andreyev, Comrade Shaposhnikov thinks that the air force is too weak, and if they take off to meet the enemy, they will hit the stone with a pebble. Therefore, the air force has been ordered to transfer." Kaganovich said.

"Asshole! Shaposhnikov is simply afraid of the enemy and avoiding war! It is because they are afraid of the Germans that we lost this war!" Andreyev was very angry.

But even if I say this again, it is useless now. The huge fleet of the Luftwaffe is about to arrive, and by then, the entire Chelyabinsk will be destroyed. This is undoubtedly a very big blow to the Russian Provisional Government.

Some leaders of the Russian provisional government regretted it even more. If I had known that the German counterattack was so violent, I shouldn't have rejected the German's conditions. Anyway, the Germans are the victors, and they have no way to refuse to slaughter them.

"Comrade Andreyev, let's go to the basement to hide first!"

"Yes, yes. First hide in the basement and escape this round of bombing by the Germans, and then think of a way."

Andreyev also had no choice but to nod helplessly. Obviously, saving one's own life is the most important thing now. Otherwise, once you lose your life in the bombing of the Germans, everything will be over.

The huge fleet of the German Air Force is getting closer and closer to Chelyabinsk. The whole city has fallen into chaos.

"Woo!" The air defense siren was roaring, and the Russians living in Chelyabinsk were scrambling to escape to the air-raid shelter to avoid the upcoming large-scale bombing by the Luftwaffe.

The faces of these Russians were full of horror, and everyone rushed to worry about the upcoming bombing by the Luftwaffe. I am afraid that they will be killed by the Germans during the bombing.

At 8:40 in the morning, a huge fleet of the Luftwaffe appeared over Chelyabinsk. For the German Air Force fleet, the Russian army did not have any counterattack. Under the orders of Marshal Shaposhnikov, the fighter planes of the Russian Air Force have been transferred. Those air defense soldiers also hid in the air-raid shelter. All air defense positions are empty. It can be said that the entire Chelyabinsk has no defense at all, just like a stripped beauty, presented naked in front of the German strategic air force.

"Attention all regiments, lower the altitude, and use the brigade as a unit to start bombing!" The commander of the German army ordered.

"Yes, General!"

The fighter planes of each bomber wing began to descend, preparing to bomb Chelyabinsk.

Originally, the German pilots were still cautious, preparing to avoid the attack of ground anti-aircraft fire. Those long-range fighter jets are also ready to suppress ground air defense firepower. However, when the altitude dropped to 1,000 meters, they were still not hit by any ground anti-aircraft firepower, which surprised the pilots of the Luftwaffe.

However, there is no interference from ground air defense firepower, which is a great thing for the German fleet. They can drop their bombs without interference or fear of being shot down by ground anti-aircraft fire.

"Start dropping bombs!"

After the order was issued, the magazine of the bomber was opened, and one after another bombs roared and hit the ground.

"Boom! Boom! Boom!"

The sound of the explosion sounded on the ground, and the buildings in Chelyabinsk were destroyed one after another during the explosion of the bomb.

Chapter 1592

"Whoo! Whoo! Whoo!"

Bombs fell from the sky one after another and exploded in the city of Chelyabinsk. One after another buildings were destroyed in the explosion. Houses were blown down and streets were reduced to rubble.

Facing the bombing of the Luftwaffe, the Russian army chose to remain silent and did not fight back. This provides a better opportunity for the Luftwaffe fleet, allowing them to launch attacks unscrupulously.

"What are the Russians doing? Are they really prepared to resist?" a German pilot muttered.

"It doesn't matter whether they resist or not. Anyway, the whole of Chelyabinsk will be turned into ruins!"

The first to start dropping bombs was the H-11 medium bomber. These bombers carry relatively few bombs, and at the same time have a short range, and the time in the air is not as good as that of the H-21 bomber. Therefore, after these H-11 medium bombers dropped their bombs, they began to return.

The H-21 heavy bomber is entering the bombing. These heavy bombers carry much more bombs. A kilogram-heavy aerial bomb can carry dozens of pieces. Often an H-21 heavy bomber drops a bomb, which can turn a street into ruins.

After the bomber group of the Luftwaffe launched an attack, Chelyabinsk began to turn into ruins little by little.

In the basement of the General Staff of the Russian Army, Marshal Shaposhnikov, Kalinin and Mikoyan all looked a little unhappy. The large-scale bombing by the Luftwaffe also scared them enough.

"Comrade Shaposhnikov, can this place withstand the bombing of the Germans?" Kalinin asked worriedly, stuck on the trembling ceiling.

"Don't worry, Comrade Kalinin. If this place is blown up by the Germans, then the whole of Chelyabinsk will cease to exist. There is no place safer than here." Marshal Shaposhnikov said. Appears very confident.

"That's good. Comrade Shaposhnikov, after this round of bombing by the Germans, I believe that Comrade Andreyev's attitude will change. In the next meeting, I hope you can support us!" Mikoyan said.

Marshal Shaposhnikov thought for a while, then nodded: "Okay, I will support you when the time comes!"

Although Marshal Shaposhnikov wanted to remain neutral before. However, after learning that Molotov had the support of the Germans, Marshal Shaposhnikov immediately made a decision. This also made him need to stand with Molotov and the others in the next meeting.

Kalinin and Mikoyan couldn't help being very happy when they saw Marshal Shaposhnikov's statement. With the support of the Germans, and the support of the army. Then, it is obviously impossible for Andreev to compete with Molotov for the position of supreme leader.

On the other side, in the basement where Andreyev and others were hiding, several members of the Politburo also had panic that could not be concealed.

The ceiling was vibrating, and the dust kept falling from the ceiling, making the people below feel ashamed. But at the same time, they were even more worried, for fear that the place would be blown up. In that case, they would be buried alive in it.

"Comrade Andreyev, I'm afraid we won't be able to stop the Germans. If we refuse again, the Germans will continue to bomb. At that time, how can we resist them?" Zhdanov said.

A trace of anger flashed across Andreev's face: "The Germans are trying to persecute us in this way! But even if they blow up Chelyabinsk to ruins, so what? It's a big deal for us. Just continue to retreat eastward. With the logistical supply capabilities of the Germans, can they continue to advance eastward?"

The faces of several members of the Politburo were not very good-looking. Andreyev's words seemed to be grudge. But doing so doesn't make any sense at all. The Germans have already won this war. If they continue to resist, they will only pay a higher price and lose more and more. At that time, how will they negotiate with the Germans? If you wait until all the chips in your hands are lost, what qualifications do you have to negotiate with the Germans?

The bombing of the Luftwaffe lasted for an hour and ended. However, when the Luftwaffe fighter planes left, the entire Chelyabinsk had been completely bombed into ruins. There are ruins everywhere, and the whole city has been razed to the ground.

When the German bombing ended, the leaders of the Russian Provisional Government came out of the air-raid shelter. When they saw the devastated city, they felt very sad. After all, such a city was easily destroyed by the Germans. This shows how powerful the Germans are. If they continue to fight against the Germans, can they still bear the anger of the Germans?

Even though Andreyev was still stubborn, he was also shocked.

Subsequently, the leaders of the Russian Provisional Government held a meeting again. The place where the meeting was held was a house in the suburbs that had not been bombed. Although it was a bit crude, it was still much better than those ruins.

"Comrades, the despicable Germans have just blown up Chelyabinsk to rubble. They are trying to intimidate us into agreeing to their harsh terms. But the Russians will not be easily If we are defeated, we will not succumb to the threat of force from the Germans!" Andreyev said impassionedly. As if he wanted to encourage other people to support his opinion.

But in fact, after this round of bombing by the Luftwaffe, the attitudes of these Russian leaders have changed a lot. Even Andreyev's supporters were shocked.

"Comrade Andreyev, your point of view is wrong. We have already lost the war and are no longer capable of fighting the Germans. Therefore, we need to admit defeat now. If we continue to fight, it will only make us pay a greater price Yes!" Kalinin said.

"Yes, Comrade Andreyev. We no longer have the qualifications and capital to bargain with the Germans. Under such circumstances, if we continue to fight against the Germans, the Germans will continue to attack us. At that time, We will pay a greater price!" Mikoyan also said.

Andreyev saw Kalinin and Mikoyan jumping out, and was about to refute. However, Marshal Shaposhnikov, who was present at the meeting, spoke.

"Comrades, there is a piece of news that needs to be communicated to everyone. In addition to the Germans dispatching the air force to bomb Chelyabinsk, their ground forces have also begun to set off from Moscow and Joseph Grad. The target, directed at Chelyabin said !"

Chapter 1593

Marshal Shaposhnikov's statement was somewhat unexpected. After all, he had always been neutral before. Now, he's speaking out publicly. Moreover, it seems that he is still on the side of Molotov. This caused the attitude of some neutral people among the leaders of the Russian Provisional Government to gradually change.

"Comrades, I can tell you responsibly. With our current military strength, it is impossible to resist the German attack. Once the German army advances to Chelyabinsk, we will not be able to resist it at all. Stay. At that time, we can only continue to retreat." Marshal Shaposhnikov said.

"Yes, comrades. As Comrade Shaposhnikov said, we have no way to resist the German attack. In other words, we have already lost a complete defeat. If we reject the German proposal again, If we continue to contend with the Germans, we will only pay a greater price. Therefore, agreeing to the conditions of the Germans is our best choice at present!" Mikoyan said immediately.

"You! You are betraying Russia's interests!" Andreyev trembled with anger. Marshal Shaposhnikov's statement made him very angry. Because this means that in the competition with Molotov, with the support of the army, he is already at a complete disadvantage.

"Comrade Andreyev, we are doing this for the sake of the country. If we continue to resist, our country will perish. At that time, we will have nothing. In that case, how can we face Ulyanov Comrade and Comrade Joseph?" Kalinin also said.

There is no doubt that after this incident, the Molotov faction and Andreyev have already torn faces. Originally, the Molotov faction was at a disadvantage. But now Marshal Shaposhnikov unexpectedly took Molotov's side. This immediately caused a huge change in the balance of strength between the two sides.

Other Russian leaders have changed their attitudes as a result.

"It is really inappropriate to continue to compete with the Germans now. In that case, it will not benefit us. Although the conditions of the Germans are a bit harsh. But it is better than the Germans directly sending troops to destroy our country! Khrushchev, who has always been an invisible man, expressed his opinion.

"Yes, the Germans are powerful, and we have no way to fight the Germans. Let's agree to the terms of the Germans!" Zhdanov also said. Although, he was a supporter of Andreyev before. But at this time, he undoubtedly made a choice again.

Andreyev was very angry when he saw this situation. He knew that after Shaposhnikov expressed his support for Molotov, he was done. The power in the Politburo has undergone a fundamental reversal. Even his original supporters have now abandoned him.

"I also think that we should agree to the conditions of the Germans!" Kaganovich said.

"Very good, Comrade Andreyev, do you want to continue?" Mikoyan looked at Andreyev with a smile on his face.

"Hmph! If you betray the interests of the country, the people will definitely not support you!" Andreyev said bitterly. After speaking, he left the meeting room directly. He knew that he had already failed, and if he stayed, it would have no effect, and instead he would receive endless shame.

"Comrades, then, we have reached an agreement. I left to inform Comrade Molotov that he is still dealing with the Germans in Moscow. The earlier we reach an agreement with the Germans, the earlier the Germans will stop. Military action so that we are no longer threatened by the Germans," Mikoyan said.

Other Russian leaders nodded. They all knew that Molotov had already won the competition this time. No one else could prevent Molotov from succeeding Russia as supreme leader.

Moscow, Molotov's residence, the secretary quickly entered his room.

"Comrade Molotov, this is a telegram from Chelyabinsk. The Politburo meeting has reached an agreement and accepted all the conditions proposed by the Germans. I heard that during the meeting, Comrade Shaposhnikov I expressed my support for you. Later, Comrades Khrushchev, Zhdanov and Kaganovich also expressed their support for accepting the terms of the Germans." The secretary's face was full of excitement.

He knows what this means. These leaders all support Molotov's opinion, which means that Molotov has gained everyone's approval. In the next step, Molotov will become the supreme leader of Russia, which is already a certainty.

Molotov nodded, but there was no joy on his face. He knew that the reason why the leaders of the Russian Provisional Government had such a change was entirely because of the bombing of the German Air Force.

Facing the heavy bombing of the Luftwaffe, those leaders finally succumbed. They didn't have the courage to continue to compete with the Germans. This cannot but be said to be a tragedy. The once powerful Russia is gone forever, replaced by a Russia that has been defeated. The next Russia will probably continue to exist as a small country. After all, the Russian territory east of the Ural Mountains and the Ural River is still vast. From the perspective of territorial area, it is still the most powerful country in the world. However, the land full of frozen soil, as well as the sparse population and weak industrial base, will all become bottlenecks restricting Russia's development.

However, for Molotov, the surrender of the leaders of the Russian Provisional Government is very good. In this case, at least his position in Russia has been established. Not surprisingly, after signing a peace treaty with the Germans this time, he will be able to become the supreme leader of Russia. Even Russia, which has shrunk, is still the supreme leader of Russia!

"His Excellency, Minister of Foreign Affairs, congratulations, the German Empire has won again. The Russian Provisional Government has approved the agreement and accepted the conditions proposed by your country." Molotov said.

"Very good, Your Excellency Commissioner. This is also of great benefit to your country. At least, the war is over. We will not pay any more casualties for this." Ribbentrop said.

Molotov nodded. Yes, Russia lost the war, but they didn't have to send their lads to die.

"By the way, congratulations, Your Excellency. Maybe when we meet again next time, you will have become the leader of Russia." Ribbentrop was equally clear about what happened in Chelyabinsk.

"I will always be a friend of Germany!" Molotov stated.

Chapter 1594

On July 5, 1940, German Foreign Minister Ribbentrop and Russian Politburo member and People's Commissar for Foreign Affairs Molotov, representing Germany and Germany, signed their names on the peace treaty, representing the relationship between the two countries. The war is over.

This treaty, because it was signed in Moscow, is also called the "Moscow Peace Treaty". The "Treaty" stipulates that from the date of signing the treaty, Germany and Russia will end the state of war. Russia cedes territory south of the Don and Volga to Germany. At the same time return the territories belonging to the Kingdom of Belarus. Russia recognizes the establishment of a democratic Russia. Russia and Democratic Russia each paid Germany 50 billion marks in war reparations, and all of these war reparations would be paid off within twenty years. In addition, the "Treaty" also stipulates that the military strength of Russia and Democratic Russia must be limited. No navy is allowed, and the air force can only have a small number of fighter jets and transport aircraft. The strength of the army shall not exceed 500,000 troops.

The signing of the "Moscow Peace Treaty" marks that Germany has completely won the victory against Russia. The victory of this war made Germany finally relieve the threat to the mainland. And it allowed Germany to gather all its forces to deal with the remaining enemies without interference. Moreover, Germany also obtained huge benefits from Russia, which further strengthened Germany's power.

It can be said that the fall of Russia left no doubt that Germany won this war. In the face of a powerful Germany, the United States, the island countries, and the United Kingdom can no longer defeat Germany. As long as Germany does not seek death by itself, Germany will win this battle.

Russia, which was originally powerful, lost a complete defeat in this war. Not only lost most of the army, but also lost a large area of territory. The next Russia can only linger east of the Ural Mountains and the Ural River.

After Molotov returned to Chelyabinsk, he quickly took control of the overall situation. In the following Politburo meeting, he established his position even more. With the support of other leaders, he successfully served as the supreme leader of Russia. And Marshal Shaposhnikov also entered the Politburo as he wished, and at the same time served as the People's Commissar of National Defense and the Chief of the General Staff, firmly controlling the army. Kalinin and Mikoyan, who had always supported Molotov, also stepped up to a higher position. On the contrary, Andreyev, although still holding the position of a member of the Politburo, was gradually marginalized.

After Molotov became the supreme leader of Russia, he began to find ways to develop people's livelihood and industry. But the huge war reparations made them bear a heavy burden. In order to pay huge war reparations, Russia had to sell a lot of natural resources to Germany. Although this made them no longer have to worry about war reparations, it also made them become vassals of Germany step by step industrially and economically.

As for Democratic Russia, Germany wants to support a pro-German government here. In this case, even if Russia wants to become an enemy of Germany one day, democratic Russia will become a barrier for Germany.

After the signing of the "Moscow Peace Treaty", Kaiser Qin Tian began to consider the issue of the leader of democratic Russia.

"Gentlemen, our war with Russia is over. The Russians have surrendered. Then we can start to build a democratic Russia. We need a German-friendly democratic Russia, put them between us and Russia, as the Our barrier!" Qin Tian said.

"Your Majesty, the establishment of a democratic Russia is indeed very beneficial to us. Not only can it greatly weaken Russia's strength, but it can also contain Russia and defend us against Russia!" said Prime Minister Vachter.

"So, do you have any suggestions for the leader of Democratic Russia?" Qin Tian asked.

"Your Majesty, the leader of Democratic Russia must be someone who is close to us. Otherwise, this will affect our control of Democratic Russia." Ribbentrop also said.

"Your Majesty, I do have a candidate who may be qualified." Marshal Manstein said.

"Oh? Who is it?" Qin Tian asked.

"Commander of the Russian Liberation Army, General Timoshenko!" Marshal Manstein said.

"In the battle against Russia, the Russian Liberation Army led by General Timoshenko was still very tenacious. Their performance on the battlefield was even better than those of the elite Russian troops. It can be seen that General Timoshenko led troops to fight. It's very good. In addition, General Timoshenko, the commander of the Russian Liberation Army, already has irreconcilable conflicts with the Russian side. In other words, in the eyes of the Russian side, General Timoshenko is a traitor. In this way Under such circumstances, Timoshenko has no other choice but to continue to hold our thighs tightly. If he is allowed to be the leader of Democratic Russia, he will continue to be loyal to us." Marshal Manstein continued Said.

Qin Tian nodded, and he also admitted that General Timoshenko was a very suitable candidate.

"Everyone, do you have any other candidates?" Qin Tian asked.

A group of people shook their heads, and they all believed that General Timoshenko was indeed the best candidate.

"In this case, let Timoshenko be the president of democratic Russia!" Qin Tian finally said.

"Yes, Your Majesty!" Everyone replied.

"However, even if Timoshenko is loyal to us. But at the same time, we must strengthen our control over democratic Russia. Government agencies and the military at all levels must have our talents. Make sure that even if Timoshenko has If one day betrays us, we can easily control Democratic Russia, and there will be no surprises!" Qin Tian exhorted.

"Yes, Your Majesty." The ministers of the empire agreed deeply.

Afterwards, Qin Tian summoned Timoshenko in person to show his trust in him.

Timoshenko never thought that he would have the chance to be the president of democratic Russia. When he learned that this piece of pie fell on his head, Timoshenko was also flattered. However, Timoshenko did not get carried away. He knew that if the Germans could make him the president of democratic Russia, they would be able to bring him down. Therefore, after becoming president, he must also hug the thighs of the Germans tightly. Only in this way can he continue in this position for a long time.

In front of Qin Tian, Timoshenko also patted his chest and promised that he would always be loyal to the German Empire and His Majesty the Emperor. Of course, in this case, Qin Tian certainly wouldn't fully believe it.

So far, Russia has split into two countries.

Russia surrendered and signed a peace treaty with Germany, which has a huge impact on all countries. Especially the allies of the United States are very worried. Russia was defeated and fell, which made Germany itself no longer a threat. Next, it will be very difficult for other countries to threaten Europe and Germany's mainland. After all, Germany still has the world's number one navy. Until the German Navy is defeated, no other country can threaten the European continent.

Washington, White House, President Roosevelt's office.

President Roosevelt is discussing the current situation with Hopkins advisers, Admiral Marshall, and Admiral Harold Stark.

"The Germans just dispatched a large-scale fleet to bomb Chelyabinsk. The number of fighters dispatched exceeded 2,000. The entire Chelyabinsk was bombed by the Germans. It was in that Under the circumstances, the Russians would choose to surrender to Germany." Admiral Marshall said.

"This is the so-called strategic bombing by the Germans. During their battle against Russia, they used this attack method many times, destroying Russian cities in the hinterland one after another. It not only severely damaged the morale of the Russian people, but also Extremely weakened Russia's industrial strength and war potential, enabling Germany to defeat Russia in the shortest possible time!" Admiral Harold Stark also said.

"Can our Army Air Force also launch a strategic bombing of this scale?" President Roosevelt asked.

"Your Excellency, we have produced thousands of B-17 bombers so far. Although there is a certain gap between the performance of the B-17 heavy bomber and the German Air Force's H-21 heavy bomber, the gap is very limited .In addition, our B-24 heavy bomber is about to be mass-produced. This makes our army air force fully capable of launching strategic bombing. However, we are too far away from Europe. We want to target Germany It is very difficult to carry out strategic bombing. Unless we can have a safe base in Europe." Admiral Marshall said.

Now the whole of Europe has been tied to its own chariot by Germany. In addition, the German military is strong, the navy controls the Atlantic Ocean, and the air force is stationed at bases around Europe. Other countries will be powerless to launch large-scale bombings against Germany.

"It seems that we have no way to launch a strategic bombing of Germany now. However, we can let it go for a while, and then use such tactics to attack the Germans when we have the opportunity!" President Roosevelt said.

"Yes, Your Excellency the President." Admiral Marshall nodded. However, in his opinion, unless the U.S. Navy can gain command of the sea in the Atlantic Ocean, and then fight all the way to Britain to regain the British Isles. In this way, it is possible to dispatch a large-scale fleet to bomb the German mainland. However, now it seems that this possibility is undoubtedly very small.

"Russia has surrendered, and now the Germans can concentrate on dealing with us. This is not good news for us! The situation will become more and more difficult." President Roosevelt sighed.

"Your Excellency, Germany's strength is indeed too strong. Before this, we did not expect Germany to be so strong. My country, Russia and island countries are all counted as the most powerful countries in the world. But the three of us The country laid siege to Germany and they still couldn't beat them," Hopkins said.

President Roosevelt nodded. If he had known that the Germans were so difficult to deal with, maybe he would not have made such a decision in the first place. It will not use military construction to boost the U.S. economy, and it will not let the United States embark on a road of no return.

However, it is too late to say these now. America is at war with Germany. Without defeating Germany, the United States has no future. Therefore, they can only go to the dark one way now.

"General Stark, has the Navy's warship construction plan been implemented?" President Roosevelt asked.

After the disastrous defeat of the U.S. Navy in the naval battle of the Azores, President Roosevelt approved the expansion plan of the U.S. Navy. There is no way around this. The US Navy's aircraft carriers and capital ships have almost lost in previous naval battles. If they don't desperately build more aircraft carriers and battleships, what will they use to confront the German Navy! Once the safety of the east coast cannot be maintained, then wait for Germany to directly attack their homeland.

In order to defend the security of the homeland, the United States must rebuild a powerful navy as soon as possible.

"Your Excellency, the expansion of the navy has already begun. In addition to the unfulfilled orders from major shipyards, we have ordered 24 aircraft carriers, 6 capital ships, 20 air defense cruisers, 36 heavy cruisers, and 60 ships to the shipyards. An order for 120 light cruisers and 120 destroyers. Now, major shipyards are working overtime to build these warships. Soon, there will be warships in service one after another. However, if the navy's strength is to return to its heyday, I'm afraid We have to wait until the second half of next year!" Admiral Harold Stark said.

"The Germans probably won't give us that much preparation time." President Roosevelt frowned.

"Your Excellency, the major shipyards have done their best. It is impossible to let them increase their speed." Admiral Harold Stark said.

President Roosevelt also knew that this was indeed the real situation. However, the current situation is so unfavorable to the United States that he has to think of other ways.

"Your Excellency, if the navy is really unable to resist, then there is nothing we can do. Once the Germans land on our soil is a foregone conclusion, we will have to further strengthen the army in order to resist the Germans on the land battlefield. Human attack. Even defeated the Germans on the land battlefield and wiped out their main force. Only in this way can we force the Germans to sit down and negotiate for a decent peace!" Hopkins said.

Indeed, with the defeat of Russia, the strategic goals of the United States are also changing. Although, defeating Germany and winning this war is still what they expect. However, they also know that this is very difficult, unless a miracle happens. If a decent peace can be fought for, this is already a victory for the United States. As for other problems, we can only find a way to solve them step by step. As long as the state can continue to exist, those problems can always be solved. Once the country is destroyed, then everything is really over.

"Your Excellency, the army is expanding according to the plan. In order to let the newly formed troops form combat effectiveness, they will not be like those recruits on the Russian battlefield. Once they enter the battlefield, they can only serve as cannon fodder and become the target of massacre by the Germans. Therefore, we It is necessary to allow the newly formed troops to receive sufficient training. This makes our troop expansion plan slower. However, this is very beneficial to the formation of the combat effectiveness of the troops." Admiral Marshall explained.

President Roosevelt nodded, he was very clear about this.

"In addition, our M26 heavy tank and M5 light tank have also started mass production. Next, we will produce these two tanks at the highest speed, and form a new armored division based on these two tanks. Before officially fighting the German Army, increase the number of our armored forces from 12 armored divisions to 24 armored divisions, or even 36 armored divisions!" Admiral Marshall continued.

The German army used armored forces extensively on the Russian battlefield. The high-speed penetration of tanks and armored vehicles easily tore through the Russian army's defense line, causing the Russian army to retreat steadily and suffer heavy losses.

Most of the terrain in the United States is suitable for armored forces to fight. Especially the transportation facilities in the United States are much better than those in Russia. During the economic crisis, in order to restore the economy, the US government also engaged in infrastructure construction and invested a lot of financial resources in infrastructure. This makes the traffic situation in the United States very good, which is considered good in the world. Of course, this also allows a large number of armored forces to advance along these lines of communication once the enemy attacks the continental United States.

Before this, the United States may not think that anyone can threaten their homeland. However, in the case of the Navy's complete defeat, they dare not guarantee that.

In order to fight against the powerful armored forces of Germany, the U.S. Army desperately formed armored forces. In the case that the M4 medium tank, M3 Lee medium tank and M3 light tank are not the opponents of the German Army's tiger and leopard tanks at all, the United States increased investment and developed the M26 heavy tank and M5 light tank, hoping to be able to compete with the German Army's Tiger and Leopard tank confrontation.

In another time and space, the US military also formed 16 armored divisions in World War II, and only two were heavy armored divisions, and the remaining 14 were light armored divisions. Now, the 12 armored divisions that the U.S. Army has formed are all heavy armored divisions. Each armored division of the US military has more than 300 tanks of various types. In terms of the number of tanks and armored vehicles, it is no less than an armored division of the German army. Of course, the combat effectiveness is definitely not the same.

Admiral Marshall's plan is to form at least 24 powerful armored divisions before the German army launches an offensive on the United States. In addition to the tanks equipped by other troops, the number of tanks equipped by the US military will increase to more than 10,000. In this case, in the ground war, the U.S. military would not have to be afraid of the German army at all.

Of course, this is just Admiral Marshall's own plan. To implement this plan, there are still many difficulties.

"Admiral Marshall, let the arsenals produce at full capacity. We need more tanks and armored vehicles. I don't want to wait until the Germans attack our homeland, and our soldiers have to learn from the Russians and the islanders, carrying explosives Packs and cluster grenades to bomb German tanks and armored vehicles!" President Roosevelt said.

"Yes, Your Excellency the President!" Admiral Marshall nodded.

Of course, the M26 heavy tanks, M5 light tanks, M4 medium tanks, M3Lee medium tanks and M3 light tanks equipped by the United States cannot compete with the Tiger and Leopard tanks equipped by the German army in terms of performance. However, at least the with-without issue is resolved. The armored soldiers driving those tanks to fight against the German armored forces are far better than soldiers using their flesh and blood to deal with the German armored forces. After all, although these tanks of the US military are not as good in performance, they can also penetrate German tanks if they are close enough. The armor of the tank may not be able to resist the armor-piercing projectiles fired by the tank guns of the German tanks, but at least it can resist machine gun bullets. Therefore, it is very necessary to form more armored forces.

"Your Excellency, the Navy has discovered a new situation. Since half a month ago, the number of submarines acquired by the Germans in the Southwest Atlantic has increased a lot. These submarines wantonly attacked merchant ships from South America to our country. In just half a month Over the past month, we have lost a lot of merchant ships. Obviously, the Germans intend to use this method to weaken our strength and limit our war potential. Just like they strangled the British in the last world war !" Admiral Harold Stark said.

In the last world war, Germany dispatched a large number of submarines to strangle the British sea transportation line, almost trapping the British Isles to death. It was precisely because of this that Britain was quickly defeated. After more than 20 years, the Germans are now using this tactic on the United States again.

"Our country has a vast land area and is rich in resources. The tactics of the Germans are of no use to us!" President Roosevelt frowned.

Britain will suffer under such tactics of the Germans, because Britain is an island country with a small land area and relies heavily on the resources of the colonies. The United States is not so, the United States has a vast land and abundant resources, and is known as the country chosen by heaven. Such conditions are not comparable to other countries.

"Your Excellency, most of our resources are self-sufficient. However, there are still resources that need to be sought outside. For example, rubber, saltpetre and some non-ferrous metals. They have always been imported from South America. The Germans are now I just want to cut off the trade line between us and South America to weaken our strength!" Admiral Harold Stark said.

"Has our preparations for war been affected by this?" Roosevelt asked quickly.

"It has indeed been affected to a certain extent. Although we have stored a large amount of rubber and saltpeter in advance, if we can only export but not import, it will not last long." Admiral Harold Stark said.

"We must find a way to open up new routes." President Roosevelt ordered.

"Yes, Your Excellency the President." Admiral Harold Stark replied.

"Gentlemen, the current situation is very dangerous for us. The Germans are still deliberately trying to kill us. Therefore, we must use all kinds of methods to confront the Germans and win support Get down!" said President Roosevelt.

"Yes, Your Excellency the President!"

"Your Excellency, according to the latest information we have obtained, the Germans have been preparing to attack our homeland. In their shipyards, a large number of landing ships are being built. Our spies took the risk of buying a high-ranking officer from a German shipyard. Although, from there, I learned that the warships built by the German shipyards include tank landing ships, amphibious assault ships, dock landing ships, etc." Admiral Marshall said.

President Roosevelt frowned, because it was the first time he heard the names of some ships, and he had no idea what these ships were used for. However, since the Germans are working hard to build these warships, it is obvious that these warships are of great use.

"We don't know the specific role of these warships yet. Maybe we won't know until the Germans use these warships. However, what is certain is that these warships are prepared by the Germans to attack our homeland. Initiated a landing operation. Therefore, we must take precautions in advance." Admiral Marshall continued.

"General Marshall, the defense plan for the east coast should be led by the General Staff. I hope you can strengthen the defense of the east coast as soon as possible." President Roosevelt said.

Unless there is no way to gain command of the Atlantic Ocean, there is naturally no way to keep the enemy out of the country. The local decisive battle has become the last resort.

"Yes, Your Excellency the President!" Admiral Marshall nodded.

"Your Excellency, to strengthen the defense of the east coast, the islands in the Caribbean Sea must also strengthen their defenses. Otherwise, the Germans are likely to use those islands as a springboard to attack our mainland." Harold ? Admiral Stark said.

President Roosevelt nodded: "Then, send more troops to the Caribbean Sea. Find a way to strengthen the defense there. If the Germans dare to attack the islands in the Caribbean Sea, they must resist their attack!"

"Yes, Your Excellency the President." Admiral Marshall and Harold Stark both replied.

"Your Excellency, once the Germans launch an attack on our homeland, they will definitely attack with all their strength. And if we want to resist the German attack, we must go all out. Only by doing our best is it possible Resist the German attack!" said the Hopkins consultant.

President Roosevelt's expression also became more serious. Although he was not a soldier, he could also predict what the next battle would mean for the United States. If the Germans cannot resist the attack and let the Germans invade the United States, then the United States is very likely to lose the war. Once lost in the war, the United States is completely finished. The cruel Germany will never let the United States continue to exist.

"So, this time we have no way out, we must do our best!" President Roosevelt said.

Admiral Marshall and Harold Stark also nodded again and again.

"Your Excellency, our allies in the north seem to be intimidated by the Germans. They did not participate in the Azores naval battle. But now, they cannot be allowed to sit on the hills and watch the tigers fight. They must be allowed to Only fulfill the promise and let them join in. After all, it is not only our business to resist the German attack. At the same time, it is also their obligation. The original alliance stipulated that our two countries should work together to deal with Germany Human," said the Hopkins consultant.

The ally mentioned by the Hopkins consultant is naturally the British government that has only fled to Canada. For more than two decades, the British have been recuperating. At the same time, the British from other parts of the world are also being gathered in Canada, which has greatly increased their population and strengthened their national strength day by day. Even the military strength has recovered a lot. Of course, there is still a big gap between the British Empire that dominated the world before the last world war. However, the military power of the United Kingdom is still not to be underestimated.

"Your Excellency, after more than 20 years of development, the population now ruled by the British has increased to 25 million. If they fully mobilize, they can even form an army of 2 million. For us, this is already It's a very good team!" Hopkins consultant continued.

President Roosevelt nodded. The current strength of the British government is indeed good. It's just that the great power shown by the Germans in this world war seemed to scare the British. That guy Churchill, after being the prime minister for more than 20 years, seems to have lost his previous ambitions. This made them not want to go to war with Germany. Therefore, the British Navy did not participate in the last naval battle of the Azores.

At that time, the U.S. Navy also believed that it could defeat the German Navy in one fell swoop. At the same time, in order to avoid leaking news, it did not force the British Navy to participate. Who knew that the U.S. Navy would suffer a crushing defeat in the Azores naval battle?

"Your Excellency, the British Army now has millions of troops, well-equipped and well-trained. Their armored forces have also begun to replace M26 heavy tanks and M5 light tanks. Once they fully cooperate with us, This will make us stronger. Therefore, I also think that no matter what, we must win the British to fulfill the covenant." Admiral Marshall also said.

"Yes, Your Excellency. The British Navy is also very strong. Now the Royal Navy has two 'Nelson-class' battleships, four 'Lion-class' battleships, and four other 'N3-class' battleships. It is about to be completed. The 'Nelson-class' battleships and the 'Lion-class' battleships are equipped with 406 mm main guns, while the 'N3 class' battleships are equipped with 457 mm main guns. In addition, the British Royal Navy also has four 'Hood class' battlecruisers, and four more 'G3 class' battlecruisers are nearing completion. Once all the battleships and battlecruisers of the British Navy are completed, they will have 18 capital ships. And, these capital ships They are all cutting-edge capital ships with strong performance, and they are fully capable of challenging the German Navy's capital ship formation." Admiral Harold Stark said.

Although in the last world war, the British navy was almost completely lost. But after more than 20 years of development, they have once again accumulated a rich family background. And these family properties are even more coveted by Americans who have suffered heavy losses.

"Your Excellency, the British Navy has also made great achievements in aircraft carriers. Now, they have eight aircraft carriers in service. Although they are all medium-sized aircraft carriers, they can only carry forty or fifty carrier-based aircraft. But if they can cooperate If we fight, it will be better than nothing." Admiral Harold Stark said.

Different from the U.S. Navy's focus on developing large aircraft carriers, the British Navy prioritizes the development of medium-sized aircraft carriers. So far, there have been eight medium-sized aircraft carriers. Moreover, the "Giant-class" aircraft carriers that are about to be mass-produced are also medium-sized aircraft carriers. It can be seen that the British Navy has great confidence in these medium-sized aircraft carriers. Otherwise, huge resources would not be invested in this area.

"The British Air Force also has a very strong force. There are more than 2,000 combat aircraft such as fighter jets and bombers!" Admiral Marshall said.

"The British have a powerful army and navy. Although they can't compare with us, they can't fight against Germany. However, if they can fully cooperate with us, let alone resist the German attack in North America. It's possible." The Hopkins consultant also said.

President Roosevelt nodded. The powerful army rebuilt by the British over the past two decades is indeed what the Americans covet. If these British military forces can be put into the war against Germany, it will be very useful to resist the German attack.

"No matter what, Britain is our ally. When they fled from the British Isles to Canada, we provided them with asylum, which allowed them to survive in Canada. They also promised to form a partnership with us. Allies. Now is the time for them to fulfill their covenant. We need to let them know that there is no other choice now, and they must cooperate with us to resist the German invasion!" President Roosevelt said.

"Your Excellency Hopkins, go to Toronto and talk to His Excellency Churchill. I hope that His Excellency Churchill can make the right choice." President Roosevelt said.

"Yes, Your Excellency the President." Advisor Hopkins nodded.

After leaving the White House, Hopkins flew to Toronto that afternoon.

Toronto is not far from New York, so soon Hopkins appeared in the new British Prime Minister's Office.

"Hello, Prime Minister, I haven't seen you for a long time, but you are still handsome!" Hopkins smiled.

"Hello, Advisor, you are still the same!" Churchill said with a smile.

After fleeing from the British Isles to Canada, Churchill took control of the government. Even, they took the counterattack of the British Isles as their goal, which allowed Churchill to take the opportunity to strengthen his control over the army and the government, and completely control the power of the country. More than 20 years later, Churchill still holds the highest power in this country. Even the British King George VI is nothing more than a puppet without any real power.

"Please sit down, Your Excellency the Advisor."

After exchanging pleasantries, the conversation between the two gradually got to the point.

"Your Excellency, the news that our navy suffered heavy losses in the Azores naval battle must be clear to you," Hopkins said.

Churchill nodded. The U.S. Navy suffered a disastrous defeat in the naval battle of the Azores and suffered huge losses. The news was clear from the British side. It is precisely because of this that the ministers of the British government were scared enough. Before, they all believed that the U.S. Navy still had a great chance of winning. After all, the U.S. Navy is so powerful now. However, the final result was unexpected.

Before the U.S. Navy launched the Azores naval battle, the British government also guessed the American plan through clues. However, they remained silent. The British hope that the Americans can fight the Germans desperately, so that they can reap the benefits. Even the British Navy is ready. Once the U.S. Navy wins the Azores naval battle, the Royal Navy will immediately rush to the British Isles to prepare for the recovery of the British Isles. But after the news of the fiasco of the US Navy came, all the actions of the Royal Navy died down.

This also made senior officials of the British government begin to doubt whether the United States could win this war. In other words, the United States and its allies, that is, all countries including the United Kingdom, are not the opponents of the Germans. If they fail, their dream of regaining the British Isles will be in vain. Not only that, I am afraid that even Canada will not be spared.

When the British government first fled to Canada, they still wanted to counterattack the British Isles. However, after more than two decades, not many people have such ambitions anymore. After all, Canada's geographical conditions are much better than those of the British Isles. If you can live here forever, many British people must be willing. Instead of fighting the Germans desperately and not knowing whether they will succeed, it is better to extinguish the unrealistic delusions and stay in Canada honestly.

It is precisely because of these reasons that the British government has been less active after the outbreak of this world war.

"Your Excellency, I am deeply saddened by the failure of your country's navy. The strength of the German navy has become stronger after more than 20 years of development. It is even more difficult for us to defeat the German navy. And If the German navy cannot be defeated, it will naturally mean nothing to gain command of the Atlantic Ocean and counterattack the European continent. It can be said that the Germans are already invincible in this war." Prime Minister Churchill said.

When he learned that the US special envoy was coming to Toronto, Churchill had expected that the Americans would definitely want to persuade them to fulfill the treaty. Churchill, however, had his own concerns.

Consultant Hopkins nodded: "Yes, the German navy is very powerful, there is no doubt about it."

"Your Excellency, Russia has also been defeated by the Germans. Now, the Germans have de facto monopolized the European continent. This will make the Germans have no other threats. They can concentrate on using all their strength to deal with Other enemies. This is not a good thing for us. Even if we unite to counter Germany, which has unified the entire European continent, it may be very difficult!" Prime Minister Churchill continued.

The Hopkins adviser nodded in agreement with Churchill.

As much as I don't want to admit it, it's the truth. After the German navy won the victory in the naval battle of the Azores, this gave Germany an absolute advantage in this war. In addition, Germany has now completely defeated Russia, removed the threat from the European continent to Germany itself, and made Germany invincible.

This is undoubtedly extremely detrimental to many of Germany's allies. It is undoubtedly very difficult for them to defeat Germany.

"Your Excellency Prime Minister, Germany does have a huge advantage. It is very difficult to defeat Germany. But now it is not that we want to defeat Germany, but that Germany wants to destroy us in one fell swoop through this war. Therefore, we must do our best to resist the German attack. Otherwise, our country will perish!" Hopkins wrote.

Churchill nodded with a serious expression.

The current situation is indeed very unfavorable to them. Germany has completely taken the initiative. This gave Germany an absolute advantage in this war. Moreover, in terms of Germany's strategic goal of dominating the world, it will definitely use this war to destroy the United States, Britain, and other opponents in one fell swoop. Remove all threats to Germany's world hegemony, so that Germany's hegemony can be further stabilized. Therefore, even if the United States and the United Kingdom are willing to admit defeat, they are unwilling to continue fighting. However, the decision-making power is not in their hands.

"Your Excellency Prime Minister, you are also very clear about the current situation. The Germans will not give up until they destroy us. Therefore, if we want our country to continue to exist, there is only one way, that is, to resist with all our strength. Stop the German attack! Under such circumstances, Britain and the United States must unite. Only in this way can we have a glimmer of hope." Hopkins continued.

Churchill was silent, seemingly considering Hopkins' words.

"Your Excellency, according to our analysis, if we can withstand the German attack during the war and cause heavy damage to the German troops who landed, maybe we can make the Germans retreat. In that case, we can fight for a decent Of course, the Germans will continue to hold the hegemony of the world. However, we can continue to exist in the Americas. In the future, we will look for opportunities to defeat Germany again. Once we lose, we will not be able to withstand the Germans. Then , waiting for us, I am afraid it will perish." Hopkins said.

Churchill nodded: "Your Excellency, you are right, there are only two roads before us now. Either perish, or resist the German attack and let our country continue to exist. Besides, There is no other choice."

"So, Prime Minister, is Britain willing to cooperate fully with the American Republic?" Hopkins asked.

"Your Excellency, I will give you an answer tomorrow afternoon!" Churchill said.

Although, Churchill now monopolizes the power of the British Empire. However, when such an important matter is involved, he still has to discuss it with other cabinet ministers. Of course, Churchill has a lot of power in the cabinet, and generally speaking, those cabinet ministers will not oppose Churchill's will.

"Okay, Your Excellency the Prime Minister. I hope you can give me good news!" Hopkins said with a smile.

Churchill nodded. In fact, he had already made a decision in his heart. It's just that he didn't say it right away.

That night, the British cabinet held an emergency meeting. There is only one topic for the meeting, and that is the current world situation and the future of Britain.

There is no doubt that this is a very heavy topic. The ministers of the British cabinet all have very serious expressions.

"Your Excellency, Prime Minister, do we have to participate in the war? Can we negotiate peace with the Germans, give up counterattacking the British Isles, and stay in Canada instead!" Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden asked.

Churchill shook his head: "This is almost impossible. The Germans want to sweep away all forces that threaten their world dominance. In addition, the puppet government on the British Isles will not let us go. In addition In addition, we have an alliance with the United States. Once we want to violate the agreement, the Americans will not let us go. Although our military strength has been greatly developed. However, the military strength of the United States is expanding faster. If the Americans think we have betrayed the covenant and want to attack us, it will be difficult for us to resist."

"Then there is no other choice? Is it only possible to follow the Americans all the way to the dark?" Sir Kingsley Wood, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, said with a frown.

Obviously, the senior officials of the British cabinet are not optimistic about confrontation with Germany at all. They think that if they participate in the confrontation, they will most likely lose.

"From the current point of view, I am afraid that this is the only option. However, if we join forces with the United States to defeat Germany in North America, or resist the German attack and cause them heavy damage. Perhaps the war will be over. We can force the Germans to conclude a peace treaty with us," Churchill said.

"Your Excellency Prime Minister, this is very difficult. With the strength of us and the Americans, it is almost impossible to defeat the German attack!" David Magson, Secretary of State for War, said.

"Yes, Your Excellency Prime Minister. Germany's military strength is already well-deserved number one in the world." Lord of the Navy Sir Dudley also said.

Churchill nodded: "I know that the Germans are very strong, terrifyingly strong. But do we have any other options now? There is only one option to ensure the continued existence of our country. That is to do our best. In the future war, resist the German attack and thwart their plot!"

A group of cabinet ministers knew that Churchill has made a decision. Everyone fell silent. They also knew that there was no way for Churchill to make such a choice.

"Mr. Magson, from now on, the army will further expand its scale. I hope that the total strength of the army can increase to 1.5 million people. And, form ten armored divisions!" Churchill said.

"Yes, Your Excellency the Prime Minister." Minister of War David Magson nodded.

"Sir Dudley, I hope that the Navy's 'N3-class' battleships, 'G3-class' battlecruisers, and 'Giant-class' aircraft carriers can speed up the progress. We need a stronger naval force to deal with the Germans!"

"Yes, Your Excellency the Prime Minister!" Sir Dudley replied with a serious face.

Chapter 1600

Russia's surrender and the signing of the "Moscow Peace Treaty" represented Germany's final victory on the Russian battlefield. Although, the losses of the German army on the battlefield were not small. But these losses were nothing compared to Germany's victories.

Besides, through this war, Germany not only lifted Russia's threat to Germany itself. At the same time, many benefits have been obtained. The large fertile territory south of the Don and Volga rivers alone is enough to make Germany a lot of money. Not to mention, Germany also received as much as 50 billion marks in war reparations.

In addition, Germany's many servants and protectorates divided up the remaining 50 billion marks of war reparations according to the size of their contributions to the war. This allowed Germany's servants and protectorates to gain a lot of benefits, and it made them willing to support Germany to continue the war. In particular, those slave states and protectorates who did not participate in the war against Russia strongly demanded that they be sent to fight against the United States. In that case, they can not only show their loyalty to Germany, but also gain benefits after defeating the United States.

It can be said that Germany has strengthened the confidence of many vassal states and protectorates through repeated victories on the battlefield, enabling Germany to integrate the power of the entire Europe and fight for Germany's victory.

Now Europe is still the center of the world. Germany, which has mastered the whole of Europe, is undoubtedly invincible in the world. It is simply impossible for other countries to challenge Germany and compete with Germany for the position of world hegemony. Even if they unite, they can't even think about winning.

After Russia is defeated, Germany's strategic center of gravity will also change accordingly. The huge army thrown into the Russian battlefield began to withdraw gradually, except for a small number of slave national * troops to maintain law and order, and wait until the democratic Russian army can control the overall situation before withdrawing. This also allowed Germany to have sufficient troops to be deployed on other battlefields.

Now, Germany's main enemies are the United States on the other side of the Atlantic, Britain following behind the United States, and the island country on the other side of the world. These enemies are located in two directions. In other words, Germany still has to face two fronts. Even if Germany's military strength is strong, it is very difficult to invest the main force in two battlefields at the same time and win. After all, the strength of Germany's enemies is also not weak. After crazy expansion of armaments, they all have very strong military power.

For this reason, Kaiser Qin Tian held a military meeting the morning after the signing of the "Moscow Peace Treaty" to discuss the deployment of the next war. Defeating Russia is nothing more than allowing Germany to further establish its advantage in this war. If you want to win the final victory, there is undoubtedly a very long distance.

"Everyone, thanks to your efforts, we have won the victory on the Russian battlefield. We have also ended the battle on the Russian battlefield. Next, we only need to face two fronts." Qin Tian said.

"Your Majesty, it is because of your wise leadership that we were able to defeat those enemies and win the war." Marshal Manstein said. Although these words seemed to be flattering, the other high-ranking military and political officials all nodded their heads in agreement.

Emperor Qin Tian, who inherited the throne in the last world war, led Germany to victory all the way. Now, it will lead Germany to win another world war and completely consolidate Germany's world hegemony. This also makes Kaiser Qin Tian already deified in Germany. His words can even represent the will of God, and no one will refuse.

"Although I can provide assistance to the army, you are the ones who are really fighting on the battlefield. I hope you can continue to bring more victories to me and the empire," Qin Tian said.

"The empire will win!" All the generals said one after another. Everyone's eyes were shining with determination. They all almost believed that Germany would definitely be able to win the next war.

"Everyone, after Russia's defeat, our enemies are only the United States, Britain, and island countries. So, which direction should we give priority to defeating these enemies? These enemies are far away from the empire, making it impossible for us to be in the same direction at the same time." The main force was invested in two directions." Qin Tian said.

"Your Majesty, we have already discussed. No matter which direction the enemy is attacked first, the enemy in the other direction will take the opportunity to achieve greater development. This is a completely unsolvable problem for the empire." Manstein Marshal Yin said.

Qin Tian nodded. If Germany tries its best to attack the United States and Britain on the other side of the Atlantic, the island countries on the other side of the world will take the opportunity to expand their armaments and plunder more resources from Southeast Asia. It will be even more difficult for Germany to perish as an island country in the future.

The reverse is also the same. Although the military strength of the island country is not as good as that of the United States, the island country is too far away from Germany. If Germany wants to destroy the island country, it has to send a large army to the Pacific Ocean for thousands of miles. This is obviously impossible to do in a short period of time. When Germany is going all out to deal with the island countries, the United States and the United Kingdom will inevitably use this time to develop stronger. Even seize this opportunity and give Germany a fatal blow.

"Then, what is the final choice of the General Staff?" Qin Tian asked.

"Your Majesty, we compared the advantages and disadvantages of the two battlefields, and finally decided to take the defensive in the Pacific Ocean first, and take the offensive in the Atlantic Ocean. In the Far East battlefield, even if the strength of the island countries expands, there is a limit. They will not be too strong. After we solve the United States and Britain, with the military strength of the empire, it will be easy to destroy the island country." Marshal Manstein said.

Qin Tian nodded. Compared with island countries, the United States has greater development potential. Once they are given enough time, they will organize a stronger military force, which will undoubtedly pose a greater threat to Germany. Therefore, it is more beneficial for Germany to give priority to the destruction of the United States and the United Kingdom.

In addition, North America and Europe are only separated by the Atlantic Ocean. Although this caused no small difficulty for the German army to attack North America. However, in the case of mastering the command of the Atlantic Ocean, Germany can still land in North America relatively easily. Therefore, it is undoubtedly more beneficial for Germany to attack North America first.
